CITIZEN HERO NABS SLAYER

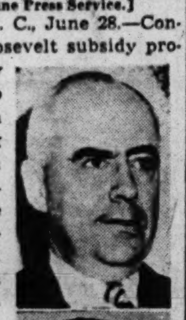
DAVIS RESIGNS AS FOOD CHIEF; RIPS F.D.R. PLAN

Marvin Jones Will Succeed Him.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—Condemning the Roosevelt subsidy program as wholly inadequate to check inflation and complaining that he had been given a responsibility without the authority to fulfill it, Chester C. Davis resigned as war food administrator in a letter to President Roosevelt dated June 16.



Chester Davis [top] and Judge Marvin Jones.

The President accepted the resignation today, making public the Davis letter and his own letter defending his administration against the criticism of ineptitude in fighting inflation.

To succeed Mr. Davis the President appointed Judge Marvin Jones of the Court of Claims. Judge Jones is a former Texas congressman who served for many years as chairman of the house committee on agriculture. He also served recently as chairman of the international food conference at Hot Springs, Va.

Culmination of Dissatisfaction.

Davis, who was named war food administrator only three months ago, has been threatening to resign for some time not only because of his lack of sympathy with the subsidy program but because of inadequate power to mobilize the nation's food supply. The policies of the price administration, he continued, were operating to nullify his measures for increasing the production of food.

A movement has been afoot for several weeks, led chiefly by Rep. Hampton P. Fulmer [D., S. C.], chairman of the house committee on agriculture, to make the war food administrator a food czar who would take over the food price jurisdiction of OPA. Fulmer today declared war on administration manipulations to block his food czar bill and announced he would endeavor to inject it into the Commodity Credit corporation bill now in conference.

"Sooner or later the OPA," said Fulmer, "is going to fail utterly and unless we do something definitely to remedy the serious situation congress will be left holding the bag."

Introduced in Senate.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] introduced in the senate the Fulmer bill as approved by the house agriculture committee.

"We must have a centralized control over food to save the crisis," said Vandenberg, "and Chester Davis was the best man in America to handle such a responsibility. The Fulmer bill would meet the lack of authority Davis complained of."

Universal regret at the resignation of Davis was the reaction of leaders in congress. Comment dwelt on the fact that Davis had been stymied by the OPA. The President's attitude found few defenders.

Follows Rebuff to President.

Acceptance of Davis' resignation came apparently as the answer of the President to the action of the senate Saturday in rejecting the Roosevelt plan to pay subsidies to dealers to compensate for losses in rolling back prices of meat, butter, and coffee. The house already had taken the same action, which was a repudiation of the administration by congress second in magnitude only to the overriding of the President's veto of the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill on Friday.

Davis in his letter asked to be relieved of his post after shaping up the 1944 food program which he thought could be done before the middle of next month. Following the rejection of subsidies by congress in line with Davis' criticism the President lost no time in letting Davis out, telling him that his successor would attend to the 1944 food program.

"It would be unfair to you to in-

TRAILS HOLDUP KILLER 5 MILES ON 'L,' TROLLEY

Aged Jeweler Shot in Pistol Duel.

William F. Mahoney, 43 years old, 808 South Pulaski road, a motorman on the Madison street car line, last night trailed for five miles an ex-convict who had just killed a jeweler in an attempted robbery. At the end of the long chase, Mahoney, unarmed, but backed by two policemen with drawn guns, seized the killer.

At 6 o'clock last evening Joseph Schulte, 79 years old, was preparing to close up his small jewelry and optical shop at 3155 Harrison street when a big man with a gun in his hand entered. The gunman and the jeweler were alone in the store. Police reconstructing the scene believe the robber started ransacking the shop for gems and money and Schulte seized his revolver and fired a shot at him. For when police found Schulte's body on the floor, a bullet hole under the left eye, his gun lay near his right hand and one shell had been discharged.

Pursues Tall Gunman.

Among those who heard the shots fired by the killer and his victim were Mahoney and William Prost. Prost lives on the floor above the shop. He ran down stairs, saw the tall gunman in a gray suit run east on Harrison street, and followed him.

Mahoney, who had long known the jeweler, was waiting for a street car across the street when the shooting took place. He was on his way to dinner. When young Prost began the chase, Mahoney and others joined in. When they reached California avenue and Harrison street, they lost their quarry. Mahoney, who had seen the gunman looking toward the "L," suspected he was watching for a station and made for the California avenue station on the Garfield Park branch.

When the gunman ran along the platform and boarded a train, Mahoney was right behind him. On the car, Mahoney took a seat directly behind the killer.

Gets Police Support.

When the gunman alighted at Franklin and Van Buren streets, Mahoney anticipated him, got on the platform, and followed him down to the street. As the killer walked toward Van Buren and Wells street, Mahoney, still trailing him, picked up Policeman Joseph Killian. The two trailers followed the robber onto a northbound Wells street car.

Policeman Killian went to the front platform. Killian explains he didn't attempt an immediate arrest because he "feared the man would start shooting and injure innocent car riders."

When the street car arrived at Wacker drive and Wells street, Killian spied Policeman William J. Krueger on duty at the bridge. Mahoney told the motorman to hold the car, got off, and returned with Krueger. Then, with the two policemen, Mahoney ran in and pinioned the gunman's arms to his sides. The policemen then seized the killer.

At the Desplaines street station, the killer gave his name as Ernst Nautski, 35 years old. He said he had lived at 670 Sheridan road for the last five days. He admitted he had served five years in the Jefferson City [Mo.] penitentiary for robbery. When Mahoney identified him the captive said:

"Yes, I shot at a guy."

Later, at the county morgue, Nautski denied the shooting.

Weapon Found on Prisoner.

When Mahoney and Policemen Killian and Krueger seized Nautski they found, jammed into his trousers under his belt, a .38 caliber revolver from which two shots had been fired.

Schulte was unmarried and lived alone behind his shop. His only companion was a dog he had owned for several years. Mahoney said he had often stopped to chat with the old man.

"When I heard the shot," Mahoney said, "I knew something had happened to my old friend. I was scared all right, but I kept telling myself a good Irishman shouldn't let a dirty gunman frighten him, and so I kept following."

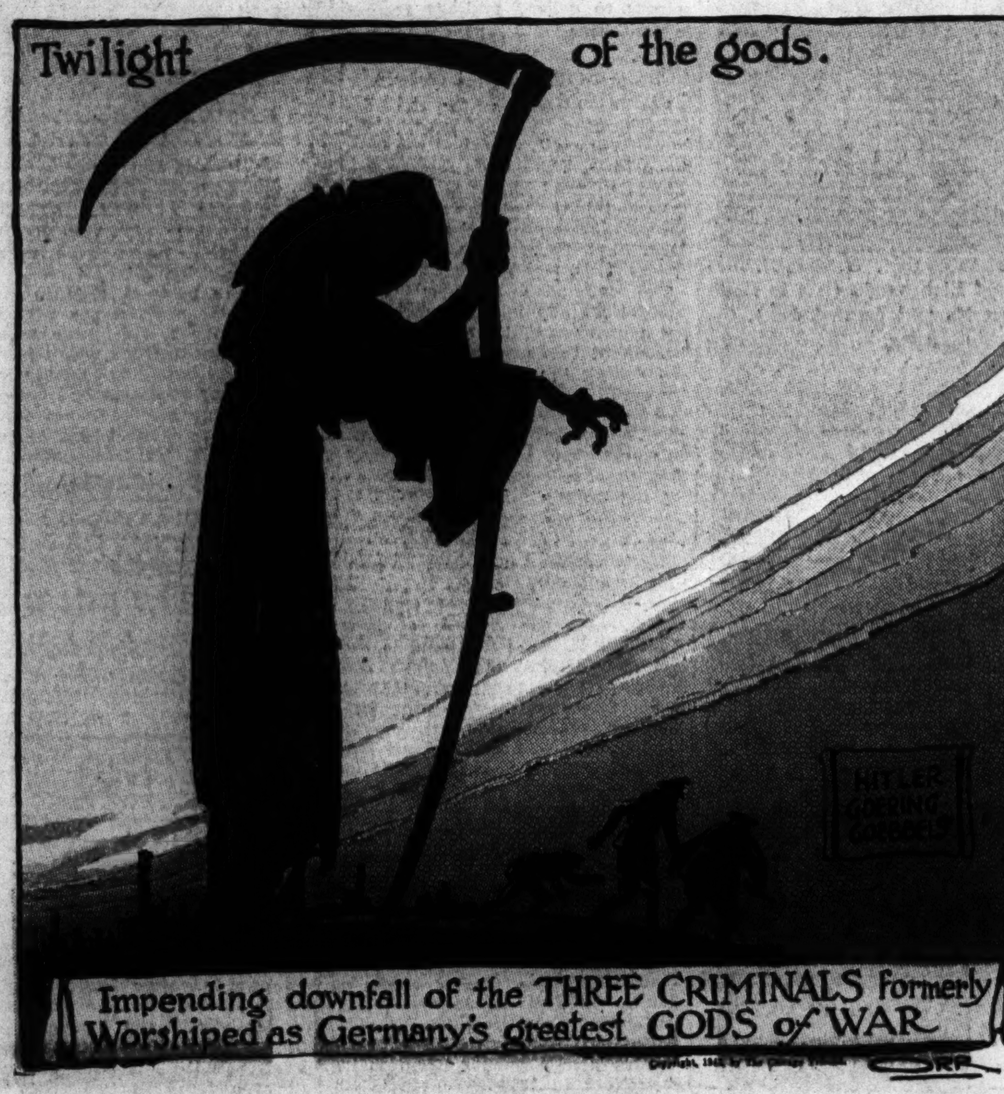
GÖTTERDÄMMERUNG



Four Indicted for Defective Cartridge Deal

New York, June 28 [Special].—Four individuals and a corporation were named defendants today in a federal indictment charging that they used the mails fraudulently in a scheme to sell defective cartridges to the Russian, Chinese, and French governments.

[Defendants, indicted by United States on charge of world-wide chemical plot, vigorously deny wrongdoing. Story on page 2.]

The defective cartridges would not go off when fired, but would cause a flareback which would jeopardize the person shooting the rifle, or would jam the rifle so that the magazine would explode, according to Assistant United States Atty. Samuel H. Reis, who obtained the indictment. It contained three counts, each punishable by a maximum prison sentence of five years.

Russia Intended Victim.

The intended victim of the scheme was the Amtorg Trading corporation, purchasing agency for the soviet government.

The defendants are the Diart company, Inc., of Hicksville, N. Y., which operates a cartridge reloading plant; Nathan Silverman, president and treasurer of the company; Moe Sagara, manager of the Hicksville plant; Gerald Mosiello, a convicted burglar, who acted as financial backer of the Diart company, and Anthony Mosiello, Gerald's brother.

With the exception of Silverman they were arraigned before Federal Judge Murray Hulbert and released in bail of $5,000 each, pending trial. No date was fixed.

Russian Order Not Delivered.

Reis said that the defendants contracted with Amtorg to make 2,000,000 rounds of 45 caliber reload cartridges.

The FBI discovered these cartridges were defective, Reis, said, and that particular order never reached Russia. The same defendants, however, had previously held a contract to deliver 3,720,000 rounds of the same type of ammunition to the French Indo-Chinese government. This consignment eventually found its way to Russia and one-third of it was defective, Reis said.

Britain Cuts Price of New Potatoes to 4 Cts. a Pound

LONDON, June 28.—The retail price of new potatoes, which are now glutting the market, will be reduced to a little more than four cents a pound Thursday, the food ministry announced today.

3 BULLETS TOUCHED OFF THE FIRST WORLD WAR 29 YEARS AGO

Twenty-nine years ago yesterday in the Bosnian city of Sarajevo, near which Jugo-Slav guerrillas now are battling the axis invaders, a young Serb Nationalist assassinated Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria and his wife, Sophie, and touched off the first World war.

The archduke was being driven to the town hall from the railway station when a bomb was thrown at his car, wounding an aide. On the return trip to the station the route was changed, but the royal chauffeur misunderstood and started out on the previous route. As he halted and started to turn around Gavrilo Princip, a Serbian student, fired a pistol three times, killing the royal couple.

The assassination roused the Austrians against the Serbs. Austria's ultimatum and attack on Serbia brought Russia into the war; Germany, acting under an alliance with Austria, declared war on Russia; France joined in thru her alliance with Russia, and Britain came in thru alliances with Belgium and France.

SPEAKER CLARK RENOMINATED TO ONTARIO HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., June 28.—Maj. James H. Clark, speaker of the Ontario parliament, tonight was renominated as Liberal candidate for the legislature in his Windsor-Sandwich riding for the forthcoming provincial election.

Reports that he would not run followed Maj. Clark's Detroit speech in which he said 40 to 45 per cent of Canadians would vote for union with the United States.

His nomination was uncontested. Peter Heenan, Ontario labor minister, attended the convention to urge the support of labor for Clark.

Drunk Reserves Cell from 40 Miles Away

Omaha, Neb., June 28 (AP).—The night desk sergeant at the Omaha police station was a bit surprised when he took a long distance call from Fremont, Neb.—40 miles from here—and the caller said, "make room for me, I'm coming in on the bus from Fremont—and I'm really drunk." Two hours later a man reeled into the station, identified himself as the Fremont caller, and was promptly jailed for drunkenness.

Fly 18,000 Disabled from North Africa

New York, June 28 (AP).—Revelation that 18,000 sick and wounded men had been evacuated from the African war theater by airplanes of the United States army was made tonight by Brig. Gen. David N. W. Grant, air surgeon of the army air forces.

Gen. Grant, in a speech to the Advertising Federation of America, said that "some days we moved as many as 600 patients—that's three times as many patients as can be carried by a hospital train on any one trip."

Not all the 18,000 men were Americans, he said. Many were British and French.

Psychological Effect Good.

"The use of aerial evacuation will be greatly increased in the future," said Gen. Grant. "Aside from medical efficiency brought about by removal from the zones of operation to a surrounding of relative peace and quiet, it is quite obvious that an important psychological element is involved.

"For a wounded man to know he is soon to be in a safe, friendly area, clean and comfortable with all the skill and equipment of modern medicine at his side, his will to recovery is much greater. For troops to know that a means is at hand for their care if they are injured increases their morale."

High Praise for Plasma.

Commenting on what air power had done to aid military medicine, Gen. Grant recalled the air forces once flew a complete 250 bed hospital from one African battlefield to another when the shifting of hospital facilities became urgently necessary.

The general attributed the low death rate among wounded men in this war to four factors, and said they ranked thus in importance: blood plasma, quick evacuation to medical treatment, sulfa drugs, and surgery.

"Most of you cannot do much about the last three," he told the advertising men, "but every one of you can help with the first—blood plasma. Do everything you can to aid the Red Cross and other agencies in going ahead with this work. It is the No. 1 factor in saving our soldiers' lives."

New York, June 28 (AP).—CBS quoted a French language broadcast of the British radio today as saying that a Parisian brother of Gen. Charles de Gaulle who was arrested recently by the Germans, had escaped from custody.

OPA Rule Puts Speedometers in a Big Dither!

Automobile speedometers are cutting strange and unusual capers, gyrating as never before, it was disclosed yesterday, all because car owners are trying to roll up or decrease mileage to suit the regimentation whimsies of office of price administration rationing boards.

Raymond S. McKeough, regional OPA administrator, warned motorists recently to be careful of "overdriving." When A ration books are renewed on July 21, OPA boards will be watching the mileage as certified on tire inspection certificates, he said.

Where an A book holder has driven more miles than his quota of A coupons would allow under OPA's assumption that motorists should get 15 miles per gallon of gasoline, the driver will have to do some explaining.

Yardstick for Boards.

It was indicated that 15 miles per gallon was the yardstick that the rationing boards were going to apply. That is the reason for the strange shenanigans that are going on among the dashboard indicators on many automobiles.

For instance, on at least one big, high priced car—a 9 mile a gallon gas eater—the speedometer shows 15 miles every time the car travels 10 miles.

Another car, an economical 20 miles per gallon vehicle, has a speedometer that registers only 15 miles for every 20 miles traveled.

The men who own these cars aren't trying to fool themselves, and they would rather not have to fool the government. But this type of travel gymnastics is the only argument their ration boards will listen to, they say.

Business Is Good.

This situation was revealed by the experts whose business it is to repair and adjust automobile speedometers. And they say their business is getting remarkably good. Their only trouble is a shortage of speedometer parts.

Motorists come in every day and want their speedometers "unhooked" because they are "too noisy." The old stall—"I want the speedometer turned back because I want to sell the car"—is another frequently told story, altho the used car market is so good today and used cars in such demand that buyers seldom glance at the speedometer.

Wrapped in Rags.

Into one shop came an attractive woman who carried a speedometer wrapped in rags. Her husband had taken it apart, with the intention of setting back the mileage. He couldn't get the little dials back together again. The experiment cost $10.

The gas coupons, worth four gallons of gasoline, are supposed to provide 60 miles of travel each, under OPA dogma. Thus the holder of an A card, with one coupon a week, is supposed to travel not more than 240 miles a month.

Take the situation of the fellow owning the big "gas eater" who had the speedometer expert speed up the pace of his mileage recorder. When his gasoline coupons gave out, he applied to his rationing board for a supplemental ration. The mileage he had traveled, as disclosed by the figures entered on the OPA tire record form when he had had his tires inspected, showed he hadn't gone nearly as far as his coupons should have carried him, at 15 miles a gallon. The board accused him of selling or giving away his coupons.

Then there was the fellow with the economical car, who averaged 20 miles a gallon. His board couldn't see how he could get so far on one coupon a week and accused him of buying or begging coupons illicitly from other motorists or black market dealers.

Trying to Get Along.

"These fellows," the speedometer expert said, "are just trying to get along under the regulations and here they have to cheat in order to be honest."

Some garage mechanics have devices for turning back speedometers.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that the new OPA form for renewal of A cards and its attendant tire inspection record has no blank space for the reporting of speedometer readings. This would indicate that rationing boards aren't supposed to concern themselves with actual mileage traveled any more.

PLANS TO HALT JULY 4 DRIVERS AT GREEN BAY

Asks Police to Aid, but They Balk.

Green Bay, Wis., June 28 [Special].—The office of price administration will try to make this gateway city to the vacation country of northern Wisconsin a hot spot for Illinois and other out of state motorists over the July 4 week-end in an attempt at gasoline rationing enforcement.

Announcement of the drive, which will be conducted on highways in the Green Bay area by halting drivers and forcing them to account for gasoline and coupons in their possession, was made today by John C. Reinhart, district OPA director, and added new fuel to controversy over OPA enforcement tactics.

Disclosure that Green Bay police have balked at an OPA request for the assistance of police officers in stopping and questioning drivers came as a sequel to Reinhart's statement. At the same time it was learned the Wisconsin division of the American Automobile association has wired OPA officials in Milwaukee a strongly worded protest against assumption by Wisconsin rationing boards of jurisdiction over state motorists.

Fond du Lac Hearing Today.

Legality of the OPA procedure will be at issue tomorrow in Fond du Lac when the Fond du Lac war price and rationing board will give a formal hearing to Harry J. Frankfort, a Chicagoan, who was among the Illinois drivers halted there June 19 when the OPA introduced prohibition era enforcement methods to motorists of the middle west.

Frankfort demanded this hearing after questioning the board's authority to give him a summary trial. Seven other motorists who received immediate trials were given penalties ranging from confiscation of coupons to suspension of rationing privileges for the duration. Because he was stopped and detained by Fond du Lac police, who were cooperating with OPA agents, Frankfort has threatened a civil damage suit against the chief of police.

Green Bay Police Hesitant.

H. J. Bero, inspector of police for the Green Bay police department, said Reinhart has called upon the department for assistance in the week-end activities, but asserted, "We will not send police officers unless told by City Atty. Thomas C. Dwyer that it is legal for officers to halt motorists for the purpose of inquiring into their use of gasoline."

Dwyer said an official legal opinion has been requested of him by the police department and that he hopes to be able to complete it tomorrow. His study of the law so far has failed to disclose any authority for police to make summary arrests in enforcing nonstatutory regulations, he said.

"This is far from an open and shut matter," he said, "and it is a serious thing to expose our police officers to the danger of civil suits. There seems to be no doubt that halting citizens under such circumstances and forcing them to submit to hearings constitutes technical arrest."

Aims at Out of Staters.

Reinhart said that the week-end campaign will be directed against "out of state motorists who are blatantly defying the rationing program by speeding thru our district on gasoline that they never should have been able to get." He will use every investigator in the district office, he said, and war price and rationing boards thruout the district will be in session during the week-end to conduct hearings and inflict penalties.

While Reinhart, whose district includes 23 countries in northeastern Wisconsin, went ahead with plans for the holiday checkup, it was learned he had originally planned to conduct a checkup in the Green Bay area without warning last Saturday. This scheme was abandoned when it was discovered there had been a leak in the plans, and it was

DEFENDANT RIPS U.S. CHARGES OF CHEMICAL PLOT

New Concepts of Law Are Criticized.

New York, June 28 [Special].—Vigorous denials of any wrongdoing were made tonight by defendant spokesmen in answer to a federal grand jury indictment, returned here earlier in the day, charging three American chemical companies with conspiracy to form a world-wide cartel in titanium compounds.

The indictment charged the alleged conspiracy was made with German, British, Italian, Japanese and other foreign interests to control the compounds used as pigments in the manufacture of three strategic war materials — paints, glass and rubber.

"At the time these transactions were made they were considered legal and proper but today, under current conceptions of law enforcement, they are considered illegal by the department of justice," said Fletcher W. Rockwell, president of the National Lead company.

Foreign Firms Named.

Both Rockwell and his company were named defendants. Others named are: Claude F. Garesohe, general manager of the titanium division of National Lead; E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., and Carl H. Rupprecht, general manager of the Krebs pigment division, and Titan Company, Inc., subsidiary of National Lead, and Gustave Jensen, vice president of Titan.

Among alleged co-conspirators named in the indictment were I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany, Imperial Chemical Industries of Great Britain, Montecatini of Italy, and Kokusan Kogyo Kaibushini of Japan.

Rockwell declared that Nationl Lead's business contracts with foreign concerns in relation to titanium had resulted in great war time advantages to the United States.

Claims U. S. Needs Filled.

He said his firm's coöperation with companies in Norway, Great Britain, Germany, France, Canada and Japan "was for the purpose of developing the titanium industry and its techniques, and at all times before and during the war the company and its competitors have filled all government requirements."

Before the war, Rockwell said, India was the chief source of titanium and, when this source was cut off, his company developed at its own expense a production program sufficient to supply all demands.

He declared that if American business is to hold its war markets after the war "it must have now a directive from government and the people of the United States on how they want international business conducted."

Conspiracy Denied.

In London, Lord McGowan, chairman of Imperial Chemical Industries, said in a statement:

"I can give you an absolutely flat denial that we are engaged in any international conspiracy. We are not in combination with any international bodies. The report is quite wrong. I deny it absolutely. I do not think it is necessary to elaborate on the denial."

The government charged that the defendants and co-conspirators divided the world into exclusive, noncompetitive areas, suppressing competition and obtaining monopolistic control of the industry in the United States thru a pooling of patents.

The indictment also charged they imposed a system of restrictive producion on the few American manufacturers permitted to continue in business and subjected them to control of the cartel.

After the outbreak of the war, it was charged, National Lead and Titangesellschaft, a German firm owned jointly by National Lead and I. G. Farbenindustrie, transferred their respective patents to each other in order to prevent possible seizure of the patents in the United States and Germany as enemy property.

JUNE KNIGHT'S HUSBAND NAMES A CHICAGOAN

Little Rock, Ark., June 28 (AP).—Arthur Arden Cameron, wealthy oil man, testified in his divorce suit today that blonde former movie actress June Knight left home one night last fall with a man and returned at midnight disheveled and "fighting drunk." Cameron identified the man as Russell Brown, who, he said, was a Chicago interior decorator.

After a dinner party on Sept. 29, 1942, in their Evansville, Ind., home Cameron said he offered to take Brown home, but Miss Knight insisted that he go to bed and offered to drive Brown home, herself.

"She returned about midnight fighting drunk," Cameron said. "Her hair, which she usually wore piled on top of her head, was down on her face and her lipstick was smeared."

Miss Knight, who married the oil man in Beverly Hills, Cal., in August, 1928, sat with her attorneys thruout her husband's testimony.

'SMILIN' BILL,' CIVILIAN HERO, LIKES CAR JOB

Doesn't Care for Police Post.

Portrait of a hero on the home front:

"Smilin' Bill" Mahoney, motorman who last night took the trail of an ex-convict killer, doggedly kept to it for five miles and then was first to seize the gunman, is an Irishman with laughing brown eyes and a brogue both rich and sweet.

Which is probably as it should be. "Smilin' Bill" was born in Ballingarry, County Limerick, Ireland, 43 years ago, lived in that little village until he was 22, and then came to this country and almost immediately to Chica-a-aaago, as he expresses it. What gave him the idea of coming to this country, he says, was that his father was always talking about the "green fields of America."

Father Liked America.

The elder Mahoney, who ran a coal and grocery business in Ballingarry until he died a few years ago, had in his youth spent seven years in this country and he never got over it.

In 1923, about two years after "Smilin' Bill" came to this country and to Chicago, he got his job on the cars. And he likes his motorman's job today just as well as he did the day he pulled his first car out of the barn, he says.

"It's a fine job," he said last night after he'd followed the gunman's long trail and somebody had suggested he'd make a good policeman, too. "No," he smiled, "I'll stick to the cars, thank you. I get a thrill out of piloting the cars. There's nothing in the world I'd rather do."

In October, 1924, shortly after "Smilin' Bill's" brother, Dennis, had married an Irish girl by the name of McLaughlin, "Smilin' Bill" married her sister, Mary. "Dennis was Bill's elder brother," said Mrs. Bill, smiling, "and the girl he married was my elder sister. That's how we met—and it wasn't long before we were married, too."

Wife Also Irish.

"Yes, Mary was a fine tall golden haired Irish girl—well, look at her for yourself. Sure she was born in Ireland the same as I was."

Around the car barns at Kedzie avenue and Van Buren street, out of which "Smilin' Bill" pulls his cars every day—on the Madison street line over which he operates one of those streamlined, quiet running cars—he is widely known for those laughing brown eyes with their eternal twinkle and for his fine tenor voice.

It is because of his ready smile and those twinkling brown eyes, his singing and his readiness to oblige that the boys around the barns pinned the "Smilin' Bill" on him. And it's because it was so appropriate that it has stuck thru the almost score of years he's been on the cars.

Mahoney accompanies himself on the Irish accordion, which he says he learned to play years ago in Ballingarry. He has appeared on amateur programs three times and sung over the radio, and altho he told it reluctantly, he often goes to County hospital to sing and play for the patients there. The Mahoneys have no children.

CHICAGO LINK TO HITLER BARED IN 1925 RECORD

U. S. Aims a New Blow at Bund Members.

Chicago members of one of the predecessors of the German-American bund began calling Adolf Hitler "our beloved fuehrer" as early as April 7, 1925, the government disclosed yesterday in a brief filed in proceedings intended to establish that membership in the now outlawed bund is cause for revocation of naturalization citizenship.

The proceedings were brought by J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, in a move to strip of citizenship Dr. Otto A. Willumeit, former Chicago bund leader, and eight other members. Willumeit is under a five year federal sentence for conspiracy to deliver military secrets to the German and Japanese governments.

Records of Meetings Given.

His co-defendants in the denaturalization proceedings before Judge William J. Campbell are Mrs. Irene Matz, Willumeit's former secretary; Hugo Johannes Luethje, Ernest Henry Scharf, Frank Alphonse Schoennagel, Frederick Ohrt, Karl Herman Sautter, Carl Ernest Vogl, and Frederich Kiefer.

The 103 page brief contained translations of minutes of meetings and documents that the government introduced into evidence six weeks ago during the trial before Judge Campbell. Judge Campbell held that these exhibits could not properly be read into the record, but that he would study them on the theory that the documents would "speak for themselves."

Send $20 Gift to Hitler.

The reference to Hitler as "our beloved fuehrer" was found in minutes of a meeting of the Independent Society Teutonia of Chicago, which, with the Friends of New Germany, fathered the bund in the United States. The minutes disclosed that the society sent $20 to Hitler, afterward reporting that Hitler acknowledged this gift.

"Our beloved fuehrer, Adolf Hitler, had the kindness to delight us with a copy of 'Mein Kampf,' which contains a dedication for the bund; it will always be," the minutes stated, "our sacred duty to honor the book."

Calls Evidence Conclusive.

The brief asserted the evidence produced at the trial was "clear, unequivocal and convincing that the bund and its predecessor organizations were directed and controled by Germany, and its aims and purposes were subversive."

Minutes of a bund convention in New York in 1938 were placed in the brief to support a contention that the bund was a fifth column movement designed to act at an opportune moment. The minutes quoted Fritz Kuhn, imprisoned leader, as stating that it was not necessary for bund members to wave the swastika or give the Nazi salute to show their allegiance.

Police Hold Truck Driver for Robbery Questioning

Police yesterday arrested William Moore, 27 years old, Negro, of 5656 Wabash avenue, a truck driver for the Lag Wholesale Drug company of 4601 Wentworth avenue after Leo Goldsmith of 5939 Elizabeth street, owner of the firm, told police Moore disappeared Friday with $700 in collections, but returned $500 in checks. Police said Moore told them he was robbed by three men on the northwest side and was "so excited and nervous after the robbery" that he fell asleep. He is being held for investigation.

Tells of Cruelty

Mrs. Dorothy Albertson and her daughter, Mary.

Walter Albertson, 28 years old, a machinist, was described by Attorneys Joseph H. and Norman Becker yesterday as "the meanest man in the world." Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court granted Albertson's wife, Mrs. Dorothy Albertson, 27, and their daughter, Mary, 6, $20 a week temporary allimony after Mrs. Albertson testified her husband often pressed lighted cigarets against her face and then locked her out of their home at 3 a. m. in her night clothes.

"He's the meanest man in the world," interposed Norman Becker, "and I've dealt with some mean ones. He knocked his wife's teeth out because she wouldn't drink with him after her physician had forbidden her to use alcohol in any form because of her health." Mrs. Albertson has a divorce action pending.

2 BROTHERS, 16 AND 18, GET YEAR TO LIFE IN PRISON

Stanley Tranowski, 16 years old, and his brother, Walter, 18, were sentenced to prison terms of one year to life yesterday by Judge Rudolph F. Desort in Criminal court for burglarizing a currency exchange after kidnaping the manager to obtain his keys.

Robert Dunne, 6225 South Ashland avenue, manager of the Western Currency Exchange, 6232 South Ashland avenue, testified that he was held captive in the Tranowski basement at 5041 Justine street while Walter used his keys to loot the exchange of $1,540, some war bonds and stamps Dec. 18. Police who seized Walter found Stanley guarding the captive. An all-woman jury convicted the brothers on June 4.

Previously the Tranowski brothers had been freed in two trials on charges of kidnaping and robbing Dominic Coda, manager of an exchange at 2152 South Western avenue last Feb. 11.

INQUEST JULY 7 INTO TRAGEDY OF GOLF LINKS

An inquest into the death of Robert Ropoloni, 12 years old, a caddy at Lincolnshire County club, who was struck by lightning on the golf course Sunday afternoon, was set yesterday for July 7. The boy, who lived at 252 East 24th street, Chicago Heights, and Don Goodwin, also 12, of 3640 Chicago road, Steger, waited under a tree during a brief downpour. The players had gone to the clubhouse. The bolt apparently struck a crucifix worn by Robert and burned a V shaped mark on his neck. The Goodwin boy suffered paihful burns and was taken to St. James hospital in Chicago Heights.

INQUIRY REVEALS DISLOYAL JAPS DOMINATE CAMPS

Denounces Officials on Centers' Operation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—The house today heard a blistering report on conditions in Japanese relocation centers under the war relocation authority and charges that the WRA appears either to have forgotten or to be ignoring the fact that the United States is at war with Japan.

Rep. John M. Costello [D., Cal.], chairman of a special investigating subcommittee of the Dies committee on un-American activities, told the chamber that disloyal Japs have been allowed to dominate both the members of the race who are loyal to this country and the WRA's policies for the control and operation of the centers.

He assailed the practice of releasing internees from camps to work on farms, in industry, and private homes.

Criticism of WRA.

"I need not state that the sentiment of the people of the Pacific coast as well as Arizona is vigorously opposed to the return of the Japanese evacuees to those areas at any time during the present war," Costello said. "And it is well to add that the United States is at war with Japan, which apparently the administrators of the WRA seem to have either ignored or forgotten."

In his first appearance before the house since the subcommittee's return from a 5,000 mile inspection trip, which included public hearings on the west coast, Costello urged that immediate steps be taken to remedy the situation.

Findings Summarized.

He listed the following as the subcommittee's findings regarding the WRA handling of Japanese relocation problems:

1. Project personnel lacks previous experience in dealing with Japanese people prior to their present assignments.

2. No adequate segregation made of loyal and disloyal Japanese.

3. Government funds expended unwisely for such things as teaching the Japanese judo, a form of Japanese military training; teaching the Japanese to play goh, a form of Japanese checkers; paying salaries to lecturers who visited the centers in an effort to install cooperatives in the centers.

4. Outbreaks of violence, including riots and strikes; instigators unpunished.

Confusion of Officials.

5. Loyal Japanese-Americans dominated by pro-Japanese in the centers; miscreants unpunished. The loyal Japanese not afforded the protection to which they are entitled.

6. Indications that confusion exists as to the responsibility for investigating the personal history and background of the Japanese who are being released from the centers.

7. Evidence that there is lack of planning by the procurement officers of the projects, particularly in regard to food purchases.

8. Sufficient work opportunities for the Japanese not provided to utilize properly the available man power in a constructive manner.

9. More adequate protection should be given to public utilities, dams, reservoirs, and other strategic installations in the vicinity of the relocation centers.

10. While housing has been provided for all Japanese evacuees, overcrowding is apparent.

The investigation is to be continued and broadened in scope thru public hearings before the full Dies committee scheduled to begin next Wednesday.

HABEAS CORPUS PETITIONS FOR 18 ARE DISMISSED

Judge John P. Barnes in federal district court yesterday dismissed habeas corpus petitions filed by 18 prisoners in the Joliet and Stateville prisons. He held that the prisoners did not exhaust their remedies in the state courts and dismissed the petitions without prejudice, leaving the prisoners the right to file in other courts.

Judge Barnes action brought to nearly 50 the number of petitions of prisoners dismissed in his court in the last few weeks. More than 80 had been filed by prisoners in their own handwriting after Judge Barnes had instructed prison officials that prisoners had the right to file in this manner.

John Bongiorno, who is serving a 199 year sentence for the murder of a Chicago policeman in 1933, had previously informed the court he was not permitted to send his petition from the penitentiary.

PAY $75,106 TAX PENALTY ALTHO COUNTY ERRED

An error made years ago in the county treasurer's office was rectified yesterday when the Stevens Hotel corporation paid $75,106 to cover penalties on its 1929 and 1930 taxes and obtained from Judge William V. Brothers in Circuit Court an order holding that the debt was "satisfied and extinguished."

The principal amount of the taxes was paid in 1933, but the penalty remained on the treasurer's books. When the omission was discovered several weeks ago the tax penalty and interest approximated $150,000.

When Assistant State's Atty. Marshall V. Kearney investigated he learned that the corporation, which is in the process of being liquidated for the benefit of the bondholders, had obtained in 1940 a blanket injunction restraining the collection of any further taxes. Kearney then asked to have the injunction reviewed.

Judge Brothers on June 3 ruled that the taxing machinery can never be kept from collecting taxes and penalties even tho, as in this case, the county's employes were at fault.

Thieves Make $6,000 Haul in Oak Street Dress Shop

Thieves stole more than $6,000 worth of apparel and jewelry in a week-end burglary of a dress shop at 120 East Oak street, according to a report made to police yesterday by the owner, Miss Mayme Keen. The thieves took dresses, coats, slacks, and other apparel, valued at $3,000; a diamond ring valued at $3,000, and another list at $375, and $105 in cash.

STEAL LIQUOR WORTH $1,200.

Abe Cabin, a grocer at 721 St. Clair street, reported to police yesterday that thieves jimmied the front door and stole $1,200 worth of liquor, a quantity of ration stamps, and $200 from the store during the night.

HOW ILLINOISAN BOMBED ESSEN—AND FOUGHT PAL

Hedgehops Across Flak to Hair Raising Landing.

(Lt. John H. Stickell, former farmer whose home is near Gilson, Ill., continues his eyewitness account of his life as a Canadian bomber pilot with the R. A. F., with which he made 48 air assaults on the axis. He is now a United States navy flyer. This is his third article.)

BY LT. JOHN H. STICKELL

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

From 15,500 feet, the Rhine river looked smaller than Haw creek where it winds thru our farm near Gilson, Ill. We were flying to Essen. The date was June 1, 1942, just two nights after our first raid on Cologne, the one in which 1,043 bombers laid waste that city. I now had great respect for flak [anti-aircraft fire], having flown unknowingly with punctured gas tanks back from the Cologne raid and landed with only eight gallons of petrol left.

We got our orders for this second 1,000 plane raid six hours before we took off an hour before midnight. It was to be a whole series of engagements with death.

The moon had come up as we crossed Holland. Unhampered by Jerry night flyers we reached the target area in the Ruhr 10 minutes early. I decided to stooge around at 15,000 feet and do things properly—according to schedule.

Peaceful Until—

Thin clouds, or ground haze, hung about 1,000 feet over Essen, a big factory city. Above us was a little scattered cloud. It was very peaceful.

Peaceful until Max O'Neal, our Australian wireless operator, looking out the astro hatch [the observation turret amid ship] yelled into the intercommunication phone:

"Swing 't hard to port. Jerry's coming out of that cloud."

I didn't wait to look for the night fighter. I jerked the stick back. The two powerful motors pulled the ship vertical. We still had the bomb load and the weight flopped us onto our back.

Jerry was surprised. So was I. Jerry hadn't seen a Wellington do that before. Neither had I. As a matter of fact, I didn't know it could be done. I still have a hard time convincing myself it really did happen.

He Loses Jerry.

We made two complete turns, then went into a spin. Jerry, completely bewildered, lost us.

For some 2,000 feet we spiraled downward. The ship was heavy on the controls, but she came out beautifully at 13,000 feet.

I climbed back to 14,000 feet and went in to bomb. By now there was flak everywhere. Scores of searchlights were hunting us. Our first planes had already been there and had started small fires and dropped flares. Jerry, learning something from Cologne, had set dummy fires. We found our target, made our run, and let the bombs go.

I headed for home, but was picked up by the searchlights. The lights are connected to flak guns. The only thing that saves you is that it takes about 20 seconds for the flak to come from where Jerry is on the ground to where you are in the sky.

I put the nose down and dived. I zigzagged all over the sky.

Like Train in Tunnel.

But I couldn't shake the lights. I practiced everything I had ever heard about violent evasive action. I bounced in and out of my bucket seat, hanging onto the controls. The zigzags kept us out of the heaviest flak. Shells meant for us would burst a few yards ahead and we would plow thru the hail of metal with all the noise of an express train going thru a tunnel.

We must have been in the lights for 10 minutes or so. It seemed like 10 years. We picked up speed in a dive—160, the air meter read, then 180, 200, 240. At last it was up to 280. Pretty good for a Wellington.

At 8,000 feet we spotted a little cloud and ran for it. I never thought when cursing the clouds that made us fly blind that I ever would be praying for a cloud.

When we came into the clear, Jerry had lost us. Everything around us was a nice friendly black. No searchlights. I climbed back to 12,000 to cross the Belgian coast above the usual flak.

Struck by Tracer Bullets.

"Close one, that," I said into the intercom. Somebody said: "Righto." I felt sorry for those kids. A pilot has to work and that takes his mind off things. The crew is helpless. They have to sit there and take it.

I didn't feel sorry very long. A stream of tracer bullets coming seemingly from nowhere tore thru the ship. One ripped my coat sleeve. Others knocked out the instrument panel and shredded the wind screen in front of the pilot's seat. Thank God, no one was sitting there at the time. The intercom [plane's phones] went dead.

A night fighter had caught us! Dead astern and completely by surprise. I presumed my tail gunner had had it. "Had it" is the R. A. F. expression for gone west. I don't believe I've ever heard of any flyer being killed; he merely "had it."

I pulled the stick hard to port and kicked the rudder, throwing the Wellington into a spiral dive. A second burst from the fighter went wide.

Fights Own Navigator.

At 5,000 feet I leveled out, thinking I had shaken the fighter. Robbie, my navigator, came tottering into the cabin. He stood beside me for a minute. Then he reached over and pushed the control column. We went into a dive.

I shook him off. I shoved him away and pulled the plane level again. Again Robbie rushed up, grabbed the stick and sent us diving. It was harder to pull him off this time. I shouted, but it didn't do any good. At last I wrested the stick free. But Robbie came back again. He held tight to the column. Down, down we went. Up in the tail, Dan Beal, who hadn't "had it" after all, was trying to climb out of the rear gun turret and jump for it. Down in the nose, Bunny Wilson, the bomb aimer, screamed into the dead intercom as the earth rushed nearer and nearer.

Safety at Last.

In the cabin Robbie and I wrestled. Slowly I pried him loose. I pulled back the stick. We straightened out—only 500 feet from a field somewhere in France.

Max O'Neal, the Aussie wireless operator, came into the cabin and took over Robbie. Max said Robbie had come to tell me that we were still being attacked and to dive, but, tongue tied by fright, he had saved the plane by diving it himself.

"Jerry was with us almost all the way down," Max said. "I counted seven bursts. Only the first one hit."

I felt sorry for the nasty things I had been thinking about Robbie during our wrestling match. I started to apologize but noticed his sleeve was wet and red. Robbie looked at the blood. Then he became articulate.

Over Coast at 300 Feet.

Still weaving so as not to present a dead target to Jerry if he found us again, I began to climb. We rose to 2,500 feet. To try to cross the coast at that altitude would be suicide. But the Wellington, riddled and battered, would go no higher.

So I dived to 300 feet, opened the throttle wide and rushed over the coast at 230 miles per hour, flying the deck [hedge hopping]. A searchlight picked us up, but we were gone before Jerry could harm us any more.

We skimmed the channel. Over England, we saw two rows of flares that meant an airdrome. I didn't know how badly Robbie was hurt so I decided to put down here instead of making our base.

Out of Control.

I tried to put down the flaps, those little wing sections which slow the plane in flight. But the controls were shot away. I gunned the plane and pulled her up. I was going to need every foot of that fighter runway to land. I circled, grazed the border fence, and put her down.

Unconsciously I applied the wheel brakes. But we rolled on unchecked. Our brakes, too, were shot away! I coasted and coasted and coasted as if we would never stop. Never had I felt so helpless. There was nothing I could do but sit. And worry.

The airport skimmed past. Off to one side I saw an open field. I steered for it, ran thru a fence and into the clearing. On and on we rolled.

A young apple orchard bordered the field. We plowed into it. At last luck was with us. For the trees were only slightly taller than the plane and the wings simply climbed onto the trees and settled down on the boughs, as easily as a mother laying her babe in a feather bed.

My clothes were wringing wet from perspiration. Max and I examined Robbie, found he had only an arm wound. Max climbed out. He looked at the trees, barren in their youth, and, making verbal history, he registered complete disgust for the way things turned out. He said:

"What, no apples?"

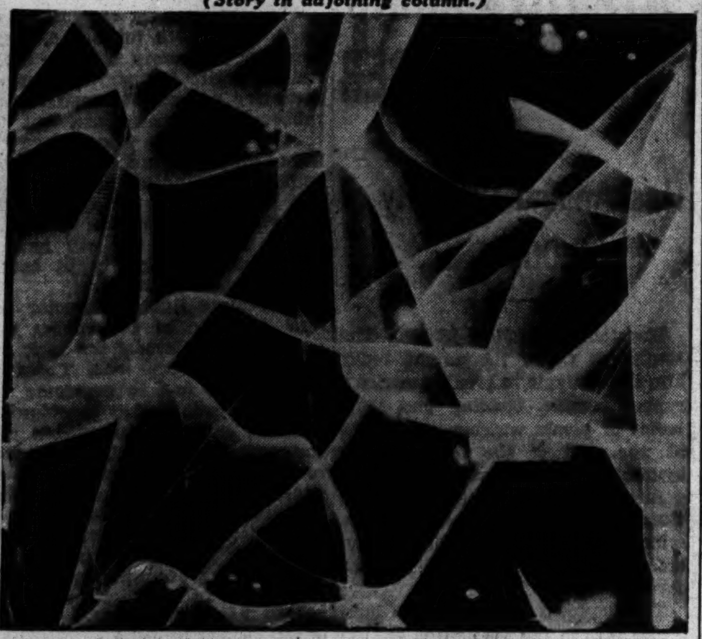
What Camera Saw on a Bombing Raid

(Story in adjoining column.)



When a camera shutter remained open, the film recorded this picture on a flight made by Lt. John H. Stickell over Germany. The wavy lines are searchlights hunting his plane. The waves resulted from the movement of the lights and the weaving, diving course the Stirling bombers use over enemy territory. The dots of light are anti-aircraft batteries firing at the plane. ENGINEER WINS TRIBUNE'S WAR WORKER AWARD

His Invention Speeds Up Shell Production.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Anthony Minarik Jr., inventor of a machine to help speed production of anti-aircraft and other projectiles, is the winner of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S war workers award for May. He is an employe of the Mills Novelty company which is producing large amounts of ordnance material and is the 11th to win the monthly award.

Presentation of the award, symbolized by a gold diamond studded pin, will be made by Col. J. F. Butler, chief of the personnel branch, 6th service command, in a radio ceremony on W-G-N at 7 o'clock tonight.

Machine Speeds Up Work.

Minarik, who started with the Mills company as an apprentice in the toolroom 20 years ago and is now an engineer, developed a machine that squeezes a copper band on a 40 mm. anti-aircraft projectile faster than is done under older, conventional methods. The copper band meshes in the rifling of a gun to give it the whirling motion that sends it on its way true to its target. It must fit perfectly.

About 2,000 hours were required under the old method to produce 1,000,000 40 mm. projectiles, and now the new machine can do the job in 1,000 hours, thereby effecting a saving of 100 per cent. The savings in man hours alone is of considerable importance to war work.

By hydraulic action Minarik's machine forces the copper band and the projectile on which it is to be bound thru a round, ringlike, tapered die. The tapered shape of the die shrinks the copper band tightly on the projectile.

Operation Is Simple.

The machine is simple to operate. An unskilled girl worker can learn to run it in a few hours. All she has to do is insert a projectile in the die—the copper bands are fed in automatically—push a button and the machine does the rest. Further, it is safe, there being no exposed moving parts to injure the operator.

The copper bands used are of a minimum stock size and it is said use of the Minarik device would make possible saving of tons of a critical metal. The Mills company has turned over blueprints of the machine to the ordnance department so that it can be made available to other companies doing similar work. No royalties are asked.

Minarik spent several months developing the machine and during the process of converting from the old method of operation to the new worked 16 to 17 hours a day.

Planned to Be a Doctor.

Born in Chicago 35 years ago near 18th and Ashland, Minarik was educated in the Corkery grade school and at Lewis institute. He planned to be a doctor but switched his courses at Lewis to mechanics.

A widower with two small daughters, he is to be married tomorrow to Miss Frances Catania. Like Tom Lyons, winner of last month's award, Minarik neither smokes nor drinks. His hobby is his home flower garden at 1624 North Sayre avenue.

The Tribune award was established to give public recognition to men and women working in war plants. Employes of such plants in Illinois, Lake county, Indiana, and Kenosha and Racine counties in Wisconsin, are eligible for nomination to receive the award.

BURGLARS STEAL WHISKY.

M. J. Boyle, owner of a contracting firm at 1742 North Mozart street, told police yesterday burglars stole two adding machines and 10 cases of whisky, valued at $1,000, from his office.

WAUKEGAN HERO PRAISED BY AIR CHIEF OF PACIFIC

A tribute to courageous young Americans and to Lt. Thomas Durkin in particular, was paid by Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, air chief in the southwest Pacific, in a letter received yesterday by Lt. Durkin's father, Joseph R. Durkin, 329 North Utica street, Waukegan. Lt. Durkin is a bombardier.

Lt. Thomas Durkin.

"Recently your son was decorated with the distinguished flying cross," wrote Gen. Kenney. "It was an award made in recognition of courageous service to his combat organization, his fellow American airmen, his country, his home and to you. He took part in more than 200 hours of long range bombing missions. Almost every hour of every day your son and the sons of other American fathers are doing just such things.

"Theirs is a very real and very tangible contribution to victory and to peace. I would like to tell you how genuinely proud I am to have men such as your son in my command, and how gratified I am to know that young Americans with such courage and resourcefulness are fighting our country's battle against aggressor nations."

The United States army troops that have been on riot duty, however, will remain in the city as a precautionary measure.

Amusement places and saloons are permitted to resume normal hours and bottled liquor again may be sold.

There has been no report of violence since the appearance of troops last Monday night.

The death today of Chester Chatham, 42 year old Negro, raised the official police count of riot fatalities to 33.

BRITISH EMPIRE GROUP, 6 OF U. S. CONGRESS MEET

Talks in Ottawa Secret; Watch Parliament.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 28.—Six members of the United States congress today witnessed Canada's parliament in action, being in the distinguished visitors' gallery of the house of commons this afternoon. They are here as guests of the Empire Parliamentary association.

The six are Senators Tom Connally, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee [D., Tex.], Warren Austin [R., Vt.], and H. H. Burton [R., O.], and Representatives Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.], Charles A. Eaton [R., N. J.], and John M. Vorys [R., O.].

The commonwealth delegates to the conference, from Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Bermuda, and Canada, have been meeting here during the last week. The United States delegates joined deliberations this morning.

Private Sessions.

The conferences are held behind closed doors and are for the purpose of furthering mutual understanding, rather than making any decisions. There have been no specific announcements of subjects under discussion.

At luncheon today the United States visitors were the guests of the governor general at government house, and this evening are the guests at a dinner given by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King in their honor. It is a private dinner, with no publicity given to speeches.

The delegation from Washington spent the afternoon inspecting, along with other delegates, the R. C. A. F. service flying training school at an airport near Toronto.

The conference concludes tomorrow, with the delegates from empire points leaving for Montreal preparatory to going home, and the United States congressmen returning to Washington.

Presence of the United States legislators at the conference marks a new departure in affairs of the Empire Parliamentary association, which heretofore has limited itself to members of legislative bodies within the empire.

While here as guests, the United States visitors are understood to have entered into the discussions of the association, the meaning and purpose of it having been explained to them.

Hold No Power for Commitments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—American senators and representatives who attended the legislative conference at Ottawa are expected to return to Capitol Hill tomorrow. Sen. Lister Hill [D., Ala.], the acting majority leader of the senate, said tonight that the meeting was an informal one, intended for the exchange of ideas and promotion of better international understanding, and that the American delegation had no power to make any commitments.

The meeting was called by the president of the Canadian senate, who invited legislative representatives from the United States, Great Britain, Australia, and New Zealand to meet with members of the Canadian parliament.

ORDNANCE SHOW REVEALS DETAIL OF B-26 BOMBER

Mass of Dials, Controls Keep Pilot Busy.

The entrance to the army ordnance-Chicago Tribune war show is in Nathan Hale court between Tribune Tower and W-G-N. Visitors should start the tour there.

BY FRANK STURDY.

If you are curious to know what the pilot is thinking about when you hear one of those big bombers thundering overhead, you can get a good idea by inspecting the Martin B-26 fuselage sections in the war show presented by the ordnance department of the army service forces and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in Tribune square.

The nose section, containing the pilot's "office" and the quarters of the bombardier, the radio operator, and the navigator, and the center section, with all the bomb racks and releasing devices, are so exhibited as to display the most vital details of the bomber's construction.

Start with Pilot's Seat.

Begin with the first pilot's seat. It's quite comfortable. Then you notice that the back is entirely shielded with thick armor plate. Remember that it can be a very hot and nervous chair. At the pilot's feet are the rudder pedals with big toe plates operating the landing gear brakes, and in front of him, the control column.

To the pilot's right, between him and the co-pilot, is the operating pedestal, studded with levers, buttons, switches, and valves. This is a partial list, certain items eliminated for security reasons: Engine cooling-cowl controls, landing flaps switches, landing gear lever and emergency switches; speed controls for the four bladed Curtis electric propellers, carburetor mixture control, oil cooler control, twin throttles, propeller feathering switches, magneto switches and starter buttons, supercharger "boost" control and 12 light switches.

The Instrument Panel.

The instrument panel, set in rubber and springs to prevent vibration from damaging the sensitive indicators upon which the lives of all aboard the plane depends, has:

Fuel and oil pressure gauges, cylinder head temperature indicator [twin], oil heat indicators, propeller de-icer switches, manifold pressure gauge, tachometers [twin], radio compass, artificial horizon, altimeter, turn and bank indicator, vertical speed [rate of climb] indicator, thermometer for outside air temperature, air speed indicator, more light switches, clock; fuel gauges, calibrated in United States and British imperial gallons, and a magnetic compass mounted in the center of the wind screen.

Bombardier's Station.

Forward of the pilot compartment, in the nose of the plane, molded of transparent plastic, is the bombardier's station, with its bombsight mounting and flat pane with a rubber wiper, similar to that of an automobile, for accurate sighting. The bombardier has an altimeter, air speed indicator, and a compass synchronized with the pilot's.

Behind the pilots sit the radio operator, on the left, and the navigator. Powerful radio receivers and transmitters are installed above and below the radio man's desk in his compact quarters, with a radio compass for establishing position in relation to any known radio station.

Every crew member has a connection for his oxygen mask, and an indicator showing the pressure of oxygen delivered at high altitude.

Costs $250,000.

Hundreds of yards of complicated electrical wiring, thousands of fittings, scores of metal fuel and oil lines run in orderly patterns thru the shell of the plane. It's not hard to see why, even without the visible evidence of the wide wings and two great 1,750 horsepower engines, the B-26 costs, according to an army announcement, about $250,000.

The plane is one of the world's fastest medium bombers. It weighs over 25,000 pounds loaded, and has a top speed of well over 300 miles an hour.

Pilots know the B-26 as one of the army's "hottest" planes, with a landing speed of over 120 miles an hour. It can carry either bombs or a torpedo.

WAR OBJECTORS HOSTS TO LICE IN ARMY TESTS

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—How conscientious objectors volunteer for scientific experiments, frequently painful, in one instance carrying of lice for three weeks without change of clothing, was told today in testimony released by a senate committee.

Explaining the conscientious objector program to a senate appropriations subcommittee, Lt. Col. Francis V. Keesling Jr., of the selective service system, declared that the experiments showed "that these people, if they are sincere, are actually not afraid of danger; it is merely that they do not want to kill anybody."

Keesling described the louse control test to observe reaction of insecticides as "a rather bad one."

"They took them out," interjected Col. Lewis F. Kosch, chief of the camp operations division, "isolated them and put 200 lice on each. They kept on their clothes for three weeks and experimented with different types of insecticide sprays."

DON'T NEGLECT NATION'S YOUTH, URGES EDUCATOR

Nazi Use of German Young Cited.

Howard Y. McClusky.

Nazi leaders have selected some 100,000 German young men and women who, in the event of Germany's defeat, will form an underground movement and begin planning for another attempt at world domination by the German nation in another quarter century, Howard Y. McClusky, professor of education at University of Michigan, said yesterday in a talk before the conference for school administrators and teachers at Northwestern university.

More than 400 school executives and teachers are attending the conference which is studying needs of children and youth in the present emergency and after the war.

Nazi Accent on Youth Cited.

The Nazis, more than any other group, understood the significance of youth, Dr. McClusky declared. Hitler built his Nazi party on frustrated youth of Germany, he said and added he had reliable information that "already the Nazis are planning, in case of defeat, to arrange for an underground movement of youth to carry on the struggle."

Dr. McClusky said the United States has 4 million youths between 16 and 25 years who were experiencing difficulties in getting a foothold in society. The war, he said, had changed youth from a glut on the market to the nation's most precious asset. He said recent studies have shown a definite revival of established moral standards among young persons.

Attempts of youth to assert itself in society are usually counter-balanced by a definite tendency on the part of a sometimes crusty middle age group to put off its demand, he said, and warned that "a nation which neglects its youth is doomed." He urged more attention be given by older persons to importance of youth in society.

Show Need for Training.

The war, he said, has demonstrated the need for training, both in military service and industry. He predicted in the post-war period a tremendous development in mass education. High schools and colleges will be swamped, Dr. McClusky asserted.

Fortunately, he said, the nation now possesses the greatest productive power in the world's history and government and industry are agreed upon recognized need for expansionism. Dr. McClusky said he was confident this program can be carried out with few changes in the present capitalistic system.

"Interventionists must be willing to accept responsibility for maintaining world order for a number of years," he warned. "On the other hand, isolationists must be willing to accept responsibility of making the western hemisphere a fortress of such strength as has never existed before."

OPA LID ON STEAM WINS $1,347 REFUND FROM UNION STATION

A judgment for $1,347 was entered against the Chicago Union Station company yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan in federal District court on complaint of the office of price administration that the company had exceeded OPA ceilings in selling steam to several customers.

The company produces more steam than it uses in the Union station and sells the excess. Among the purchasers are the new post-office, the General Electric company, and the Chicago Daily News Printing company.

The complaint, filed by Robert B. Johnstone, OPA attorney, alleged that the station company had charged from 1 to 3 cents in excess of the ceiling price of 60 cents per thousand unit pounds of steam. The OPA asked triple damages, or $4,040, but agreed with Atty. Edward R. Gustafson for the station company to accept judgment for the overcharges alone. Judge Sullivan approved the agreement.

EXTRA CHANGE IN NAVY DRESS, LESS IN PURSES

New Fashions by Knox Cost Plenty.

Washington, D. C., June 28 [Special].—Officers at the navy department building uttered wails today as they figured out the cost of the latest war time changes in officers' uniforms, of which there are now five different types, and learned that they would drain their pockets of $150 and upward.

"Don't they know there's a war on?" was the plaint most frequently uttered by officers discussing the new regulations, which were promulgated by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox.

Pencils and knit brows were much in evidence thru the building as ensigns, lieutenant commanders, and others tried to figure out the cost in money, time, material, and man power required in keeping up with the new fashions. Since the cost and quantity of uniforms varied with rank, the figures disagreed, but there was no doubt that a lot of officers were unhappy about it.

The five types of approved uniforms for naval officers are whites [summer dress], blues, slate grays, khakis, and an "aviation green" outfit for navy flyers.

What New Rules Decree.

The new regulations, to go into effect Oct. 1, decreed that naval officers must:

1. Wear gray shirts with blue [winter] service uniforms but white shirts with dress blues.

2. With service blue, wear gold sleeve stripes extending only halfway around the sleeve [but stripes extending all the way around the sleeve with dress blues].

3. Substitute black braid chin straps for gold chin straps on all uniform caps, but gold chin straps may be worn on formal occasions.

Furthermore, officers of the rank of commander up must discontinue the gold embroidery, known in the navy as "scrambled eggs," on their cap visors, except on formal occasions.

From Gray to Khaki.

The navy had announced last April that the color of officers' work uniforms, worn only in summer or in tropical climate, would be changed to a slate gray from the khaki adopted two years ago. With the slate gray uniforms buttons would switch from gold to blue-black plastics; shoulder marks, or "boards," would be made of flexible, nongilded material, and accessories, such as shirts, would become gray.

However, since thousands of new officers who have entered the navy have stocked up on khakis, it was agreed they might use khakis until they were worn out and then switch to slate gray.

Reserve officers entering the navy in war time are allowed $250 for uniforms, but some say it is possible to "get by" on $400, if one is willing to risk looking messy, and many junior officers have $600 to $700 invested in uniforms.

Added Cost of $150.

One officer calculated that in abiding by the new regulations an ensign or lieutenant [j. g.] who bought the least expensive uniforms and accessories thru navy stores, would have to spend at least $150 and probably more to buy the new grays for next summer and enough of the new paraphernalia to keep him going.

With dry cleaning and laundry service critical in Washington, even the most careful junior officer needs four or five blues, a dozen shirts, and four or five work uniforms to get by decently.

Under the new regulations it may be necessary to buy at least one more blue, cost about $45, on which to put full stripes for dress, and to spend from $10 to $14 for new stripes [the gold braid comes high]. A set of grays will cost $70 more, a dozen gray shirts $18 at navy prices, and chin straps and shoulder boards an additional $6.50.

PLANT IN TEXAS STARTS MAKING BUNA S RUBBER

Has Annual Capacity of 30,000 Tons.

Houston, Tex., June 28 (AP).—The southwest threw its weight today into the struggle to break America's rubber famine, opening one of a series of plants which will produce 51 per cent of the nation's new synthetic rubber stock pile.

At nearby Baytown, production of Buna S, the tough material upon which the country will depend chiefly for its synthetic tires, began formally.

The Baytown plant will contribute 30,000 tons to the 800,000 ton annual goal Rubber Director William Jeffers has set.

Eight Plants in Texas.

The southwestern rubber industry, a brand new thing in this land of cows, cotton, and oil, was set up at a cost of 200 million dollars. Texas has eight plants about to begin producing either synthetic rubber or what goes into it. Louisiana will have two and Arkansas one. Their output will be 413,000 tons of rubber yearly, or 51.6 per cent of the whole. The other big producing area, the northeast, has 11 plants, while California contributes two. Soon the greatest plant in the nation, possibly the world, will be in full swing toward its 120,000 ton capacity. It is the Port Neches, Tex., plant.

Besides rubber, a good tire uses cotton cording to give it strength, carbon black for endurance, and sulphur for curing and vulcanizing.

Texas got its first wealth from cotton and has plenty of it. Carbon black by the ton comes from its natural gas wells. Texas and Louisiana have the greatest sulphur deposits in the world. And they have the almost boundless oil deposits from which rubber can be made.

Will Meet Needs Next Year.

Speaking to a luncheon meeting here by phone from Washington and over a Texas state radio network, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones predicted that by the end of the year the United States will have a completely integrated rubber industry capable of meeting all essential needs, military and civilian.

Forty new plants are now ready to replenish the stockpile which war has depleted, he said.

Jones answered critics of his handling of the rubber crisis, saying that 18 months before Pearl Harbor the government started building up its rubber reserves.

"When we entered the war," he said, "we had accumulated the largest rubber stockpile the world has ever known. What you see at Baytown and Houston is only part of a 700 million dollar rubber industry with 40 plants thruout the country.

Forced to Move Swiftly.

"The misfortunes of war forced us to move with top speed, going from the laboratory stage to building an entire industry. It became necessary not only to manufacture rubber for our own use, but for that of our allies who, before the fall of Singapore and the loss of the Dutch East Indies, had produced and controled 90 per cent of the world's supply of natural rubber.

"By December we will have a manufacturing capacity in excess of 800,000 tons a year."

He praised Rubber Director Jeffers' direction of the rubber program, and declared "the task has not been an easy one. Those in charge have had to overcome not only such problems as shortages of material and man power, but also the confusion created by critics who sought—not always unselfishly—to question means and methods without knowledge of all the facts."

He quoted a letter from President Roosevelt to him saying: "The establishment of an industry of this magnitude, in so short a period, is in full keeping with the tradition of our people in meeting any emergency.

WPB BANS 3 CHICAGO STREET PAVING JOBS AS USELESS TO WAR

The war production board has rejected as "unessential to the war" applications by the city for authority to start three new paving projects, city officials were informed yesterday. The city will appeal the decision. All applications for paving projects involving more than $100,000 must be submitted to WPB for approval.

The projects rejected are Damen avenue, from Fullerton to North avenues; Ewing avenue, from 95th to 100th street, and Division street, from Milwaukee to Elston avenues. Nine other paving applications on which WPB has not yet acted cover 10.75 miles and would cost $1,573,575.

Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, said permits for three projects, each costing less than $100,000, have been issued. Included are Madison street, from Hamlin avenue to Pulaski road, already under construction; and Union avenue, from 28th to 33d streets, and 76th street, from Stony Island to Jeffery avenues, on which permits have just been issued.

FOR THE DURATION ANY OLD FILE WILL DO—IT'S THE SYSTEM ITSELF THAT COUNTS

For the Withholding Tax
—a simplified payroll system

Time wasted through inefficient methods or inadequate equipment is just as bad in office operations as it is on the production lines—for time wasted is time lost forever. And time is our most precious commodity in this, or any, war.

Anything that can be done to conserve man-hours is not only good business but also an important contribution to our country's war effort. That's why leading firms are so enthusiastic about the time-saving office systems and equipment developed by Shaw-Walker.

▲ FOR INSTANCE, among the many things Shaw-Walker has developed is a payroll plan that effects a tremendous saving of the man-hours that war demands have made so precious.

As you write one payroll record, all figures are automatically transferred to the two or more other essential records that you now write in separate operations.

After each individual payroll entry, every record you need is complete, correct and up-to-date—ready for quarterly reports and government inspection. Rewriting of figures is entirely eliminated.

Entirely eliminated, too, are separate records for War Bonds, Social Security, Victory or Withholding Taxes, employee insurance, employee hospitalization, union dues and all other ledger records of a similar nature.

Every pay day the statement you give to each employee includes:

(1) A complete record of earnings.

(2) A detailed list of deductions.

(3) A notice telling the worker the exact amount he has on deposit with you toward his next War Bond.

▲ SO SIMPLE is the "KOPI-SPOT" payroll system that any clerk can handle it. It can be adapted to any type of payroll whether you pay by check or in cash... whether you make your entries by typewriter or by hand.

▲ NOW ON DISPLAY—A special showing of this simplified pay roll system is now in progress in our store. If time will not permit you to visit this display, phone and we will send to your office a pay roll specialist or descriptive literature, whichever you choose.

All records are made in one operation. Pay checks, employee pay statement, social security and withholding tax records, War Bond Record, ledger record of other deductions, check register and payroll summary, all are made at once.

AFTER THE WAR TRANSFER THE SYSTEM INTACT TO THESE:

SHAW-WALKER FILING CABINET — the file that's "Built like a Skyscraper." Result of 40 years of Shaw-Walker experience.

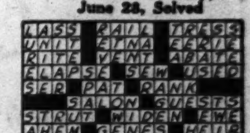
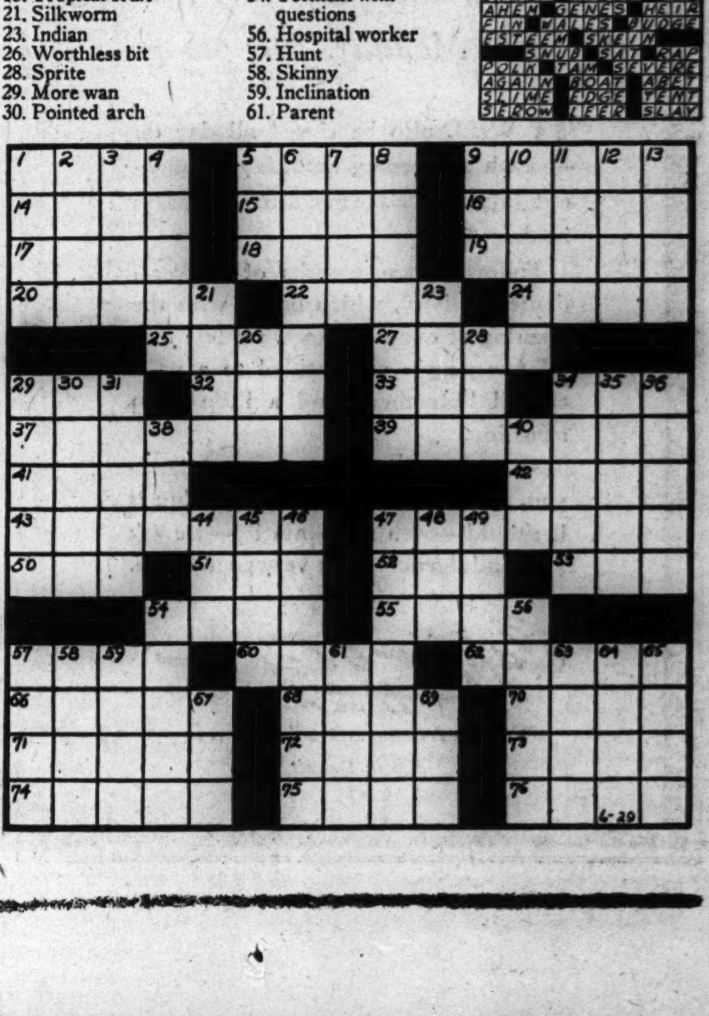
Puzzle of Monday, June 28, Solved





DAVIS RESIGNS AS FOOD CHIEF; RIPS F. D. R. PLAN

Marvin Jones Named to Succeed Him.

sist that you remain in your position when you feel that, all things considered, you cannot wholeheartedly support a program to hold down the cost of living," the President said. He also said he did not think Davis should finally determine the 1944 food program, since his successor "would then be called upon to administer a program which he had no part in determining."

Responsibility Without Authority.

"Two main causes," wrote Davis. "have brought me to the reluctant conclusion that I will not be able to serve you satisfactorily in my present capacity:

"1. I find that I have assumed a public responsibility, while the authority, not only over broad food policy, but day to day actions, is being exercised elsewhere.

"2. You must have in my position a man who can wholeheartedly advocate and defend the program of broad general subsidies you announced on June 15. I cannot do this for the reason that I do not believe such subsidies will be effective in controlling inflation unless they are accompanied here, as they are in England, by current tax and savings programs that drain off excess buying power and by tight control and management of the food supply. We do not have in this country anything approaching these conditions."

President Answers Davis.

The President, paying a tribute to Davis' "ability in dealing with agricultural matters," said that "effective teamwork is absolutely necessary." He said that he created a stabilization director to resolve disagreements between the food administrator and the price administrator.

"If we are to stabilize all prices," wrote Mr. Roosevelt, "we must place the final responsibility in one official. I know of no better method of coördinating the work of the food administrator and the price administrator, altho that method does require a willingness on the part of both administrators to accept the decisions of the stabilization director.

"The country realizes that stabilization applies not only to food but to many other things, such as rent, clothing and wage decisions. The broad objective is, of course, to prevent the cost of living from spiraling upward and the purchasing power of the dollar from spiraling downward.

Puts Blame on Congress.

"I agree with you that we cannot fully or effectively enforce our price or rationing programs or fully or effectively stabilize the cost of living without an adequate tax savings program to drain off excess purchasing power.

"But because the congress has not yet provided the tax legislation I have requested, I cannot sit back and fail to advocate other measures such as limited consumers' subsidies which I am convinced can help to prevent the cost of living from getting completely out of hand.

"I think you will also realize that I did not announce a program of broad general subsidies at my press conference on June 15th. I stated my views on limited subsidies in order to maintain farm prices and hold down consumer prices, and stated my willingness to give full and sympathetic consideration to any program which would accomplish these two ends. None has been offered me."

RUTH MITCHELL CALLS SERBS TO INDEPENDENCE

Serbian-Americans can help preserve the freedom of America by supporting the fight for freedom of Gen. Draja Mihailovitch and his Chetniks, the guerrilla army now fighting in the mountains of Serbia, Miss Ruth Mitchell, sister of the late Gen. William Mitchell, and recently a Chetnik, told 200 delegates of the Serbian National Defense council of America yesterday.

The delegates, meeting in Serbian Eastern Orthodox church, 1905 Schiller street, unanimously indorsed the declaration repudiating Jugo-Slavia as a state and denouncing the Jugo-Slav government in exile, which was adopted by the council's executive committee Saturday.

The delegates represented Serbian-American organizations with 150,000 members. The declaration was hailed as the "Magna Charta of Serbian independence."

Evanston to Erect War Memorial to 40 Dead

The Evanston city council voted last night to erect in Fountain square a temporary memorial to men who have died in the present war. It will be built of wood at a cost of $300 and bear the names of the 40 Evanston men who have been lost in battle. Mayor S. G. Ingraham was requested to name a committee to plan a permanent war memorial to be erected after the war.

ABLE MAN LOST, BROOKS SAYS OF RESIGNING DAVIS

Holds Administration Drove Him Out.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], who warned the senate last week that Chester C. Davis should be given adequate powers as food administrator, rebuked the administration tonight for the circumstances that caused Davis' resignation.

"As a result of this administration's refusal to delegate authority to the one man who has the confidence of the commercial, industrial, and farming population of the country," Sen. Brooks said, "this nation has to be deprived of the services of one of the ablest men thus far called into our war program.

Driven Out of Service.

"The administration has brought full pressure to bear to intimidate congress to sustain such New Dealers as the Harry Hopkinses, Elmer Davises, and Aubrey Williamses, but has driven out of the service such a capable man as Chester Davis."

Sen. Brooks said last week in a speech opposing rollback subsidies:

"When Chester Davis was called back to Washington to assume the role of food administrator, many of us felt that a sound and sane progress was in the making. Instead, it turned out to be just another makeshift gesture. A capable man was given grave responsibility without adequate authority."

The Illinois senator urged at that time that Davis be given genuine authority over prices, production, and distribution of food.

Demands Congress Act.

"When Chester Davis was called in a critically late hour to tackle this tremendous job of food administration," Sen. Brooks said, "he was not even then made a member of our war mobilization board.

"The time has come for congress, in full possession of these facts, to fulfill its responsibility as elected representatives of the people and say no to any more half way measures and insist that full authority be granted to a responsible man to establish an intelligent program of producing, preserving, pricing, and distributing food."

OPA SUSPENDS DEALER; GRANTS IMMEDIATE STAY

Charles Krause, operator of the Jewel Milk stores at 5622 Cermak road and at 60th court and Cermak road in Cicero, was suspended from dealing in butter for 30 days yesterday, but the suspension was stayed immediately. The action was taken by W. M. McFarland, office of price administration hearing commission.

Krause was charged by James Lewis, attorney for the metropolitan OPA office, with selling butter for less than the required number of ration points at the start of the butter rationing period. Krause's attorney, and the OPA filed a stipulation that Krause had violated the regulation, but Krause contended that he merely followed a practice inaugurated by other stores in the immediate vicinity, and named a chain store.

Krause said he had not been notified of the violation. McFarland said the chain store had been notified of its violation and had complied thereafter. After Lewis refused to tell McFarland what the OPA had done with respect to the chain store, McFarland said that to notify one and not the other of violation was not treating them equally. He said the suspension order would be made effective if the OPA proved there were further violations by Krause.

Facilities Taxed

About a thousand more school children visited the board of education yesterday to obtain temporary summer working certificates. Mrs. Charlotte Resnick, clerk, said that since last Friday when the schools closed for the summer holiday, the children have taxed the board facilities in making applications. The summer certificates are issued to youngsters between 14 and 16 years old. In addition to the prospective summer workers, other wage earners under 17 who must attend continuation school once a week and those over 17 not previous employed have applied for working certificates.

YOU CAN DRINK MORE COFFEE EVERY DAY—BEGINNING THURSDAY

The No. 21 coffee ration stamp, which becomes valid Thursday, will be the first used in the increased allowance of a pound for each person every three weeks. The coffee ration under stamp No. 24, which expires tomorrow, has been at the rate of a pound every 30 days. Stamp No. 21 will be valid thru July 21. Coffee supplies are back to normal in the United States, and the office of price administration has reported that imports will be sufficient to maintain stocks.

No Extra Gasoline.

Pleas for extra vacation gasoline, even for war workers, will not be considered by local ration boards, Michael F. Mulcahy, area OPA director, said yesterday. Each motorist is entitled to only 90 miles of pleasure driving each month, Mulcahy said.

Truck Coupon Expires.

Truck gasoline coupon T will expire at midnight tomorrow, and a new coupon book, called "T T" to distinguish it from the old, will go into effect. Local ration boards are mailing the new coupon book to holders of T books. T books will not be honored by gas stations after June 30. The new book is bluish green in color, but otherwise is the same as the old.

FEED SHORTAGE PERILS POULTRY IN MEAT CRISIS

Sharp Reduction Seen in Fowl Supply.

The supply of poultry, which has become more plentiful in the last two weeks as beef became increasingly scarce in Chicago markets, is threatened by an impending feed shortage, it was disclosed last night.

"We are scraping the bottom of the bin," declared an officer of the Feed Industry council, "and our reserve ingredients are about gone. We cannot get more corn to make feed because we are not allowed to pay more than the $1.07 ceiling for it, while farmers can get $1.25 to $2 a bushel by feeding it to the hogs."

Production 20 Per Cent Short.

The American Feed Manufacturers' association reported that current production of feed is 20 per cent short of the volume needed to feed poultry and live stock, and will continue to decrease as ingredients become scarcer.

Many butchers reported yesterday that they had no beef in their refrigerators, or only a few scraps, and were not able to buy any from their wholesale houses. The scarcity of beef, with cattle grazing on the range in greater numbers than ever before in history, is blamed by the meat industry on office of price administration regulations that squeeze out the profit margin for ranchers and packers. The retail meat stores are remaining in business principally by selling pork, lamb and chicken.

Prices of fowl have risen to record peaks since Pearl Harbor. Ceiling prices today, compared with fair retail figures of December 12, 1941, show increases of 32 to 41 cents per pound for fryer chickens; 35 to 47 cents for roasting chickens; 29 to 35½ cents for ducks; 37 to 49 cents for turkeys, and 27 to 37 cents for geese.

Egg Mash Prices Rise.

Egg mash has risen from $48.50 a ton in December, 1941, to $55.40 in May, 1943; broiler mash from $48 to $55.80, dairy feed from $41.50 to $49.20, and hog feed from $45 to $53, according to figures given by a Chicago feed manufacturer.

The margin of profit was fixed for feed manufacturers by the OPA on Jan. 22, 1943, on the basis of average margins of January, March, May, October, November and December, 1942, and the effect in the majority of cases, it was said, has been to reduce the profit because production costs have continued to mount.

The manufacturers are refusing to sell to new dealers, and some retailers have quit business because they cannot get feed. More chickens are being raised this year than ever before, and some flocks may starve unless feed can be produced for them, it was said.

Poultry Dealer Desperate.

A poultry raiser near Chicago threatened to send the heads of 800 chickens to his dealer last week unless the dealer sold him feed, according to a manufacturer who said he had found the story authentic.

Feed manufacturers claim their prices have not risen disproportionately when compared with the costs of ingredients. Corn has gone up from $26.43 a ton in December, 1941, to $38.56 in May, 1943; oats, from $34.38 to $40, and barley from $25.83 to $35.83. There is a shortage of meat scraps, of which 75,000 tons are wasting in South America because of lack of ships, and of fish meal, because fishing boats have been curtailed, they added.

PASTOR'S DEFY OF OPA ON DRIVE BRINGS CHEERS

Off for Summer Home Despite Threats.

Hartford, Conn., June 28 [Special].—It is only 140 miles from this city, where the Rev. Fletcher D. Parker is pastor of Immanuel Congregational church, to Lake Sunapee, N. H., where the pastor has his summer home and victory garden, but his annual hegira from city to country today was bidding high as a cause celebre in gasoline rationing enforcement.

"You can't use gasoline to make a trip like that," said local office of price administration officials. "It's pleasure driving."

Despite the edict, the pastor was on his way today, his automobile loaded with rakes, hoes, and a washing machine, and an OPA summons in his pocket directing him to appear here Friday before the local war price and rationing board to defend his right to a gasoline ration book for the duration.

Assails OPA Order.

The Rev. Mr. Parker said he believed he had a right to use his "A" gasoline ration to drive to his summer home. He said that the OPA, by banning such driving, was acting against "the welfare of the country" and trying to "dictate the personal lives of our people."

Townspeople turned out in force to cheer the Rev. Parker on his way, for his feud with OPA over his trip has aroused widespread interest. He sought and received permission for the journey from Washington OPA authorities, explaining that he intended to use only his own saved up "A" coupons, but this permission was later canceled on the intercession of local OPA officials.

Will Return for Hearing.

As he drove away the pastor said he would return to Hartford by train Friday for his hearing and would gladly give his version of what he considers a test issue in the "interests of thousands." Connecticut OPA officials said they would ask the heaviest possible penalties in the Parker case, and it was indicated other summonses may be forthcoming from OPA boards in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Hartford newspapers have been filled with letters from readers sympathizing with the Rev. Parker. One writer asked: "Why don't they say we can use sugar in coffee but not in cake? It is equally as intelligent and uses the same brain cells that they use on gas restrictions."

NEW OPA DRIVE ON MOTORISTS STIRS A STORM

then decided to give public notice of a drive over the July 4th week-end, it was said.

Other Traps Likely.

"We are announcing our checkup in advance," Reinhardt said. "It is no old fashioned speed trap, nor blitzkrieg on drivers. The warning need frighten only the motorist who knows he is violating regulations. We are telling him publicly and in advance that he may be driving right into trouble."

Reinhart then indicated, however, that traps may be waiting for drivers who attempt to evade the check by detouring around Green Bay, which is a gateway to the northern Wisconsin vacation country.

"This notice will likely detour some of the violators who know they are outside the law with their present driving, but we expect it will detour them right into the arms of other investigators who are not announcing their checkup," he asserted.

He said that the drive is primarily directed against what he called "flagrant violators," and said his agents will not "be any bother at all to the fellow who is taking his family on a little holiday trip with gasoline his board has rationed him."

AAA Protests Action.

The American Automobile association protest was directed to Don T. Allen, OPA regional director at Milwaukee, and was signed by Glenn Stevens, chairman of the Wisconsin division of the association.

"We strongly protest your office giving Wisconsin rationing boards jurisdiction over out of state motorists arrested for rationing violations," Stevens said. "AAA national headquarters advises OPA Washington officials that the practice of taking out of state motorists before Wisconsin rationing boards is wholly unauthorized, as suspension of rationing privilege is solely within the power of the local board which issued such ration.

"All Wisconsin authorities can do is to report back to the motorists' local board. We understand that Washington officials are acting immediately to stop this unwarranted and dangerous assumption of jurisdiction."

ILLINOIS 'PICK AND SHOVEL' AIRMAN GETS MEDAL IN BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 28. — Five members of the United States 8th air force service command whom he described as "pick and shovel boys," were presented with medals today by Maj. Gen. Henry J. F. Miller, commander of the organization. The service command looks after the maintenance of American bombers operating from Britain.

Maj. Allen G. Russell, 47 years old, of Hollywood, Cal., was awarded the distinguished flying cross for saving three damaged but repairable B-17 Flying Fortresses which had crash landed.

His flying partner on these three dangerous flights was Master Sgt. Burton A. Davis, 25 years old, of Mount Morris, Ill. He received the air medal and was the first enlisted man in the service command to be so honored.

The air medal also was given to three officers.

During the ceremony Maj. Gen. Miller told how the service command had grown with the 8th air force and in one year's time it "has set up an efficient and extensive system of base depots, advanced air depots, bomb dumps, replacement centers, rest homes, and in-transit shipping depots."

After receiving his medal Davis, who is a six footer and slender, told The Tribune correspondent, "I am sure glad to get this and expect to send it back home as soon as I can."

BILL FOR PRIOR JUDGING OF TAX LEGALITY WINS

[De]signed as Benefit to Small Owners.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 28.—For the fourth time in six years the Illinois legislature today passed a bill providing for pre-adjudication of tax levies in Cook county to give small home owners the benefits of reductions ordered by the county court.

By a vote of 125 to 0 the house concurred in senate passage of the measure. Introduced by Sen. Richard J. Daly [D., Chicago], minority floor leader, it was handled in the house by Rep. Edward J. McCabe [D., Chicago], research chief for Assessor John S. Clark.

Bills of similar purpose enacted in 1937 and 1939 were invalidated by the Illinois Supreme court on technical grounds. The 1941 bill was vetoed by Gov. Dwight H. Green, acting on an opinion of an assistant attorney general. Daley contends that this opinion was in error.

Believes Objections Overcome.

"We are positive that technical objections have been overcome," Rep. McCabe said. "This is a fair play bill to extend to all property owners the savings resulting from court findings that parts of tax levies are illegal. In the past the reductions have been enjoyed only by large property owners who have been able to hire attorneys to litigate."

Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg of the house was one of the original sponsors of the measure in past years.

The law would apply an annual tax levies made after 1943.

Passed by the house today was Rep. Noble W. Lee's bill to authorize the Chicago park district to permit erection of a national monument to the marine corps by the Marine league with its own money. The monument would be in Grant park, which has been kept free from such structures. Concurrence of the senate is required.

Pass Pin Ball Bill.

A bill to exempt from the state gambling machine law pin ball machines where amusement is the sole reward was passed by the nouse, 83 to 23. Chicago, by ordinance, has banned such machines, which pay off for high scores in free games—officially—but often actually in cash if preferred. It now goes to the senate.

The movement of many years to require leveling off of the hills created by strip coal mine operations was advanced today by house passage of a bill for this purpose. Coal operators would be required to post bond of $400 an acre assuring the state that earth would be returned to the pits. A drive will be made to stop the bill in the senate.

Local government officials complain that much of the abandoned strip mine land becomes a total loss for tax purposes "for all time."

Twenty house bills on passage stage were killed by a single tabling motion today. Among them was a bill to permit downstate four year high school districts to establish two year junior colleges. This measure was introduced to placate southern Illinoisans, whose movement for a University of Southern Illinois had been blocked.

Close Vote on Ouster.

Rep. Frank Holten [D., East St. Louis], house dean in point of service, almost beat his threatened ouster in an election contest today. The election committee voted 12 to 11 to adopt a subcommittee report recommending that he be unseated in favor of his Republican brother-in-law, R. H. [Rudy] Huschle.

Rep. Dan Dinneen [R., Decatur] broke the party line by voting with Holten, saying, "He hasn't had a fair trial." And another G. O. P. member, Rep. Robert H. Allison of Pekin, echoed this remark and said he was reserving his right to vote for Holten when the case reaches the floor of the house.

Evidence in the case is the same as was involved in the unseating of Sen. Louis J. Menges [D., East St. Louis]. Republican John T. Thomas, city attorney of Belleville, today was given the oath of office in Menges' place.

A single Democratic election judge, allegedly appointed illegally, admitted marking 300 ballots for persons supposedly in need of assistance, in Stite township, precinct No. 1, St. Clair county.

Chicago School Peg Passed.

The house passed the Chicago school pegged levy bill at the rate of $53,200,000 a year for 1944 and 1945. Because Democrats scored a victory in the senate by having it passed there at the rate of $54,000,000 a year, the measure must return there for concurrence in house amendments. For 1942 and 1943 the peg was $52,000,000.

In the 112 to 7 vote Republicans who said "no" to the bipartisan agreed figure were Representatives Stanley C. Armstrong, Chicago; Alan E. Ashcraft Jr., Evanston; Henry D. Sparks, Shelbyville; David I. Swanson, Chicago; Fred J. Virkus, La Grange, and Warren L. Wood, Plainfield. They were joined by one Democrat, Felix E. Wilson of Clinton.

By a voice vote the house killed the bill passed by the senate to permit small loans at 1 per cent a month. This would compete with companies licensed under the small loan acts to charge 3 per cent a month. Death of the bill came by striking the enacting clause.

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

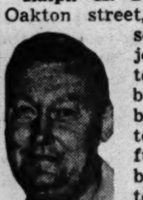
THE QUESTION.

What is the most humorous incident you've witnessed at a wedding?

WHERE ASKED.

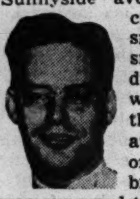
City Hall Square building, 209 North Clark street.

THE ANSWERS.



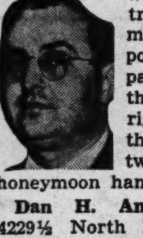
Ralph H. Fjellman, judge, 4718 Oakton street, Skokie—It always seems a pretty hard job for the bridegroom to put the ring on his bride's finger and this bridegroom seemed intent on doing a graceful job of it. The bride's 16 year old sister was ring bearer. As she handed the ring to the bridegroom he put it on her finger.

Samuel F. Strong, lawyer, 6214 Winthrop avenue—The judge next door called me in one day to serve as witness at a wedding. A tall, heavy woman was going to marry a short, thin man. At the close of the ceremony when the bridegroom was supposed to kiss the bride she stooped over, picked him up, and kissed him.



Nathan Smith, accountant, 3212 Sunnyside avenue—It's a Jewish custom to step on a small wine glass and smash it after a wedding. The new husband was determined to get the glass in the first attempt. He stomped on it squarely and broke it to pieces. It was supposed to be a serious part of the ceremony, but we heard several snickers.

Ernest F. Arlart, attorney, 2118 Wesley avenue, Berwyn—We were all set to see a beautiful formal church wedding. The bride had wanted it that way, we were told, but the bridegroom would much rather have had a justice of the peace affair. But as always the bride got her way. She got her way, all right, but not the bridegroom. He never did show up.



I. J. Karlin, lawyer, 1654 South Millard avenue—The couple who were married on the trapeze in an amusement park were supposed to descend in parachutes right after the ceremony, but the rigging caught and they spent the first two hours of their honeymoon hanging up there.

Dan H. Andernacht, attorney, 4229½ North Paulina street—The bride started down the church aisle, her long gown trailing behind her. Something on the gown, a pin or a price tag, caught the corner of a white streamer rug on the floor. As she walked the trailing gown seemed to grow longer. She had to stop while someone unhooked it.

BILL FOR STATE WAR LABOR UNIT IS MOVED AHEAD

Senate Is Nearing Final Vote on Proposal.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 28. — The series of measures to set up a war labor standards board which would have the power to recommend temporary relaxations of the six day week and women's eight hour laws when such relaxations are of aid to the war, were advanced to passage stage today in the senate without discussion.

Francis B. Murphy, director of the state department of labor, has asked for the measures as a war necessity, pointing out that war and navy officials frequently request relaxations when rush shipments of material are needed. The bills passed the house last week after one of the longest debates of the session. They had been stymied once by lack of votes, but most of the opposition melted away on the second trial.

Last week, when the bills seemed to be doomed in the house, Murphy canceled all relaxations now in effect in the state, saying that the attitude of the legislature made the cancellation necessary as a matter of state policy. When the house reconsidered its action on the bills and passed them, Murphy again granted certain relaxations which at the present time are made because of war time necessity, but are still questionable from a legal standpoint. Passage by the senate of the bills and the governor's signature will make such special cases legal.

Act on Mayoralty Vacancy.

The Republican caucus of the senate today agreed to back the relaxation measures, and also to stand behind the house bill which would repeal the special method by which the city of Chicago council was enabled to elect a mayor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Anton J. Cermak in 1933.

The bill, being pushed in the senate by Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago], would provide that a special election must be called within six months if the vacancy left by the death or resignation of a mayor is of more than a year in duration. If the vacancy is less than a year the city council may elect one of its own members as an acting mayor.

The senate advanced to passage stage the Cook county pegged levy bill of $9,500,000 for 1944 and $8,500,000 for 1945. The measure has already passed the house. Advanced from first to second reading by the senate was the house bill providing for a pegged levy for the Chicago park district of $10,500,000.

Scavenger Bills Favored.

The senate committee on revenue at a meeting late this afternoon voted out with a favorable recommendation the "scavenger" bills, which had been held in committee since the house passage. The bills are intended to force sale of long delinquent property to the highest bidder. Proponents claim that the bill will help Cook county's tax delinquency, but opponents have been wary over some features of the measures.

Among bills passed by the senate were measures:

To allow the taxing of private car line equipment.

To allow creation of a position classification agency by the Cook county board.

To allow the Cook county board to set up a new purchasing system.

To give Cook county hospital the same privileges concerning liens for treatment of injured persons as other nonprofit hospitals.

To create in the office of the attorney general a division for the enforcement of civil and equal rights for the investigation of all violations of laws relating to civil rights and discrimination.

SURVEY REPORTS AGAINST MOVING DOUGLAS TOMB

35th St. Site Symbolic, Commission Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 28.—Sen. Roland V. Libonati [D., Chicago], chairman of a commission created by the last general assembly to study plans for moving the tomb of Stephen A. Douglas from 35th street and the Illinois Central tracks in Chicago, today released his report, recommending that such plans are not feasible.

"The Douglas monument and tomb," the report reads, "in its present location is, in the opinion of the commission, more symbolic of the man it commemorates than it would be if placed in a site having lesser intimate relationship to his [Douglas'] life and career."

Committee's Findings.

Recommendations of the committee regarding the improvement of the present site of the tomb include:

Erection of a viaduct and facade or ornamental bridge and walk by the state over the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad to enable vehicular and pedestrian traffic to approach the Douglas monument from Burnham park, not creating, however, a traffic outlet at 35th street and Lake Park avenue.

Construction of a road by the state connecting the outer drive with Douglas memorial drive.

Enlargement of Douglas memorial park to include the woodland area bounded by 35th street on the south, Cottage Grove avenue on the west and 33d street on the north.

It was pointed out by the commission that much of the construction work recommended would have to wait until after the war.

Must Await End of War.

At the present time the tomb stands on two acres of ground acquired by the state in 1865 as a gift from Mrs. Douglas. The site is part of what was once Douglas' yard, a short distance from the site of his home which stood on the west side of the park.

Proponents of moving the tomb have contended that the present situation, due to shifting population, is now little frequented, is hidden from view to the west by a row of old buildings, and is subject to steam, smoke and cinders from the railroad. The proponents argued for a more central location and one more suited for a park.

County '42 Tax Payments in Excess of 49 Million

County Treasurer Victor L. Schlaeger said yesterday that 1942 tax payments to date have exceeded 49 million dollars. He added that large taxpayers have started to pay in anticipation of the July 1 penalty date and he expects to have in hand 75 millions by Thursday night. Last year tax collection before the penalty deadline was about 64 millions.

SCHOOL'S LUNCH PROGRAM SAVED BY CLOSE VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 28. — State legislation keyed in with the school children lunch program appropriation guided thru congress with the help of Sen. Wayland Brooks had a close call in the house tonight but was finally advanced without reference to committee. With final adjournment scheduled for Wednesday night, sending the bill to committee would have killed it.

There were just enough votes to suspend the rules to keep the bill alive, 77 to 36. The bill calls for $1,500,000 in state funds to obtain $4,500,000 in federal funds for Illinois. Local school boards may set up the free lunch programs and be reimbursed for the cost.

"This is a New Deal entering wedge," said Rep. Clinton Searle [R., Rock Island]. "Members here were insulted by lobbyists giving them bottles of milk."

"Sen. Brooks did as much as or more than any man to get this passed in congress," said Rep. Paul Powell [D., Vienna]. "No one has ever accused him of being a New Dealer. With more and more mothers in war plants, this measure is essential to keep up the health of our kids."

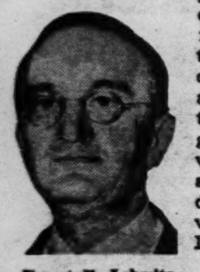
AIR RAID WARDEN PLEADS GUILTY AS GERMAN SPY

Use of Invisible Ink in Messages Charged.



Ernest F. Lehmitz.

New York, June 28 [Special].—An accused German spy today pleaded guilty to charges of gathering information on troop movements, convoys, and arms output for the Nazi intelligence service while working as an air raid warden in Tompkinsville, Staten Island.

The prisoner, Ernest Frederick Lehmitz, 57 years old, entered the plea before Martin C. Epstein, United States commissioner, and was held in $50,000 bail for grand jury action. Lehmitz, a naturalized citizen, will be prosecuted under the war time espionage act, which provides penalties of death or 30 years in prison.

E. E. Conroy, special agent of the federal bureau of investigation, said Lehmitz transmitted confidential war information to German espionage contacts by using invisible ink to write messages between the lines and on the reverse side of apparently innocuous letters to friends in Europe.

Bomb Sight Shipments Described.

His reports dealt with all fields of defense and included comments on American public opinion and civilian morale, which FBI agents said were of paramount interest to Nazi intelligence.

Conroy said one message described a shipment of bomb sights by the American government. Details concerning the construction and repair of ships at the Brooklyn navy yard, the loading of freighters at Norfolk and Newport News, Va., and the type and number of guns and tanks being carried in a convoy were included in the letters, Conroy added.

Lehmitz' 12 room house on Staten Island was on a high hill overlooking the narrows and lower New York bay. From its second story windows it was possible to watch the movement of ships in those waters.

Considered Active Warden.

James J. Royce, assistant air raid warden chief of Staten Island, said that Lehmitz was considered one of the island's "most active" wardens, adding that he never missed an alert or warning and was one of the first to get out on the street to see that blackout rules were enforced.

Neighbors said that until recently he had taken in many soldiers and sailors as boarders at his house and that he had worked in waterfront restaurants where men in the armed forces congregated.

One pretext which Lehmitz used, Conroy said, was that he was the owner of a button patent and received royalties from Germany which the FBI said was a means of his receiving money for his espionage work. On one occasion, Conroy said, Lehmitz received $1,447 in "royalties."

Told of Convoy Sailing.

One of Lehmitz' messages read as follows, according to Conroy:

"Eleven ships leaving for Russia, including steamer with airplane motors and 28 long range guns. One steamer has deckload airplanes, below deck airplane motors, Boeing and Douglas airplane parts on steamer with Curtiss-Wright airplanes, motors, and small munitions, searchlights, and telegraphic material."

Conroy said that Lehmitz was born in Hamburg, Germany, and first entered the United States in 1908, later returning to Germany, where he was schooled for work with the German consul in New York City.

Lehmitz worked for the consulate from 1913 until America entered the World war when he was classed as a dangerous enemy alien, Conroy added.

Conroy said Lehmitz returned to Germany in 1938, ostensibly to visit a sister, and was schooled in espionage. He returned to the United States in March, 1941.

NEW JAP DRIVE IN CHINA'S HUPEH PROVINCE SEEN

CHUNGKING, China, June 28 (AP).—The possibility of a fresh Japanese drive in western Hupeh, gateway to Chungking, was reported by Chinese military authorities today on the basis of intelligence information, the three important Japanese bases of Nanking, Hauchow, and Sinyang were believed to be the focal points of the new drive. There was also a transfer of enemy forces in central China around Hankow.

Military authorities said these movements "indicate another drive in western Hupeh might be in the offing." Chinese forces are prepared for any eventuality, the authorities said.

A communique announced today that Chinese forces have hurled back Japanese troops against their positions northeast of Hangchow, capital of Chekiang province, and killed or wounded about 400 of the enemy.

U. S. LIBERATORS RAID 2 AIRPORTS IN ATHENS AREA

North African Flyers Bomb Naples.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 28 (AP).—A United States communique said today:

"Formations of Liberator [B-24] heavy bombers of the 9th United States air force attacked Elevsis and Hassani airdromes near Athens in daylight on Sunday.

"At Elevsis, direct hits were scored on three large hangars. Bombs also fell in a fuel storage near administration buildings and on the field itself. Fires broke out in the target area and smoke rose from the airdrome as the raiders departed.

"At Hassani, direct hits were observed on both hangars with resulting fire and smoke. The dispersal areas were well covered with bursts and five aircraft were seen burning on the ground. Numerous hits fell near the workshops in the fuel storage area and adjacent to a bomb torpedo dump.

Destroy Seven Axis Planes.

"At both targets, our aircraft were attacked by large formations of enemy fighters and fighter bombers, the latter making unsuccessful attempts at aerial bombing [that is, attempts to drop bombs on American planes in flight].

"Seven enemy aircraft were destroyed, with eight others listed as probably destroyed. All our aircraft returned safely."

Staff Sergt. G. R. Unger of Elkhart, Ind., was credited with downing one of the axis planes.

The American bombers yesterday also dropped thousands of allied leaflets in which President Roosevelt saluted the long and heroic struggle of the Greeks and expressed to them the hope that their liberation was now not far off. The leaflets also told the Greeks of the presentation on June 10 of an anti-submarine patrol ship, the PC-622, to the government in exile of Greek King George II. by the United States under lend-lease arrangements.

Tell of Raid on Naples.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, June 28 (AP).—Allied headquarters in a communique issued today said:

"On the night of June 26-27 Wellington [British] bombers attacked Naples, Italy, where bombs were seen to fall in the dock area and on industrial plants.

"During enemy attacks on shipping on June 26 and during the following night six enemy aircraft were shot down by aircraft of the coastal air force and two by naval gunfire. From all of these operations two of our aircraft are missing."

The Wellingtons dropped incendiaries at Naples and then two ton blockbusters aimed at the railroad yards. The raiders ran into heavy searchlight and anti-aircraft defenses during the 15 minute attack.

REPORT BIZERTE ATTACKED.

The Italian high command had announced on Sunday that some damage had been caused at Naples by allied air raiders.

Harbor installations and allied shipping at Bizerte were reported to have been attacked by Italian aerial formations.

GIRAUD INVITED TO WASHINGTON BY ROOSEVELT

Acceptance Received; No Date Is Set.

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—President Roosevelt set the stamp of his personal approval today on Gen. Eisenhower's handling of the problems stemming out of French wrangling in North Africa by permitting an announcement that he had invited Gen. Henri Giraud to visit Washington when his military responsibilities permit.

In effect, also, the President's action tended promptly to confirm the authoritative summarization of American and allied policy toward French factions in Africa outlined in dispatches from Washington yesterday. The invitation to Gen. Giraud appears a definite new American rebuff for Gen. Charles De Gaulle, Giraud's rival for French military supremacy in the African operations theater.

No Date Announced.

The invitation was transmitted and Giraud's acceptance received thru military, not diplomatic channels, a month ago. No date for the Giraud visit has been announced.

It is indicated, however, that the French leader will not leave his post while allied invasion operations based on French Africa are pending or in progress.

His presence and coöperation under Gen. Eisenhower in carrying out plans for aggressive military action against the axis in continental Europe or its island outposts is deemed essential to success by the allied commander and the Anglo-American high command here and in London.

Orders No Interference.

That was revealed when Gen. Eisenhower informed the French Committee for National Liberation at Algiers that he could not permit it to interfere with Gen. Giraud's absolute command of French army, navy and air forces in North and West Africa, or tolerate attempts to disrupt Giraud's officer corps.

Gen. De Gaulle and his supporters on the French committee claiming to represent French sovereignty had sought to carry thru a reorganization of Giraud's forces.

KISKA BOMBED 7 TIMES; 5 BASES HIT IN SOLOMONS

Jap Air Fields, Camp Areas Blasted.

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—A sharp step-up in bombing raids sent American bombers against Japanese bases in 13 attacks on Saturday. The raids started fires in camp areas and damaged airfields and anti-aircraft emplacements.

The brunt of the assault, the navy reported today, was borne by Kiska, in the Aleutians, where heavy and medium bombers struck seven times in a day. In the South Pacific, much bombed Munda on New Georgia Island was attacked twice, while other bombers blasted Kahili, Rekata Bay, Ballale Island and Vila, all in the Solomon Islands.

Kiska Airfield Hit.

Anti-aircraft emplacements and the Japanese airfield runway at Kiska were hit and eight fires were started. The raids boosted to 16 the number of times bombers and fighters have attacked Kiska in three consecutive days.

In the Solomons dauntless dive bombers and avenger torpedo bombers blasted the runway at Vila and carried out two attacks on Munda.

Attack Two Jap Subs.

SOUTH PACIFIC HDQ., June 28 (AP).—Two Japanese submarines were attacked from the air in widely separated parts of the South Pacific over the week-end. A Hudson navy patrol bomber on reconnaissance spotted an enemy submarine Friday some 200 miles southwest of Suva in the Fiji Islands, and dropped a depth charge on the undersea craft. Shortly afterward, the communique said, a heavy oil slick appeared on the surface.

Another Japanese submarine was bombed in the Coral sea yesterday afternoon, headquarters reported.

NAVY REPORTS 5 FROM ILLINOIS IN LIST OF DEAD

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—Three sailors and two marines from Illinois were reported dead in a casualty list made public today by the navy. They were listed as:

Lt. [j. g.] Phillip Ambrose Bodinet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert C. Bodinet, 4337 Elston avenue, Chicago.

Robert John Keller, marine, son of William A. Keller, 2723 North Kedzie avenue, Chicago.

Richard Donald Kenney, marine, son of Mrs. Victoria Kenney, 2727 38th place, Chicago.

Daniel John Frydle, son of Mrs. Mary Frydle, 142 Arthur street, Clarendon Hills.

Frederick Germain Bourgasser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bourgasser, Springfield.

One sailor from Michigan was listed as dead. He was Lt. [j. g.] Frank Kleinbrink, son of Gerrit Kleinbrink, Otsego.

The list brought to 26,951 the total of navy, marine corps, and coast guard casualties reported to next of kin since Pearl Harbor. The total includes 7,684 dead, 4,732 wounded, 10,925 missing, and 3,610 prisoners of war.

YANKS IN BRITAIN SET FOR GREAT FLOW OF PLANES

Have Bombs to Increase Raids on Germany.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, June 29 [Tuesday]—(AP).—R. A. F. bombers returned to the attack on Germany last night, the British announced today.

A. U. S. AIR FORCE BASE IN BRITAIN, June 28 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Henry F. Miller, head of the United States army's 8th air force service command, said today that "we are definitely set for a great new flow of planes to this theater for the increased offensive against Germany."

"We have plenty of bombs, including 4,000 pounders," Miller said. "Our supplies are more than adequate. And we are ready to meet demands for a step-up by 45 per cent of the bomb load on Germany if called for."

This was a reference to reports from Washington, D. C., that the allies were planning a 45 per cent increase in the tonnage for the offensive by the end of July.

Miller said "it is possible" that even the 45 per cent increase would be exceeded eventually. "At any rate, it is a pretty good mark to shoot at in 30 days."

Yanks Bomb U-Boat Base.

LONDON, June 29 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Headquarters of the European theater of operations, United States army issued this communique early today:

"A large force of heavy bombers of the 8th air force attacked two important targets in enemy held France early Monday evening.

"One large formation of Flying Fortresses bombed U-boat installations at St. Nazaire while another strong force attacked a fighter airfield at Beaumont le Roger [30 miles southwest of Rouen] starting large fires.

"The bombing results on both targets were good. Intense flak [anti-aircraft] and some fighter opposition was encountered by one of the formations and the first destroyed a number of the enemy. Six bombers are missing.

"R. A. F. Spitfires and United States army Thunderbolts [P-47s] carried out supporting operations."

It was the third time in four days that American heavy bombers had struck axis targets. It was the ninth time the Americans had attacked the U-boat base at St. Nazaire.

Planes Sink Two Axis Ships.

A British air ministry communique said:

"In an attack on enemy shipping off the Dutch coast yesterday morning by Typhoons and Hurricanes two enemy ships were sunk and several others damaged.

"Yesterday afternoon Typhoon bombers attacked railway ground targets in Belgium. Yesterday evening other Typhoons with a fighter escort attacked the air field at Morlaix, France."

NEW AUTOMATIC SIGHT AIMS GUNS OF BIG BOMBERS

Eliminates Guesswork by Aerial Gunner.

New York, June 28 [Special].—A mechanical brain which takes the guesswork out of aerial gunnery and can make an untrained youth a deadly enemy of a Zero or a Messerschmitt within three weeks was demonstrated here today before a group of newspaper men and army officers by the Sperry corporation and the United States army.

One of the nation's most carefully guarded military secrets of the last three years, the device is now standard equipment for all Flying Fortresses.

Known technically as the automatic computing sight, the device is reducing aerial gunnery almost to the point of simple arithmetic. The sight automatically figures the "fall" of a bullet because of gravity during its deadly mission, accounts for the ballistic deflection caused by the wind, and calculates with unfailing wizardry the exact amount of "lead" required to blow up the enemy plane.

Guesswork Eliminated.

"It takes the guesswork out of aerial gunnery," according to Dr. Hugh Willis, general sales manager of the Sperry Gyroscope company. "We can take any normal, untrained young man and make him a sharpshooter in three weeks. Ask some of the pilots of those Japanese Zeros that have met our Fortresses recently—if you can find any of them alive!"

The only way an enemy fighter plane can stay safe from the gunners of a Flying Fortress is to maintain a respectable distance in excess of 1,000 yards. The effectiveness of the automatic sight is from 100 to 1,000 yards. Within that range, the job of any trained gunner "is reduced to the fingertip control of the handlebars," according to the experts.

[German fighters equipped with Mauser 20 mm. cannons have been reported as firing accurately from a range of much greater than 1,000 yards. Focke-Wulf 190 planes equipped with these cannons are said to be especially dangerous to our big bombing planes. German planes equipped only with machine guns previously had been comparatively ineffective against formations of American bombers.]

The mechanical brain is inclosed in a compact device which looks like a little black box, the weight of which is a military secret. It is an integral part of the Sperry designed upper local and lower ball turrets.

No Mental Calculations.

The gunner using the automatic device makes no mental calculations. This, it was pointed out, is an important consideration especially in high altitudes which sap a man's strength and slow his mental reactions.

All he has to do to set his mechanical brain thinking and working for him is to adjust the sight control to correspond to the dimensions of the attacker. Thus, if the attacker has a wing spread of 30 feet, he twists the knob on his dial to 30, much as if he were tuning in his home radio.

Atop the sight is a reflecting glass. Peering thru this glass, the gunner must get two illuminated vertical lines on the enemy plane, a line at the outermost tip of each wing. He does this by moving the turret in any direction he chooses and by operating a foot treadle which spreads the verticals to keep them on the wing tips of the enemy plane. This automatically and continuously keeps the computing sight "informed" of the range of the target. From then on, it does the rest.

The automatic computing sight is produced by the Sperry Gyroscope Co., Inc., and the hydraulic turret control mechanism by Vicker, Inc., both Sperry corporation subsidiaries.

NAZIS CROSSING DONETZ TRAPPED BY MINE FIELD

LONDON, June 29 [Tuesday]—(AP).—A German attempt to cross the Donetz river south of Izyum was frustrated yesterday by Russian troops who let the Nazi detachment stumble into a mine field and then wiped out those who survived the explosions, the soviet midnight communique said today.

A Moscow announcement, broadcast in advance of the communique, said Russian bombers raided the northwestern front rail junction of Orsha, about 130 miles south of Velikie Luki, Sunday night, hitting troop concentrations, trains, and supply dumps without losing a plane.

A Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said German bombers and fighters attacked rail installations north of Rostov, damaging several stations and wrecking a supply train.

The Russians said a company of enemy infantry which attempted to reconnoiter in the Lisichansk area of the Donets sector was routed by a bayonet charge after soviet troops had pinned the Nazis down with rifle and machine gun fire.

On another sector of the southern front Russian gunners were said to have silenced three German artillery batteries.

DICK TRACY—GLAD TO MEET ME

U. S. AIR FORCE WORLD'S BEST BY SPRING—ARNOLD

Superiority in Every Theater Predicted.

Washington, D. C., June 28 [Special].—By next spring the United States army air forces will be the most powerful ever assembled by any nation and will have superiority in the air in every theater of warfare.

This prediction of what is in store for the axis was made by Lt. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces, it was disclosed today, in testimony before the senate appropriations committee which recommended 71½ billion dollars for the war department during the coming fiscal year.

Arnold outlined plans for construction of 74,000 combat planes—36,000 bombers and 38,000 fighters—during the fiscal year beginning next Thursday, and emphasized that by early next year we will have "superior forces, both in number and quality, against every enemy air force which we will be opposing."

Conditions Have Changed.

"The condition," he said, "is therefore different from the last time I appeared before you when we were called upon to feed all eight different theaters in the four corners of the world, when we did not have the equipment, when we did not have the personnel, and when every theater commander quite rightly thought his job was the biggest in the war."

A disclosure that the army does not plan to raise its armed forces beyond the goal of 8,200,000 officers and men, including 150,000 WAACs, set for the end of this year, was made before the committee by Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff.

Once the goal of 7,500,000 enlisted men and noncommissioned officers is reached, he said, "it is our intention to maintain our army at 7,500,000 troop strength for the balance of the 1944 fiscal year."

Victory Is Approaching.

McNarney also gave the committee assurance that the allied nations rapidly are approaching final victory and a promise that war will be carried to Japan "in a most violent and destructive way."

A record of the testimony showed that Sen. Chan Gurney [R., S. D.] had warned Gen. McNarney that there was a growing tendency among some persons to feel that "the war is going to be over on Thanksgiving day" and that his statement of "rapidly approaching" victory might lead them to believe they were "on the right track."

McNarney conceded the word "rapidly" might be an overstatement, but added:

"In the training and equipping of our armies and getting them ready for combat, we have made enormous progress in the past year.

Jap Tide Turned.

"Our operations in the Pacific have turned the tide of Japanese advance into a gradual withdrawal toward their home bases. It is our intention to bring the war home to Japan in such a manner that the whole empire will feel its full impact in a most violent and destructive way."

Disclosures of the statements of the two high officers was coincident with the senate committee's movement to pass the 71½ billion dollar war department appropriation bill and with Presidential approval of a bill making 33 billion dollars available to the navy.

JAP DESTROYER AND 7 OTHER SHIPS SUNK BY U. S. SUBMARINES

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—Destruction of eight Japanese ships, including a destroyer and a mine layer, and damaging of three other vessels by American submarines raiding Japanese shipping lanes in the Pacific was reported today by the navy.

The bag brought to 269 the number of Japanese ships sunk, damaged, or probably sunk by American submarine action since the war began. Those figures include 190 ships sunk, 29 probably sunk, and 50 damaged. The communique listed the following vessels:

One mine layer, one destroyer, one large transport, three medium sized cargo vessels, one small cargo vessel, and one small schooner sunk, and one large transport and two medium sized cargo vessels damaged.

JAP PLANES RAID DARWIN; 2 SHOT DOWN BY ALLIES

Four More Damaged in 56th Bombing.

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, June 29 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Eighteen Japanese planes raided Darwin, Australia yesterday, the high command reported today, but only slight damage was caused and two of the raiders were shot down.

It was the 56th raid of the war on Darwin.

Nine bombers escorted by an equal number of Zeros took part in the midday attack. No casualties were reported.

One Allied Plane Lost.

Two fighters and two bombers probably were destroyed in addition to the two definitely shot down, the communique said. One allied plane was missing.

On the allied offensive side, heavy reconnaissance units bombed the airdrome at Rabaul.

Island Bases Bombed.

Other heavy bombers made a night raid on Laha airdrome, Amboina Island, and on the building area on nearby Beoroe Island.

Aerial operations were hampered by adverse weather conditions and results of the attacks were not observed.

Report Jap Peace Efforts Between Nazis-Reds Fail

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 28.—From Kuibshev, Russia, reports came today that Naotake Sato, Japanese ambassador to the soviet, has been attempting to negotiate a separate peace between Germany and Russia for the last six months. Josef Stalin's May day speech, emphasizing his adherence to the Casablanca policy of "unconditional surrender," is cited as proof that the attempt has failed. Sato, it is stated, has been trying to convince Stalin that it is useless for Germany and Russia to fight to a finish "for the benefit of the western democracies."

JAPAN TO FEEL BIG BLOWS SOON, SAYS CHENNAULT

General Encouraged by Visit to U. S.

U. S. 14TH AAF HDQ. IN CHINA, June 27 [Delayed]—(AP).—The tempo of the war against Japan will be increased "within a reasonable time," Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault said today.

"I anticipate that Japan will receive very heavy blows, if not decisive ones, within a reasonable time," he said.

In his first press conference since his return from Washington last month, Chennault said he was told there that "a considerable percentage of the total United States naval effort is being devoted constantly to the war in the Pacific."

"Not Forgotten Men."

"I was greatly encouraged by the attitude of the people and authorities back home," he said. "We aren't forgotten men out here by any means. The President and military leaders are carefully planning to use American resources and man power in the true global sense. Due to careful planning and coördination of efforts with our allies, certain priorities are necessary in the various theaters of combat.

"The war with Japan is certainly receiving the deepest consideration."

Chennault would not specify what he meant by a reasonable time. He said he found that the American people "are extremely war conscious, exerting tremendous efforts for the production of war materials and man power for winning the war."

Tells Pamphlet Story.

Reviewing American activities on the Chinese front during the last 10 days, Chennault said the 14th air force operations have been seriously hampered by unfavorable weather. He pointed out that the P-40s have been concentrating on freight trains, locomotives, trucks, and steamrollers "because that type of equipment is the most difficult for the Japanese to replace."

Chennault smiled as he told of pamphlets dropped by one of 25 Japanese fighter pilots when they attacked Lingling several weeks ago.

Tosser Is Shot Down.

The pamphlets said: "Our respects to your men who have taken great pains in coming to China. We take pride to say, in fact we are the strongest and the best in the world. We express our desire as sportsmen to hold a decisive air battle with you in a fair and honorable manner. We then can best prove to you the spirit and ability of our air force."

Chennault quoted a recent Domei news agency broadcast as saying "the American flyers didn't accept our challenge for reasons which they gave as tactical."

The facts were, Chennault said, that the P-40s intercepted the enemy squadron, giving the Japanese odds of two to one in their favor. The pilot who tossed out the pamphlets was shot down along with four of his companions. Four other planes were probably destroyed and the remaining Japanese fled. One P-40 suffered minor damage.

BRITISH EXPERTS IMPATIENT AT INVASION DELAY

Warn Public of Danger in Postponement.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 28.—While the axis continues to talk of the imminence of an allied invasion attempt there are signs of some impatience among military experts here at the delay in following up the Tunisian victory.

The public is being reminded that the days are now getting shorter, that further delay may be dangerous, that the lessons of the African campaign have demonstrated the power of the defense, and that the problem now confronting the allies is very different from and far more difficult than that dealt with in Africa.

Capt. Basil H. Liddell-Hart, a leading military writer, complained in the Daily Mail today that the public "has not been apprised of the full extent of the material superiority we enjoyed in the African campaign apart from our sea and air domination." He suggested that "under similar circumstances, the public may have gained an exaggerated idea of the total forces which we can dispose for the invasion."

Plan 1944 Initiative.

Gen. Robert Gordon-Finlayson suggested in the Star the possibility that Hitler's hope is that he can adopt defensive strategy for the time being with the expectation that he will be in a position to capture the offensive and the initiative in 1944. He suggested that a year in which the Germans can improve their submarines in speed, range, and tactics may give the allies more to do at sea than is now anticipated.

The Mediterranean fleets are said to have put to sea. An impressive allied armada has passed thru the straits of Gibraltar in an easterly direction, according to informants at Algeciras, Spain. The King George V. and the Howe, Britain's new 35,000 ton battleships, attended by four others, the Rodney, the Nelson and two of the Queen Elizabeth class, were said to be part of this armada and American battleships have joined the British fleet, said another report. The Italian navy also was said to have put to sea.

Nazis Move Armies.

Axis guesses as to the allied objectives seem to be Sicily at the toe of Italy and the Dodecanese Islands, footholds for a drive into the Balkans. The failure of the axis hardly to mention Sardinia and Corsica, below the coast of southern France, was regarded by the Evening Standard's military correspondent as significant. Fifty Nazi divisions were reported today to have been ordered west from the Russian front to be distributed as follows:

Ten to the strategic reserve, for use wherever needed.

Fifteen to western France; nine to northern France and four to southern France.

Twelve to the Balkans, partly replacing Italians.

Hitler is reported to have 180 divisions in Russia, 40 in France and the low countries; from 10 to 20 in the Balkans; from five to 10 in Italy; from eight to 10 in Norway and Denmark and 40 in reserve.

Swedish sources quoted axis news dispatches that all large towns in southern Italy had been evacuated of nonessential civilians.

Sues for Maintenance

Mrs. Virginia Ruth Laurel.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 28 (AP).—Film Comedian Stan Laurel was sued for separate maintenance today by Mrs. Virginia Ruth Laurel, to whom he was thrice wed and from whom he was twice divorced. Charging cruelty, Mrs. Laurel demands $765 a month, declaring Laurel is under contract for $50,000 for each picture he makes with Oliver Hardy, his rotund movie partner. She and the comedian were last married at Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 11, 1941, and separated the following May 31, her complaint says. They first married nine years ago.

MINES BLASTED 400 AXIS SHIPS, BRITISH REVEAL

Report Covers Action Off Europe's Coast.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 28.—Not less than 400 enemy warships, supply ships and small craft have been sunk or damaged by mines laid in European waters since the war began and the correct figure may be appreciably higher, evidence accumulated and reviewed by the admiralty and the air ministry shows.

A communique in reporting this today said that surface craft, submarines and aircraft had contributed to this "impressive and steadily growing total of enemy casualties by mining."

Bombers Chief Factor.

To the mines laid by aircraft of the bomber command were attributed approximately 70 per cent of these casualties. This, it was said, was due to their ability to reach areas inaccessible to other types of mine layers as well as other conditions which render them particularly suited for operations of this nature.

[Both the battle cruisers Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau were reported damaged by mines laid by aircraft of the bomber command during their escape from Brest.]

Recent Mine Victims.

Among the recent successes by the bomber command, the communique added, was the sinking by mines in the Baltic sea of the German Gneisenau, an 18,000 ton ship; while the tanker Eurosee, 11,000 tons; the transport Wuri, 7,000 tons, and the Consul Horn, 8,400 tons, were destroyed.

Another lesser, but important success was the mining of the train ferries Strake, 2,500 tons, and Malmo, 1,600 tons. Mines laid within a few miles of the enemy coastline were also responsible for the sinkings of the supply vessels Melilia, 2,700 tons, and Hogland, 4,360 tons.

BRAZIL SENTENCES FORMER NAZI ENVOY TO PRISON AS SPY

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, June 28.—Kurt Pruefer, former German ambassador, today was sentenced in absentia to 25 years' imprisonment for conspiracy with 17 others, of whom five were acquitted. Pruefer left the country soon after Brazil declared war on Germany and Italy.

The former ambassador was convicted of having organized a spy ring. Tulio Nascimiento, former army captain and alleged leader of the ring, received 30 years. The remainder of those convicted received from 20 to 30 years.

The spy ring was held responsible for the sinking of Brazilian ships with the loss of more than 1,000 lives.

30,000 JAPS FALL ON YANGTZE; 20 TAKEN PRISONER

ON THE UPPER YANGTZE FRONT, June 26 [Delayed] (AP).—Japanese dead and wounded in the unsuccessful push along the upper Yangtze river totaled 30,000, but only 20 were taken prisoner, according to official Chinese figures.

Army officials failed to disclose the number of Chinese casualties but Gen. Chen Cheng said they "were far less than those of the enemy."

Chinese officers explained that the small number of prisoners resulted from the Japanese practice of committing suicide rather than submit to capture. "Occasionally a single Japanese soldier will surrender when alone," one officer said, "but if several are together they die fighting or kill themselves."

U. S. PLANES POUND BURMESE RAILWAY CENTERS AND PLANTS

NEW DELHI, India, June 28 (AP).—United States bombers ranged over central Burma yesterday pounding at Japanese controled rail centers and industrial plants, a communique announced today. R. A. F. fighters carried out offensive patrols and R. A. F. bombers struck at Japanese troop quarters on Akyab Island.

Crews of the American bombers said hits were scored on switchbacks at the Sedaw railway station east of Mandalay and that many fires were started by bombs at the cotton mills of Myingyan.

Liberators again bombed the Japanese railway construction base at Thanbyuzayat, south of Moulmein. Hits were observed on warehouses and the destruction of a railroad train was reported. Radio installations and sawmills at Moulmein and Diamond Island were also successfully attacked.

DUCE PUTS MOST TRUSTED AIDS IN DEFENSE POSTS

BERNE, Switzerland, June 28 (AP).—Premier Mussolini's most trusted Fascist veterans have been given the job of preparing Italy for invasion. The Rome press today listed the names of 16 new provincial secretaries named last week, including five for Sicily and Sardinia. All either are members of the squadristi, Il Duce's old street fighting troopers, or are Fascists who won military honors. Most are both.

Foreign observers saw in this another indication of Mussolini's own supremacy in charting the battle he sees ahead, with Carlo Scorza, Fascist party secretary, as his "whip" for lashing both the party and the people into a mood for defense. To the provinces of Catania, Syracuse, and Trapani in Sicily have come three squadristi, two of whom served as commanders of squadrons in Fascism's street fighting days and all of whom were winners of military decorations.

B. F. Goodrich Dealers and Silvertown Stores offer the

ONLY SYNTHETIC TIRE BACKED BY 80,000,000 MILE ROAD TEST

Three years ago car owners started the greatest road test in history, driving thousands of Silvertowns (made with Ameripol). That's why you can have the utmost confidence in our all-synthetic tire of today—the 1943 Ameripol Silvertown.

WHEN YOU BUY a synthetic tire, use the same kind of good buying sense you have always used. Look for facts and evidence. Here's some—from a U. S. Senate Investigating Committee:

"The only general-purpose tire rubber which had been brought into small commercial production by 1940 was Ameripol, another B. F. Goodrich product. In the summer of 1940 Goodrich placed Ameripol tires on the market . . . and recent reports on the performance of those tires seemed to indicate that Ameripol was equal or possibly superior in durability and service to the crude rubber product."

Thousands of these Ameripol Silvertowns were driven in every state, and under every condition of road and climate. They were driven the way drivers drive them—and not by factory experts. Results show that these tires were "at least as good as those made with natural rubber." Some are still in service.

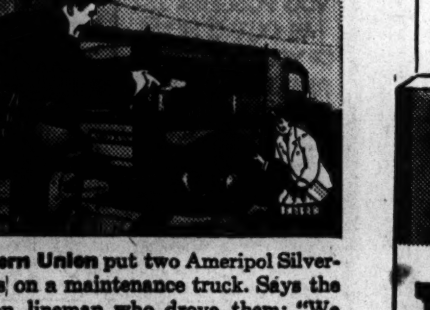
In these Silvertowns, more than half the natural rubber was replaced by synthetic. In the new Silvertowns, offered today, more than 99 per cent of the natural rubber is replaced by synthetic. And these new Silvertowns have been undergoing a severe test, too—the test of battle on a dozen fronts.

If you buy on proof of performance, you'll surely choose the B. F. Goodrich Ameripol Silvertown . . . the all-synthetic tire for 1943!

Some of the hundreds of companies that made the greatest tire test in history

Standard Brands bought a number of Silvertowns made with synthetic rubber back in 1940. Some of these tires went more than 30,000 miles!

American Airlines bought made-with-synthetic Silvertowns months before Pearl Harbor. The tires on this airfield maintenance truck went 29,519 miles.



Western Union put two Ameripol Silvertowns on a maintenance truck. Says the section lineman who drove them: "We should receive 30,000 miles from them."

There still is a critical rubber shortage. Most synthetic rubber is needed for vital war requirements. Every American must continue to conserve rubber. Follow the five basic rules of tire conservation from the office of the Rubber Director:

1. Drive only when absolutely necessary
2. Keep under 35 miles an hour
3. Keep your tires properly inflated
4. Have them inspected regularly
5. Share your car with others

RAIL PRESIDENT NAMED TO KEEP MINES WORKING

Ickes Appoints Newton Operating Director.

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes announced tonight that he had appointed Carl Elbridge Newton, 45 year old president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad company, as director of mine operations for the federal government.

Carl E. Newton.

In the meantime the number of coal miners remaining away from the mines was estimated at 156,550. "No contract, no work," was their attitude.

Ickes, as custodian of the mines which the government took over on May 1, designated Newton to head the organization charged with keeping coal production going until the labor crisis endangering it is past.

Newton is a Cleveland resident and was formerly assistant United States district attorney in New York and special assistant state attorney general for New York.

Long Domination Seen.

Appointment of a director of mine operations underscored Ickes' statement to a congressional committee today that while he hoped government operation of the mines would be brief, "I regret to say there is nothing that leads me to believe that this will be so."

Newton will have a status independent of the solid fuels administration headed by Ickes, but will have the services of the solid fuels office. He will be responsible directly to Ickes for mine operations. Ickes' office reported he was expected here tomorrow to start his new work.

In Cleveland, Newton said, "My job is to get maximum production of coal from the mines, subject, of course, to the limits of my authority. Neither Secretary Ickes nor I have jurisdiction over wages, nor any power to make a contract with the mine owners."

Brief Rail Career.

Newton's active railroad career started only last Dec. 15, when he was elected to succeed George D. Brooke as president of the C. & O.

The C. & O. noted that Newton had "been actively connected with railroad matters since 1938 thru his membership in the New York and Washington law firm of Donovan, Leisure, Newton and Lumbard."

Many Miners Remain Idle.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 28 (AP).—Ignoring votes to return which had been taken by many United Mine Workers locals in the Appalachian states Sunday, about 58,000 of the 83,000 anthracite miners remained idle in the eastern part of Pennsylvania.

Almost as many continued their "holiday" in the soft coal regions of central and western Pennsylvania, where some of the miners were represented as having decided not to work today after voting to do so Sunday.

Peaceful picketing was reported at the Maxwell and Bridgeport mines of the Frick company. The 1,150 miners at the two pits near Uniontown, Pa., gave assurance yesterday that they would return to work, but changed their minds overnight.

Steel Suppliers Idle.

Isabella [Pa.] mine of Weirton Steel company, and Crucible [Pa.] mine of the Crucible Fuel company, chief supplier of coal for Crucible Steel Company of America, were idle.

In Illinois Fred S. Wilkey, secretary of the Illinois Coal Operators' association, reported all UMW mines working with virtually all the 25,000 miners in the pits. Wiley said most of the state's 15,000 Progressive union miners also were working.

More than three-fourths of Alabama's 24,000 union miners remained idle today.

WOMAN FOUND SLAIN; SUICIDE, SAYS HUSBAND

Mrs. Mendoza Hazel, 57 years old, was found slashed to death in an apartment room at 720 Barry avenue yesterday after she and her husband, John, 59, quarreled over his refusal to go shopping for groceries. He said she cut her throat with a razor.

Hazel said one of their ration books had been lost and he told her he didn't believe the other contained enough points to buy the articles she wanted him to get. His wife struck at him with a razor and he pushed her away, he said. Afterward he lay down on a bed and said he was unaware of her injury until police, called by neighbors who reported they heard Mrs. Hazel scream, entered the room.

The Hazels, who had been married 30 years, both were employed in the same war plant, police said. Two days ago the two quarreled outside the plant when Hazel ordered her to quit her job.

F. D. R. Fought Labor's Own Policies, Hoffman Charges

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Washington, D. C., June 28.—The secret strike vote and the cooling off period before a walkout, provisions of the new anti-strike law which were found objectionable by President Roosevelt, are established policies of the American Federation of Labor and have been so for years, Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] told the house today.

The Michigan congressman quoted from records of congressional hearings containing testimony by AFL officials that a 90 day cooling off period is a standard clause in employer-employe agreements dating back 50 years. In addition, William Green, AFL president, according to committee records, told the house judiciary committee a little over two years ago that it is the policy of his organization to hold a secret ballot on the question of a strike.

Recall Green's Warning.

Reading of the testimony also awakened the echoes of a bold warning by Green in May, 1941, that any attempt by congress to outlaw strikes probably would lead to "rebellion" by union members. Taking on new significance in view of the developments last week, the AFL president's prophecy of two years ago was heard with interest by many of the legislators who joined in passage of the Smith-Connally act over a Presidential veto.

Green at the time was testifying at hearings on work stoppages and delays in the war production program. He told the congressmen that organized labor had adopted a "no strike" policy voluntarily, then added flatly:

"But the probabilities are if congress would say 'you must do that,' then there would be rebellion."

In his veto message, which was quickly overridden by both houses last week, President Roosevelt assailed these provisions of the bill on the ground that they would promote strikes rather than discourage them.

Charges "Amazing Ignorance."

"Is it possible that the President and his advisers are ignorant of the history of labor legislation which has been presented to congress in the last few years?" Hoffman asked. "Is it possible that the President, who is on terms of warm personal friendship with labor leaders, is unaware of their policies as expressed in their testimony, which is part of the official records of the government?

"The fact is that the President himself displayed an amazing ignorance of fundamental labor policy and an utter disregard of the reasons for substantive law. There seems to be only one reason for the President's objection to the legislation and that is that he does not want a democratic policy, which has shown its worth by lessening strikes, to apply to his political allies."

Meanwhile, Solid Fuels Administrator Harold Ickes, appearing befor the house ways and means committee, described the present situation in the coal mines as chaotic. He refused to predict when the government will be able to return the mining operations to the civilian owners.

Takes Pessimistic View.

"I hope the government operation will be exceedingly brief, but I must tell you that at the moment there is nothing in the situation that makes me believe this will be the case," he said pessimistically.

Urging continuation of the Guffy bituminous coal act for two more years beyond Aug. 23, Ickes appeared before the congressmen as thousands of miners were still out on strike. Continuation of the strike, with its crippling effect on war production, will make the union leaders subject to the penalties in the law for directing or aiding a strike in a government operated industry.

Ickes was guarded in his testimony on the effect that the reduced coal output will have on war production, but admitted that it is "touch and go" as to whether sufficient coal can be mined to meet war plant needs. The government has no plans for nationalization of the mines, he said, and they will be turned back to their owners as soon as there is positive assurance that the United Mine Workers will work for the regular operators.

He added that he is attempting to remain on the best of terms, with both miners and operators, then went on grimly:

". . . as much as I would enjoy jumping into the fight."

Hoffman Quotes Testimony.

In his speech from the house floor assailing Mr. Roosevelt's veto of the anti-strike measure, Hoffman quoted from the testimony of George Meany, who appeared before the house rules committee in April, 1941, as secretary-treasurer of the AFL, and from testimony of AFL President Green on May 7, 1941.

Despite their statements that a secret strike vote and a cooling off period are regular procedures of the federation, the records show, both were opposed to have the same procedures made mandatory by law.

UNION OFFICIALS BACK COAL PACT BEYOND JUNE 30

Springfield, Ill., June 28 (AP).—Delegates attending the reconvened scale convention of the Progressive Mine Workers of America heard a recommendation from union officials today that they approve an extension of the temporary contract with operators expiring at midnight June 30. A formal vote was deferred until tomorrow.

The recommendation came from the union executive board headed by President Lloyd A. Thrush.

The scale convention, which is expected to be in session three days, also deferred a vote on the question of authorizing federal court action to test the legality of portal to portal pay already agreed to by Illinois coal operators in the amount of $1.50 per day.

U. S. HANDOUTS CHOKING PRESS, HOUSE IS TOLD

End in Waste Basket, Grant Declares.

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—Rep. Robert A. Grant [R., Ind.] told the house today that newspapers "are being choked to death by the flood of government handouts, while on the other hand these continued cuts in the supply of newsprint strike out at the jugular vein of our free press."

"Last Friday," Grant said, "the war production board announced that recommendations have been made to require newspapers to reduce their use of newsprint by another 5 per cent the first of July."

Inconsistency Charged.

Saying the government's actions are not consistent with this recommendation, Grant continued:

"There isn't a newspaper publisher in the land who would hesitate at taking his pro-rata share of any necessary cut, and even more, if he felt that the government itself was setting a good example.

Most Are Valueless.

"But such is not the case. Three thousand two hundred government publicity agents still flood the country with handouts on every conceivable subject under the sun that end up in newspaper waste baskets. Most of them serve no useful purpose whatever. They only add to the sum total of the country's available supply of waste paper."

Grant exhibited what he said was a four page government release accompanied by 10 pictures, 8 by 10 inches in size. He said they had been sent to newspapers.

"With the release," Grant said, "comes a request that editors using the release send a clip sheet back to the public relations officer."

ARGENTINA SUGGESTS SENDING MISSION TO CONFER ON U. S. AID

Washington, D. C., June 28 [Special].—The new military government of Argentina has suggested sending a special mission to Washington to improve relations with the United States, it was learned tonight.

While informed quarters indicated that to say the United States had declined to receive the mission would be overstating the case, as it was "just a suggestion that was thrown out," the attitude here as hitherto defined has been that Argentina could not expect lend-lease assistance from this country until her government carried out the policy unanimously adopted at the Pan-American conference by breaking relations with the axis.

Some observers here believe that President Pedro P. Ramirez would like first to negotiate with the United States to determine the character and quantity of aid that will be forthcoming in case the axis diplomatic missions in Buenos Aires are sent home.

Charge of Flag Insult Continued to June 30

Michael J. Ladny, 34 years old, 2035 Sedgwick street, a war plant worker, was arraigned in Chicago avenue court yesterday after two other war workers accused him of shouting "To hell with the American flag." Ladny denied the charge. Judge N. J. Bonelli continued a disorderly conduct charge until June 30.

STEAL JEWELRY AND CASH.

Brown Waste Paper Shortage Is Critical

A serious waste paper shortage exists, due to heavy war demands for paper products. WPB officials are urging the public to help relieve the shortage by saving all forms of brown paper—brown bags and containers, old brown wrapping paper—for conversion into necessary military equipment. Your used brown paper will help make blasting kegs, airplane parts, and other war weapons. Flatten out boxes, stack loose brown paper into bundles. LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—HEADIN' FOR THE RIVER

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—HEART OVERRULES HEAD

In the burning desert, mighty 155 mm. howitzers blazed a path for General Eisenhower's troops to win a decisive allied African victory. Millions of shells to feed these guns—hungry for future victories that will surely come—have been manufactured by Pullman-Standard.

6 SHELLS FOR EISENHOWER—INSTEAD OF 5

A revolutionary new method that saves steel, cuts costs and speeds production to smash six hammer blows at tyranny—in place of only five

Six shells where only five grew before!

The secret of that potent increase is a different type of draw bench which permits far greater accuracy of forging and produces a 155 mm. howitzer shell from a 126-pound billet instead of from the standard 150-pound billet. More than six for five—actually six and four-tenths!

Pullman-Standard alone has saved 28 thousand tons of precious steel by this method—fed an extra ration to Freedom's hungry guns everywhere; to say nothing of saving countless dollars for American taxpayers. Pullman-Standard introduced this better method in this country—tried it, proved its worth—made it available to all who sought to learn. Alert manufacturers recognized and adopted this new process, thus saving countless additional tons of precious steel.

Six instead of five!—and this is only one of many stirring war-born improvements that must surely, in days to come, help to win peacetime victories; even as now they contribute so much to winning on battlefields of human Freedom!

For, as we explore into complex postwar problems, we shall find this to be true—our most precious "discoveries" will be those devised and perfected in the vast laboratory of America's war production. Scientific and engineering improvements past counting!—new and better metals and techniques, faster production methods, new and ingenious applications of proved and trusted devices and processes—and above all, better Men! Men who have dug deep into themselves and found new and inspiring capacities for usefulness!

Men from apprentice workers to highest executives, who have been forged and tempered to new alertness, to new capabilities! Men who are dynamic symbols of the extraordinary inventive genius, the infinite resourcefulness, the inextinguishable curiosity of American industry.

To Transportation of Tomorrow, Pullman-Standard dedicates all its wealth of new and better methods developed in the crucible of war production; and rededicates its 84 years of rich and varied experience. We serve Transportation. We have grown with it—we are part of it. All our potent resources of men and machines have this one objective—that through better Transportation we may serve you Tomorrow, with such convenience and economy, comfort and safety as this world has never before known.

3463 Manufacturers, Large and Small Unite to Spread the Work

Under Pullman-Standard's co-ordination and direction, and operating under 29,435 contracts, 3463 suppliers and sub-contractors contribute to the vast armament production program undertaken by this Company. Pullman-Standard draws upon 1630 small manufacturers, 1200 medium-sized ones, and only 633 that could be considered large. Many of these sub-contractors have in turn let sub-subcontracts—thousands of them—one medium-sized manufacturer alone drew on 500 sub-subcontractors and suppliers. With this democratic plan of spreading the work there have been or are now being produced by Pullman-Standard:

Tanks • Howitzer Carriages • Bombs • Shells of various calibers & sizes • Parts for Anti-Aircraft Gun Mounts • Aircraft Major Sub-Assemblies • Trench Mortars • Naval Patrol Craft • Freight & Passenger Cars for the Army, Navy & Railroads

Other materials for the war program are also being manufactured by Pullman-Standard under sub-contracts.

ARMY E NAVY

Pullman-Standard plants at Butler, Pa. and Hammond, Ind. have been given the Army and Navy "E" Production awards.

ROOSEVELT'S STRUGGLE FOR DOMINANCE.

Mr. Roosevelt's latest attempt to add new links to the chain of executive authority—and what happened to it—may be recognized as a part of his persistent struggle for personal dominance.

Before he vetoed the anti-strike bill he said he had his own preferred way of handling work stoppages in war production. He would take hold of the worker under military law. Thereby he could institute involuntary servitude. He didn't call it that, but it was nothing less. He would ask congress, he said, to amend the selective service act by increasing the age limit to 65 years. Virtually all the coal miners under such a law could have been taken for non-combat duty and sent into the mines under army command and discipline.

The response of congress to this disclosure of executive will was to pass the anti-strike bill over the veto and do it in record time. Mr. Roosevelt was maladroit and malapert as a man may become when he has accustomed himself to pride of decision and abrupt command. But Mr. Roosevelt knew what he was trying to do. Congress must have recognized the old pattern of the conflict. The contest was one which will recur whenever the executive undertakes to destroy the balance of representative government and take over as an unfettered ruler. Mr. Roosevelt's historic clashes with congress in the progress of his three terms have centered on this momentous struggle.

Congress sent Mr. Roosevelt a draconic act. It put an instrument of power in the hands of the government which only the necessities of war could justify. It made the state an employer against whom it was criminal to organize a strike, criminal to encourage a strike or even give subsistence to strikers. For the protection of a people at war the whole trend of protective labor legislation was reversed. Whereas private employers may be required to maintain union organization by collecting the dues and thus making the financial position of the organization impregnable, the state could destroy the union and put its leaders in jail. Draconic as this legislation was, and is, it preserves to the individual his day in court, his right to the judicial process. The administrator could not send the labor leader to jail. The offense had to be proved. That still was government by law.

Mr. Roosevelt did not object to the severity of the act. He proposed a greater severity. The familiar taint of his idea was that he should be given personal authority. That was government by a man. He could direct the seizure not only of leaders but of all the workers, whose right to quit work was recognized in the act he vetoed but would not be recognized by him, and with the army at his command, chain the men to their work. France broke a railroad strike by mobilizing the railroad men. The present condition of that country is not a testimonial to the wisdom of its government. In the dispute with congress Mr. Roosevelt at once and almost automatically revealed his theory of government by personal decision and executive order.

The statement in which he proposed this form of involuntary servitude, apparently, was all congress needed for its own decision to pass the anti-strike law again and give the new attempt at extraordinary prerogative a sharp check. The manner in which the bill was repassed stigmatized the executive proposal as presumptuous. It was, but not, therefore, unusual or unfamiliar in the three terms.

From the moment of his first inauguration Mr. Roosevelt has imposed on congress the necessity of resisting his efforts to change the character of American government. He has been favored by conditions in which the extension of executive authority could be made plausible and by emergencies which could be used as excuses for government by edict. Congress first met him on this issue when he demanded personal control of the Supreme court and the right to bend it to his desires. That stroke at the judicial power of government was so astonishing that congress had to adjust itself to a new perspective before it could cope with the audacity. Then the senate fell upon it, describing it as a proposal to destroy judicial independence and expressing the hope that nothing like it ever would be suggested to the legislative branch again. That rebuke, altho unique in our history, did not avail.

Even then Mr. Roosevelt's capacity for persistent assault upon the American form of government was not recognized. He has never desisted. A cherished part of his career is his program for changing the laws and traditions of the republic and leaving as his gift to posterity an office of unlimited tenure and powers.

For that he took the third term and for that he seeks the fourth.

THE EDUCATIONAL SURVEY BILL.

The legislature has pending before it the Peters bill providing for an educational survey to guide the policy of the state in this field after the war.

Such a survey was recommended by Dr. George A. Works, Gov. Green's adviser on higher education. One of the subjects that the surveying commission would consider would be a system of junior colleges with state aid or support. The inquiry would be a useful one and it is to be hoped that the bill is not lost in the final hurly-burly of the legislative session.

The proposal to establish a second state university at Carbondale also remains on the legislative calendar. After its rejection in its original form by the senate, this measure was amended and passed. It is still a bad bill. While some of the forms have been changed, the substance of the bill remains as it was, establishing in the state two universities to compete for public funds in carrying out the same tasks. Every state in which this has been tried has found the system a failure. The legislatures in the states which have tried the plan have found the rivalry inevitable to such a situation damaging. Our legislature should save Illinois from such a mistake.

HOW THEY GOT THAT WAY.

The National Association of Manufacturers reminds us in a newsletter that Ganson Purcell, chairman of the securities and exchange commission, the government agency which controls the flow of capital into business and regulates the operation of the securities market, was a witness at a hearing of a house subcommittee not long ago. He was questioned as follows by one of the members of the committee:

Mr. Wolverton: Have you ever had any practical experience with the businesses that you are now regulating?

Commissioner Purcell: I have had a great deal of practical experience with the business we are regulating.

Mr. Wolverton: I would be pleased to know what it is.

Commissioner Purcell: By virtue of the very work I have to do in the commission.

Mr. Wolverton: I mean aside from that, what?

Commissioner Purcell: You mean, was I ever employed by a broker or any company?

Mr. Wolverton: Either; in any field of business endeavor outside of public office.

Commissioner Purcell: I have never been in private employment.

Mr. Wolverton: What did you major in in college?

Commissioner Purcell: I majored in English.

Mr. Purcell came out of his English classes at Williams and Prof. Frankfurter's law classes at Harvard into one of the government bureaus. He is the biggest man in the securities business, but he never had to make decisions about the investment of funds. The only side of it he knows is the New Deal side. He arrived at his high place because he has the advanced views of the radicals who directly advise the President.

Ganson Purcell is only one of hundreds of young men who went from college to the public pay roll. The government is full of academic fellows who were graduated during the depression and went to work for the New Deal. Some of them came out of Harvard law school, where they were disciples of Prof. Frankfurter. Others came from Princeton and were imbued with radical doctrines by Prof. Galbraith. Others were proteges of Prof. Tugwell. Others were taught what they now profess by students of the radical professors.

In the depression, the young men with the advanced thought worked themselves into places of prominence. By the time war came these career men were far enough along to make themselves felt. In every step that has been taken the young radicals have taken a part.

Leon Henderson, whose business experience had been confined to lobbying for small loans legislation as an employe of the Russell Sage Foundation, looked after the interests of the radicals in predecessors of the war production board. Later he ran the division of civilian supply and the OPA, until his radicalism brought him into bitter conflict with congress. His views about subsidies still dominate the OPA. His executive assistant in civilian supply has been running that activity until very recently. Ben Cohen, another career man, was the chief of staff of the office of economic stabilization, the agency which Supreme Court Justice Byrnes resigned to head. Cohen wrote the regulations limiting salaries to $25,000 a year. He is now chief of staff to Byrnes in the latest "over all" agency, the office of war mobilization. Life after the World war was being prepared for the country by the national resources planning board with Eveline M. Burns, a radical from Great Britain, directing the research. Miss Burns was the author of the plan for social security from cradle to the grave which the President has already asked congress to approve. A scheme for a world currency system, denounced as outrageous by several leading authorities, was announced in April, the author being Harry White, whose experience was confined to a bureau. And, as we have seen, the boss of the capital markets is the English student, Mr. Purcell.

The London Statist, an old and highly respected journal of economics and finance, has pointed out that in Britain as well as in the United States the half-baked planners are active. Speaking of both countries, the Statist said a short time ago: "No sooner were the young men and women safely under the discipline of uniform than a horde of planners rushed forward with marvelous schemes for state control, each one of which contained one outstanding prohibition, the prohibition against living in the mode of our fathers. . . . War, which is the horror of normal men and women, has been converted into the planners' delight. Nor is it without significance that the most insistent and persistent planners are either remote and withdrawn men and women in sheltered academic robes or of personal origins alien to the races upon which they would clap their controls."

One of the greatest misfortunes has been that we became involved in war before the New Deal revolutionaries were turned out. To give credit where credit is due, we recognize how well a contemporary foresaw this. The Chicago Daily News on Sept. 4, 1936, with Frank Knox in active direction of it, said in an editorial:

"Mr. Roosevelt was a member of the memorable Wilson administration which, in trying to keep us out of war, got us into it. He is by nature an experimenter. He likes to try new things. He is no more bound by precedent than by his own statements. Caution with him is something to be thrown to the winds. His hand on the tiller of a little sailboat may be skilful enough. But judging by the zigzag course he has steered in the last three and one-half years, his hand on the tiller of the ship of state is amazingly erratic. It is bad enough to have for President in time of peace a man who is over-confident, incautious, self-willed, uncertain, and unreliable. It time of war, it would be disastrous."

THE FISHING'S WONDERFUL.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Floods are not without their good points. The Illinois conservation department has just announced that fishing is better than ever in the central and southern parts of the state.

The fish have been living the life of Riley in the flooded streams. There has been more water and more food for them, and less pollution. Contrary to superstition, fish taken from flood waters are especially good to eat.

In other words, the fishing is wonderful—just when war conditions make a fishing trip virtually impossible.

After all these years of serving as a Presidential punching bag, congress has swung back with the old "one-two."

Chicago seems bent upon having an old fashioned summer. In the 1890's the inhabitants often moved their beds to the windows in order to catch a few gasps of cool air in the sultriness.

The death of Mangasarian in Los Angeles recalled the period when independent preachers were important contributors to the Sunday life of Michigan avenue. His name was familiar for a quarter of a century, and his Orchestra hall congregation was large and admiring. His daughter married Raymond Hitchcock, comedian of musical shows, and often appeared as prima donna in his companies under the name of Flora Zabelle. A younger daughter also took to the stage as a chorus girl.

When future historians, perhaps a century hence, try to fix a date for the ending of the old way of life in Chicago, they may say 1928. That was the last year in which a city directory was published. Up to that year even the humblest citizen had an individuality and was recognized by the listing of his name, residence, and employment in the directory. After it came the ant-hill era, with social security numbers, draft boards, registration cards, ration coupons, and a torrent of rhetoric about democracy.

ONE OF THE OLD GUARD.

Somehow I really like to bake
An eggless, butterless, sugarless cake.
And when there's scarcity of meat,
I rustle up something else to eat.
If I can't have silk, why should I care?
There's plenty of other stuff to wear.
And I can remember back so far
That nobody had a motor car,
And every one walked and didn't mind it.
So maybe that is why I find it
Easy to view my life with ardor
When handicapped to make it harder.

The Duke Enjoys a Picnic.

Hon. Linemaster: Once a year tha mama goes super-nutz via the annual pilgrimage to tha forest preserve near Des Plaines, which is known as Dam No. 2. Why they don't change tha number is a mistery to me cause I know I've damned tha place more than twice. I try an get her in good humor so she'll laugh tha picnic off, so I pulls one of my famous wise-cracks à la, "Why go to tha preserves and get squashed to jelly in tha jam." [Gosh, how I laughed.] Guess this masterpiece was over her head cause all she does is to say, "What smells around here?"

Ennyway last Sunday we went. This year we hadda take dishes with us whereas last year we got em fer nothin on tha road every time we bought 3 gals. of gas. Tha mama, knowing I love meat and potatoes and etc., she packs potato salad, cold ham, pickles an peanut butter [phooey]. Our kids insist I go on tha merry-go-round; when I gets off I'm so dizzy I falls flat on my puss, thereby giving many goofs much merriment no end.

Wanting to show tha kids how good I am, I buy 6 shots at tha shootin gallery. I aims at a moving duck on tha right an hit a rabbit on tha left. Guess I shood stick to crap shootin. There's a big family near us an they is makin some kind of a drink in a big brass thing; it first looked to me like a still. Tha inquisitive mama asks me to find out what it is, so I mosees over an ask tha big guy what it is an he says Sam Avar.

Tha goof thinks I'm wantin to know what his name is, so I says to him, "You no spick engleesh," an whadda ya suppose happens? He says to me, "Get tha hell back to your own family."

At 2 o'clock tha mama spreads tha lunch an after one look at tha junk I just knew I cood'n stomach it. Then she pulls one of her regular sermons about every person has just got to have a certain amount of nutrition, etc., etc., and when tha sermon is ended [being a good churchman] I simply says, "Praise tha Lord."

TO GALLANT WOMEN.

Would that the Purple Heart, the Silver Star
Were given women, too, for gallantry,
To those who wait for news from men afar
Yet walk with lifted head and quietly;
They know war crushes earth to crimson stain
Yet give no outward sign of stabbing fears,
Instead they fling their laughter against pain
And draw the silent night around their tears.
O, surely there should be some honor shown
To dauntless women facing war alone.

MENTAL DISTURBANCES DURING PREGNANCY.

MOTHERS go thru a rather substantial ordeal during pregnancy. While nature safeguards the process we realize that additional demands are made upon the glandular system, metabolism, the circulation, and the organs of elimination.

We need not wonder then should one of these factors fail to "click." We can understand that kidneys which have been injured earlier may be unable to function normally for both the mother and the developing babe.

Occasionally a condition known as "puerperal insanity" comes on. To my way of thinking, the word "insanity" should not be employed except in rare cases. It does not describe what happens. The patient may be confused or exhausted because of the absorption of poisons or give way to excitement or unwonted activity. The ensuing psychosis [the correct term] may be characterized by disturbed memory, hallucinations, or delirium.

This latter manifestation differs in no essential respect from what may accompany pneumonia or any other severe infection. In other words, the symptoms may be likened to delirium. Infrequently, a deep depression will be observed but such a circumstance will arise only with those who have previously been out of step with the world.

While emotional or mental upsets are not common, nevertheless, they will be encountered now and then and we can do much to avoid them. So far as possible, the expectant mother should be relieved of strain and worry. Above all, "Hubby" and all the members of the family should display kindness and consideration. Furthermore, we may make certain that nutrition is at par. Undernourished women are more likely to experience aberrations than those who are in normal health. The one who is underweight and harried constitutes an ideal victim.

Not a few investigators have emphasized the rôle of pernicious vomiting. Prolonged nausea may prevent not only the ingestion but the assimilation of nutriment. This means extra feedings, small in quantity, at short intervals.

Finally, mention must be made of fear. If an able physician is in charge, there should be no apprehension concerning the outcome. Much damage may be done by listening to well intentioned neighbors and friends. Childbearing has become so safe in expert hands that it carries far less of a menace than many an ordinary illness.

If trouble develops, the physician will know what to do. Fortunately, most cases recover under skilled management. Termination of pregnancy is seldom called for unless serious complications present themselves. But rest, good elimination, and pleasant surroundings will be essential.

Above all, confidence must be established and here a wise doctor is indispensable. The woman must feel free at all times to express her innermost thoughts, to unburden her soul. The one who gives a history of a nervous breakdown or has long been regarded as peculiar may require special care.

A QUESTION OF COURAGE.

Chicago, June 26.—So Roosevelt's the strong man of Washington and the boys on Capitol hill a pack of weaklings? Yet Roosevelt wouldn't risk his chance for a fourth term by signing the anti-strike bill—and more than two-thirds of the congressmen and senators risked the balance of their political lives to pass the bill over the President's veto. What do you say, you Roosevelt worshipers?

REALIST.

WE STILL HAVE CONGRESS.

Chicago, June 24.—The editorial from the New York News, published as your Editorial of the Day on June 24, expressing concern that the President can yield our sovereignty in a peace treaty, seems to overlook an important constitutional provision, viz., the senate of the United States must ratify all treaties, which of course includes a treaty of peace.

We all remember that President Woodrow Wilson presented a treaty to the senate after the close of World War I., which was defeated. If President Roosevelt should present a treaty objectionable to the senate it would likewise be voted down, so let's see that we have a patriotic American senate at all times, also the same kind of house of representatives. After all, congress makes the laws so if we have a sensible congress we will be safe. We voters should pay more attention to our law makers.

DAKOTA GOPHER MEAT.

Chicago, June 22. — Concerning "gopher meat." Forty years ago my parents homesteaded in North Dakota. Several families at that time [from what part of the United States they came, I don't know] killed and ate gophers.

These gophers were not the small striped ones known here but the large gray gophers. Their food consists of grain, grass seeds, greens, etc., and why they should not compare with squirrel, I have often wondered since.

These gophers began to disappear about 15 or 20 years ago and the smaller stripers took over. Evidently the gray gopher prefers the virgin sod.

He takes such an interest in every one's soldier boy and always has a great big smile when he has a letter from some lad to present to the mother or sweetheart. I know we all pester him asking for letters from our boys, but he certainly is always as pleasant about it as he can be, and he seems just as happy to give us letters as we are to receive them.

St. Charles, Ill., June 21.—How much longer will it take for our southern congressmen to decide that the New Deal is not the Democratic party, or perhaps they are content just to ride around on its coat tails. AMERICAN.

TOM MOORE IN AMERICA.

Chicago, June 21.—Once more, in this morning's editorial, "Our Early Escapes from European Intrigue," too much is made of Mr. Merry and the alleged conspiring of New England Federalists to secede from the Union and return to the empire. As for the latter, let it be said to the eternal credit of the few who seemed to be headed that way, that, once they came face to face with the realities of their mistaken position, they promptly abandoned it and remained steadfast in their loyalty to the nation.

It is Mrs. Merry, more than Mr. Merry, whose story might interest Tribune readers at this late date. Since space cannot be asked to introduce her, this intriguing story is told by the eminent historian, B. J. Lossing, in Harper's for September, 1877, in an article, "Tom Moore in America." As luck would have it, the young poet came to America on the ship with the Merrys in 1803. Of early travelers in America, Tom Moore was our bitterest detractor, and his vanity had been acerbated by the impossible Mrs. Merry.

There is hardly a more humorous note in diplomatic history than Monroe's final disposition of the Mrs. Merry "insult" when it reached the Court of St. James's, and, altho Moore had slandered Thomas Jefferson as almost no other human being had done, yet Jefferson's last bit of writing, which was to his daughter, contained a quotation from a poem by Tom Moore!

What is really important diplomatically is that J. Q. Adams, who raised the question of the position of certain Federalists with whom he had broken politically, had completely blanketed the follies of the Merrys and their diplomatic record by his bringing about the friendship with Russia in 1809 with the result that Russia virtually handled our relations with Britain, pulled us out of the disastrous war of 1812, and induced England to make an honorable peace with the young republic. Not long afterward that same Adams lined Britain up against Russia and her holy alliance and promulgated the Monroe Doctrine in the administration of that same Monroe who had made the Merrys the laughing stock of London and the diplomatic world.

STOP ABANDONMENT OF DOGS.

Chicago, June 25.—I think the state could put $25,000 to a far better use than the inoculation of every dog. They could use that money to penalize people who dump helpless dogs in our parks and streets to shift for themselves or starve to death.

One has only to go to Lincoln park and see the beautiful, well bred dogs roaming the grass so pitifully starved.

JULIAN SPENCER.

THE ARMY AS A JAIL.

Chicago, June 25. — Will some one please tell me why Mr. Roosevelt uses the draft as a medium of punishment? How can the glamor, honor, and patriotism of being a member of the services be upheld when Mr. Roosevelt implies "If you go out on strike, if you do this, that, or the other thing, you'll be punished by being drafted."

I don't get it.

J. R. CALDRON.

HIS COST OF LIVING IS UP, TOO.

NORTH AFRICA, June 5.—Coal will play an important part in winning this war. If John L. Lewis and men of his ilk continue to call strikes the war effort will suffer. Most people in the states realize this and deplore the fact that our government doesn't take more drastic means to end strikes.

There is one thing that our people do not realize and it is this: Those of us who are overseas are trying our level best to win this war, but when we hear that 500,000 men [about thirty-three divisions of troops] are striking, we start to ask ourselves questions. If there was a measure for morale it could be shown that ours is indeed low when we learned of this latest strike.

Today I paid 25 francs [fifty cents] for five fresh [I hope] eggs. These eggs at $1.20 a dozen are hard to get. Earlier this week I was forced to pay 40 cents to have a shirt laundered—and the quality of the work done wouldn't compare with American service. Now, the man who sold the eggs to me and the woman who laundered my shirt didn't "see me coming." The eggs were the first in four weeks and the laundry woman has more work than she can handle. The cost of living here, then, has risen, just as it has in the United States. But I haven't heard any of my men threatening to strike for more money to meet these rising costs here. At reveille tomorrow morning these men will be in formation and if these hard to get eggs rise from ten cents apiece to twenty five cents apiece, these men will go about their work of war without striking.

Overlooking our present bivouac there is an American cemetery. Every day at least one soldier or sailor is lowered into the ground. Most of the men buried beneath a plain white cross would have been killed had there been no strikes at all, but surely some of our dead in this cemetery have lost their lives because we lacked some implement of war, and implements of war are not produced by idle men.

HOSPITALS HIT BY WAR PLANTS, SAYS GOV. GREEN

Attributes Elgin Patient's Death to Lack of Help.

State hospitals are severely hit by the competition of war plants which lure the hospital employes with higher pay, said Gov. Dwight H. Green in Springfield yesterday. His statement was made in connection with the death of a woman patient at the Elgin State hospital last week. Officials attributed the tragic incident to the war created manpower shortage. The governor held the same view.

"The army and navy have taken doctors, nurses and the more skilled attendants," said Gov. Green. "Industry, with its appeal to patriotism and its high wages, has made it impossible to obtain even unskilled help in the volume we require.

Quit Before They're Trained.

"Almost as rapidly as new attendants are employed, and even before they can receive the slightest training, they leave their positions for war work. Institution heads have advertised for help, but with discouraging results."

The governor praised those attendants still remaining on their jobs.

The help shortage was further reflected in a statement from Mancel Talcott, personnel director of the department of public welfare. As of May 31, he said, there were only 2,799 employes in the state's nine major mental institutions against a normal minimum of 3,049. At Elgin alone, there is a shortage of 140.

Death Reveals Shortage.

The patient whose death revealed the handicap being faced by these institutions was Mrs. Bessie Greco, 7642 Greenwood avenue. She suffered internal injuries while being administered a sedative by two women attendants. They have been exonerated.

Routine inquiries into hospital conditions this week are planned by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, state alienist, and the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene. Elgin officials said they would welcome any inquiry.

Dr. David Slight, president of the society, said that Dr. Rudolph Novick, medical director of the society, will visit the Elgin hospital tomorrow.

Miss Mary Ryan, 64 years old, a patient at the Chicago State hospital, died there last night. Dr. J. V. Edlin said that she fell out of bed on May 29 and suffered a hip fracture. An inquest will be held today. Miss Ryan formerly lived with her sister, Sadie, at 325 North Sacramento boulevard.

Mother Told Bataan Hero She Feared Dead Is Alive

He is Pvt. John Strompolis, 23 years old, a member of the Maywood tank battalion who was reported missing after the battle of Bataan. He was taken prisoner by the Japanese. The other sons are Corp. George, attached to the signal corps, and Pvt. Gus, who is in Australia.

Driver of Dairy Truck Fatally Hurt in Crash

John Zuidema, 47 years old, a truck driver employed by the Worth Dairy company at Worth, was fatally injured at Harlem and Archer avenues, Worth township, last night when his truck collided with an automobile driven by Paul Kay of Morris, Ill. Kay, who was held by Summit police pending an inquest, said the truck driver ran thru a red stop signal while he was crossing the intersection on a green light. Zuidema died while on the way to a hospital.

Identical Twins Robbed Me of $358, Says Victim

Police considered yesterday that their hunt for the bandits who held up George Ottenhoff, 45 years old, a real estate man, in his office at 1837 Roosevelt road, and robbed him of $358, should be considerably narrowed by Ottenhoff's description of the men. He said they were identical twins.

Running a tractor is just a part of the job DeWitt West, Men's Suits, undertakes on his Woodstock farm. He owns 106 acres and farms 160, with the help of his family. He's the proud owner of a certificate from the Secretary of Agriculture stating that his dairy, stock and poultry farm is all-out in the war effort.

Glamor rears its head when Stuart Erwin stops to buy war stamps from Constance Cunningham, Comptroller's Office, and Ione Rees, Advertising, who man the Fashion Group's Bond Booth at the Ambassador East Hotel one night a week. The tough part comes after the booth is closed, when the girls put their heads together and balance the books, an operation known to add another hour onto a long evening. It's little wonder they plan to sleep Saturday mornings.

"The Spanish Lady"

By Maurice Walsh

Copyright: 1943: by Maurice Walsh

SYNOPSIS: Diego Usted, thinking he has only a few months to live, comes from his commando duties to the Scottish Highlands to visit his Uncle Hamish and his Aunt Ellen McLeod. Hamish is Gen. Harper's head forester. Diego has a run-in with the general on first sight, but he makes friends with the general's young Spanish wife, Ann. When Diego goes to the Harper home to apologize to the general he meets the general's brother, Maj. Arthur, and his children, Henrietta and Charles.

INSTALMENT VIII.

OUTSPOKEN GIRL.

"You will be careful. Señor Captain," warned the aunt-in-law. "Henrietta is a vampire."

"Fat chance I have to vamp any one with Spanish Ann getting her dirty work in first."

Ann Harper went outside the door with them. "You will be at the mass on Sunday, senor—or do you follow the fashion of our men?"

"I shall be at mass on Sunday, madam," he said, who had not been at mass for five years.

Henrietta Harper was a good walker, too good for Diego Usted just then. Not talking at all, she went off at a hip swinging pace across the lawn and up the slope. He was still young enough not to like lagging behind a girl, and his breath was hissing thru his nostrils by the time they got to the top of the rise. But once out of sight of the house, she slowed down and edging a little closer, turned head to him.

"Sorry!" she said. "You're in poor shape?"

"I am."

"They chucked you out, the army Johnnies?"

"On my ear."

"Couldn't stand the racket? What was your unit?"

He hesitated, and before he could answer she laughed at him.

"Don't tell me." She opened her yellow-gray eyes at him. "What ever pushed you into commando?"

Diego could not tell her what had sent him into commando—the things that had been done to so many of his friends, and a boyish desire for vengeance. The girl was talking.

"Young Charles knows you were on commando, and is as jealous as hell. He is trying hard for it, but has been thrown twice. Legs too short probably—for running away."

"This is of importance. He who fights, you know—"

"Charles would not run away. He don't scare worth a cuss."

"No use in commando. How did you know that I was in commando?"

"Darling, I've been reading every letter you wrote to Big Ellen." She looked aside at him. "She did not say anything about me?"

"A pleasure to come."

"Bosh!" She laughed with some chagrin. "My technique is rotten. You will think me a poisonous young rip."

"I think you are young," he said.

"Touché Do you fence too? Perhaps—but let it go! Know what I am trying to do? Stake a claim on you."

"I assay base metal."

"Most men do, but even so, you will be seeing a good deal of this 'ere rip."

She moved closer to Diego, and sometimes her shoulder brushed his. He noted that the perfume she used was cologne water. That is a clean perfume, and he was not aware if it had any physiological or biological implications. But she was frowning at some thought of her own.

"Wrinkles come easily, and go not at all," he said.

"Yes! I was just wondering how Ann gets her hooks into you men. She's a siren!"

"Your tongue, young lady!"

"The crook of a little finger, the stir of her hair, and there you all are at her feet."

"All of us?" hinted Diego.

"All! Our tin god, the major general! Buried two women already—and a pot of money with each. I mean he buried the women but scooped the money. She hadn't a peseta, she says, and he retrieved her from between a yawning gutter in Biarritz. What else for her!"

What else, indeed! But he did not say that aloud.

"And he married her without a cent," she went on, "and cherishes her tho he would like to treat her like a dog. He loves to put her in a rage, and then make her beg his forgiveness remembering what he saved her from. I could cut his liver out sometimes, and mebbe some day I will."

"You do not love your uncle, I fear," said Diego.

"I do not—tho I bite the hand that feeds us."

"Nor his wife?"

"There you are wrong." She paused. "She could make me crawl on my knees, but she doesn't want to. Only she makes life possible for us in that stone prison—for Charles and me, and my father, too."

She laughed scathingly. "O! he's like the rest of you. He's a man and a widower."

"Woe to the scandal monger!"

"I have a foul mouth, haven't I? But you'll hear all about us, and I'm getting the first naked word in, and warning you that you are not the only rag on the bush, as Mother Ellen says. You're just above Charlie's class."

"Your brother, too?"

"Head over heels. The poor old moth! That's mixed metaphor isn't it? But you will notice that I borrow some of my language from Big Ellen. In the old days before the war, Charlie had a job with some motor people in Inverness, and could you get him back to that ugly house behind us? Not unless to cut the old owl's throat. Now we can't keep him away, and he's keener than ever on cutting throats—good practice for commando. And you know she treats him and me like children. I suppose jealousy is my trouble. I don't suffer from leprosy do I?"

"Hard to tell under your mask."

"I see! Are you a puritan?" She looked at her painted finger nails.

Diego thought he would test her out with a frankness equal to her own.

"Were you ever in love?"

"I've had a brush or two. Who hasn't? A man or a major here and there, and glad to get out of it. That's not love, is it?"

"Not love."

"Of course there's Larry McLeod. I suppose I'll marry him some day—if he wants me."

"Then you will gather other flies to your web?"

"Then I might not want to."

"That especially will attract the flies."

"And has Spanish Ann that secret?"

"Yesterday I told a Harper where to go," Diego said smoothly.

"Touch again. Did you? He was tearing mad when he got home."

"I am sorry that I did," Diego said. "I am sorry for him. His wife twists him round her little finger, his brother would steal the wife, his nephew cut the throat, his niece merely carve the liver. He is not blind?"

"Not him. He is only cocksure. And we are only his goods and chattels to be teased and made feel important. We are poor as church mice, and haven't enough sense to be poor and free." She paused a moment. "You kissed her hand as if it were the pope's. I saw thru the glass. You did not kiss my hand."

"It's not your hand that should be kissed."

"Suppose you try, and see what it gets you?"

That was not a dare. She stopped suddenly and faced toward him.

"I talk too much, and I am not Big Ellen. I have to let off steam once in a while, and you may as well see me at my worst. I am a bit of a beast. You and Ann being Spaniards—"

"She is Basque," he corrected.

"All the same. And what are you? Gaucho?"

"Nothing so definite. Scot and Paraguayan and a touch of the Guarani, the tribe the conquistador could not subdue."

"I see! A touch of the tar brush! You are dark enough."

COURT REFUSES HUSBAND A KEY TO DEPOSIT BOX

Frank Dolendi, 3851 Jackson boulevard, a motion picture operator, failed yesterday in an attempt to dissolve a court order enjoining him from entering a safety deposit box he shared with his wife Dorothy, 26 years old. Judge John J. Lupe in Superior court, held that the injunction obtained by Mrs. Dolendi on June 24, is valid but ordered her to put up within five days a $1,500 bond to protect Dolendi's interest in the box. Mrs. Dolendi says her husband is a nephew of the late Frank Nitti, gangster who killed himself.

Attorney Leonard Colbert also was given five days to prepare arguments for setting aside a stipulation signed by Mrs. Dolendi in which she agreed not to contest a divorce action filed against her by Dolendi. Colbert said Dolendi had told his wife to go to the office of Atty. Abraham Teitelbaum, where Colbert said she signed a paper she believed to contain counter-charges. Mrs. Dolendi, her attorney said, later discovered the paper contained the stipulation in question.

DOWNS 5 ZEROS SINGLE HANDED IN 45 MINUTES

SOUTH PACIFIC HDQ., June 28 (AP).—A 26 year old fighter pilot from Pittsburgh, Pa., who has been an airman since he started flying gliders at 13 was credited officially today with shooting down five Zeros and probably a sixth in the air battle over Guadalcanal June 16.

He is 2d Lt. Murray Shuban. Flying a twin engined Lightning, he made his individual score—64 Japanese planes were knocked out of the sky that day—in 45 minutes. Altho bullets flew around him, his plane wasn't touched.

Shubin was leading a flight of four Lightnings that attacked 10 to 15 Zeros. His companions accounted for three Zeros but were forced to come down when one of the three was wounded and the others ran out of ammunition.

Alone, Shubin battled five Zeros and picked them off one by one. At one stage three of the enemy got on his tail, but he outmaneuvered them, going up into the sun three times and twisting down into spiral dives.

BAR ASSOCIATION STUDIES ROLE OF ATTORNEY IN SUIT

Courtney Aid Recounts Whitney's Activity.

An investigation of the conduct of Atty. Emerson Whitney in a lawsuit was undertaken yesterday by the Chicago Bar association. A committee on inquiry was reported to have filed a complaint which caused the grievance committee of the bar to decide upon a further hearing.

Whitney, 33 years old, is Republican committeeman of the 48th ward and an examiner for the Illinois commerce commission. He was formerly president of the National Lawyers' guild, editor of the Chicago Bar Record, a master in chancery, and a candidate for the state senate.

Awarded Damages.

The suit about which the investigation centers was brought by Mrs. Anna Travis, 60, against a loop department store for personal injury she said she suffered on July 22, 1937. Whitney was attorney for Mrs. Travis, who was awarded $7,500 in damages. She accepted $3,500 in a settlement in April, 1940.

Later Mrs. Travis and Mrs. Blanche Mitchell, 50, chief witness for Mrs. Travis, were indicted for perjury as a result of their testimony in the trial. They were convicted in 1941 and fined a total of $3,500—the amount of the settlement.

The grand jury and Criminal court trial evidence was turned over to the bar association by State's Atty. Courtney's office, it was said yesterday. A committee on inquiry was appointed to consider the facts. Last week an amended bill of complaint was filed by this committee with the grievance committee. Atty. Edgar A. Jonas, representing Whitney, yesterday said he is ready to answer it and that he will ask the bar association to set an early date for the hearing.

Testimony Is Recalled.

James Brown, assistant state's attorney, who prosecuted the two women on the perjury charges, recalled the facts and testimony. He said Whitney had been permitted to appear before the grand jury and that it had voted not to indict him.

"The matter came to the attention of the state's attorney's office as the result of a report by a private detective agency which investigated the past of Mrs. Travis and Mrs. Mitchell," Brown said.

"The testimony of Mrs. Edith Claussen, then living at 4501 Malden avenue, concerned Whitney. She said she had agreed to help her friend [Mrs. Travis] win a lawsuit and visited Whitney's office, where she was told what her testimony was to be.

"She said she agreed to tell a false story about Mrs. Travis' accident but on the day of the trial she decided not to do so.

Obtains Continuance.

"Whitney obtained a continuance that day, telling the court an important witness was missing. When the case came up next Mrs. Mitchell appeared and told the story which Mrs. Claussen said was a concocted one.

"Her testimony tended to establish negligence on the part of the store in which Mrs. Travis fell and broke her wrist while in a washroom. At the damage suit trial Mrs. Mitchell said she had never met Mrs. Travis until the day of the accident.

"After that trial, and after the judgment had been compromised by the payment of $3,500, the store's detectives reported they had proof that Mrs. Travis and Mrs. Mitchell had known each other for many years prior to the time of the accident. They had reports showing the women had been next door neighbors.

Wedding Party.

"At the state's attorney's office and in the grand jury room Attorney Whitney said he had never met Mrs. Mitchell until the day she appeared in court to testify for Mrs. Travis. The store's detectives obtained photographs showing both Whitney and Mrs. Mitchell at a wedding party.

"Mrs. Travis' daughter, Frances, was married to Roy Morton in 1938. She died in 1940. The husband, Roy Morton, furnished the photographs which showed both Mrs. Mitchell and Whitney at his marriage celebration. Of course that was not proof that Whitney and the witness met then, but it was a circumstance.

"Whitney told us and the grand jury he was about to be given a big state job and he would lose it if he were involved in the perjury trial. He was a witness in the perjury trial of the two women and he again denied ever having met Mrs. Mitchell prior to the day she testified for Mrs. Travis. The two women, however, admitted they had known each other for many years."

Attorney Whitney said yesterday he did not wish to talk about the bar association's investigation.

RAP CROWLEY AND McKINLAY FOR PRESS FEUD

Undignified, Bar Group Says.

Chicago Bar association's board of managers yesterday issued a statement mildly scolding Judge Donald S. McKinlay and First Assistant State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley for criticizing each other in statements to newspapers.

As an aftermath of the controversey Crowley and State's Atty. Courtney have intimated for some time that they would like to have the Superior court executive committee give Judge McKinlay some other assignment than to Criminal court but nothing has come of their intimation.

Give Public Statement.

Bar association officials debated what to do about the controversy. The public statement of their views follows:

"Recently there appeared in Chicago newspapers statements by Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, attacking the action of Donald S. McKinlay, one of the judges of the Criminal court, in a habeas corpus proceeding in behalf of Walter Tranowski, and a statement of Judge McKinlay in reply.

"Because of its effect upon the administration of justice in criminal cases this controversy has had the consideration of the board of managers of the Chicago Bar association.

"Whether Tranowski was legally held in custody was a proper subject for consideration by Judge McKinlay and it was his duty and responsibility to construe the constitution and statutes and determine the legal and fact issues persented.

Criticize Both Men.

"Judge McKinlay decided the issues presented and it was improper for Crowley to issue a statement to newspapers criticizing the court's action. It was likewise improper for Judge McKinlay to reply to Crowley through the newspapers.

"Public controversy in the press between an attorney and a judge respecting litigation pending in court is unseemly and tends to bring the administration of justice into disrepute," the statement concluded.

Floyd E. Thompson, former justice of the state Supreme court, was elected bar association president at its annual election yesterday. He was unopposed. Others elected are Stephen E. Hurley and J. Francis Dammann, vice presidents; James P. Carey Jr., secretary; Lawrence C. Mills, treasurer, and Casper W. Ooms, librarian.

Elected to the board of managers were Edward D. McDougal Jr., Morris I. Leibman, David J. A. Hayes, Austin L. Wyman, Harold A. Smith, Egbert Robertson, Cushman B. Bissell, Isaac S. Rothschild and Daniel D. Carmell.

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—The cats in Washington are going to need all their nine lives unless someone does something about a monkey. Police, putting together reports from various householders, said the monkey, roving the southeast part of the city: Stole a broom with which he pounded a cat; snatched up another cat, cuffed it, threw it over a fence; pounced on two more cats, hurling them up into the branches of a tree; disappeared, probably looking for more cats.

ATTORNEY FOR 6 TRAITORS SET FREE BY COURT

Atty. Paul A. F. Warnholtz, counsel for six convicted Chicago defendants in the Haupt treason trial, was freed of a disorderly conduct charge yesterday by Judge N. J. Bonelli in Town Hall court after Policeman Edward Hayes testified the lawyer called him and his partner "two-by-four coppers."

Hayes said the police were summoned to quiet a disturbance in an apartment near that of Warnholtz at 1713 Leland avenue. "He told his neighbors not to pay any attention to the police," Hayes continued, "and then he told us we couldn't arrest him. Well, we did."

Atty. Thomas A. Green, who appeared on behalf of Warnholtz, insisted the incident was a "misunderstanding," and the charge was quashed.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 28 [Special].—Described by police as a German alien, Robert M. Kukla, 35, of 1221 North Milwaukee street, was fined $25 and costs today on a charge of having insulted sailors on West Wisconsin avenue at North 3d street early Sunday.

Police testified that Kukla, who came here from Germany Feb. 12, 1939, was shouting foul names and spitting at passing sailors. He had been arrested previously on a charge of making unpatriotic remarks, according to police, but had been released.

Kukla denied the charges and asserted that finding him guilty was "against the laws of the United States."

ARMY AND NAVY URGE HIGHER PAY TO DEPENDENTS

Wife and One Child Would Get $68 a Month.

Washington, D C., June 28 (AP).—Higher allowances for dependent children of men in the lower ranks of the fighting forces were recommended to congress today by the army and the navy.

Under the recommendations a wife with one child would receive $68 a month, instead of $62 as at present, and $11 a month for each additional child, instead of $10.

A wife without children would continue to receive $50, of which the government contributes $28 and the enlisted man $22. The entire cost of allowances for children is borne by the government.

Two Bills Offered.

The proposals were translated immediately into identical bills offered by Sen. Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the senate military affairs committee, and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.],

Lodge previously had proposed a blanket increase of 15 per cent in government contributions for all dependency classifications, but a joint committee of army, navy, marine, and coast guard experts recommended varying increases and the payment by the government of the entire first month's allowance immediately following induction of a man into service.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], chairman of a military subcommittee, said this alone would cost the government an additional 104 million dollars a year. He estimated that this and other changes would increase the total government outlay to 393 million dollars a year, altho this amount takes into account contemplated increases in service personnel.

New Classification Planned.

Johnson said the legislation contemplated creation of a new classification for mothers or fathers who receive their chief support from sons in service, making available to them a payment totaling $50 monthly for one or $68 for both if both are living and dependent.

On recommendation of the joint committee, the legislation also includes a provision under which the upper three grades of army sergeants and those of similar ranks in other services could choose whether they wished their dependents to receive the family allowances or the $37.50 a month which is paid if the service men are not provided quarters.

Johnson said this would take care of cases where the quarters allowance is inadequate for large families.

Installs Coal Stokers; Fined on Two Charges

Judge Irwin J. Hasten in Municipal court yesterday fined Ray Alter, proprietor of the Lakeview Engineering company, 3537 Southport avenue, $100 and costs on one charge, and $50 and costs on each of two other charges of installing mechanical stokers in violation of the city ordinances. Alter's attorney made a motion to vacate the fines and Judge Hasten set a hearing for July 19.

Engagement Told

MARTHA O'DRISCOLL.

Hollywood, Cal., June 28 (AP).—Mrs. Frieda O'Driscoll today announced the engagement of her daughter, Film Actress Martha O'Driscoll, 21, to Lt. Comdr. Richard Donald Adams of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mrs. O'Driscoll said her daughter's first date, 13 years ago, was with Comdr. Adams, who was graduated from the Annapolis naval academy in 1932. The wedding will be delayed until August or September because Comdr. Adams, a chief engineer on an airplane carrier, expects to return to duty soon.

MARINE VET, 19, MADE GOVERNOR OF BOYS' STATE

Dave Brown Wounded at Guadalcanal.

Jacksonville, Ill., June 28 (AP).—Dave Brown, 19 years old, of Bloomington, marine corps veteran of the south Pacific war, was elected governor of the 1943 premier boys state today. Brown won over Lee Hassler of Canton by 360 to 69 votes.

Brown saw action as fighting marine on Guadalcanal, where he was wounded when a 500 pound bomb fell near him and five other men. The others in the party were killed.

Officers Inaugurated.

Inaugurated with Gov. Brown tonight to serve as officers of boys state were the following other successful candidates: Lieutenant governor, Dick Johnson, Park Ridge; secretary of state, Merle D. Lantz, Monroe Center; auditor, Bill Anderson, Litchfield; attorney general, Eugene Pflughaupt, Des Plaines; treasurer, Bob Barnes, Galesburg; superintendent public instruction, Richard Matthews, Joliet; clerk of Supreme court, George Anastaplo, Carterville.

Illini girls state, also in session here, held its primary elections today, selecting two candidates for each office. The regular elections will be held Tuesday. The results were as follows: Governor, Mary Picchietti, Highland Park, and Jeanne Dunlap, McLeansboro; lieutenant governor, Betty Doolittle, Wheaton, and Mary Mollendorf, Park Ridge; secretary of state, Sue Berry, Downers Grove, and June Bickerton, Peoria; state treasurer, Norma Jacobs, Deerfield, and Margaret Flamm, Cairo; auditor of public accounts, Kay Paulick, Chicago, and Phyllis Shimkus, Westville; attorney general, Barbara Malott, Freeport, and Virginia McKenna, East St. Louis; superintendent of public instruction, May Myers, Canton, and Peggy Kramer, Danville.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries to Sally Joy Brown.]

L. B. writes: "My son has been in the army for almost two years, and overseas for more than a year. He has been buying bonds ever since he left his country, and specified that they were to be sent to me to hold for him. During all this time, I have never received a single bond. However, two months ago he wrote that he had been promoted and had increased his monthly allotment for bonds. Since that time, two of the bonds of the higher denomination, dated April and May, have come on the first of each month. Now I am worried about all those he purchased previously. I had felt that some delay was natural, but now I wonder if they have been lost.

ANSWER: The fact that the recently purchased bonds have been delivered to you promptly is due to a new war department plan for the handling and issuing of bonds which became effective in April. Under this new pay allotment plan, it is expected that bonds will be delivered within 15 days from the date on which payment for them was made. Bonds purchased previously are in process, and it is hoped that they will be distributed within a few months.

L. O. writes: "My mother has just been informed that my young brother is now a prisoner of war in Germany. She wrote that she had been provided with a label to be used in sending packages to him. I want to send him a box, and would like to know where I can obtain the official label. Also, will I be permitted to send him books or games?"

ANSWER: Such labels are supplied by the war department to the next of kin as designated by the prisoner. They are not obtainable upon request. Your mother may, if she wishes, send the label to you for use in mailing parcels, but only one parcel may be sent to each prisoner in each calendar 60 day period. The labels are dated for the period in which they are valid. Written or printed matter of any kind may not be sent, but certain games, including playing cards, checkers, and chess, are permitted. We have a bulletin on the postal regulations governing packages to prisoners of war, giving a detailed list of articles which may be included in gift parcels, which you may have by sending us a self addressed envelope.

L. L. writes: "My former husband is now in the army. Since our divorce, he has been providing me with a family allowance of $50 a month as alimony. I intend to marry another man and wonder if I can continue to receive the allowance from my former husband."

ANSWER: No. The remarriage of his divorced wife ends the soldier's obligation to provide an allowance.

M'NUTT 2% CLUB ISSUE IN SENATE DEBATE ON NYA

Agency Tentatively Voted 47 Millions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—War Man Power Commissioner Paul V. McNutt's "2 per cent" Indiana Democratic club became a major issue today in the senate debate over the proposal to abolish the national youth administration.

Just before administration forces won tentative approval of a $47,800,000 appropriation for continuing the NYA's life for another year, Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] demanded:

"Will Paul be able to shake down the NYA employes in the same way he did the state employes of Indiana?"

Called Unnecessary.

McNutt is administrator of the federal security agency, of which the NYA is a branch. He assessed state employes 2 per cent of their pay for political campaign funds while governor of Indiana.

The NYA's training program for boys and girls had been criticized on the senate floor as unnecessary in view of the 2 per cent of war contract payments which industry is permitted to spend for the training of employes.

"Mr. McNutt," said Sen. Clark, "has not only asserted but maintained and got away with the principle that he was entitled to assess every employe of the state of Indiana 2 per cent. This 2 per cent [for training purposes] is very suggestive.

"I should like to know whether Mr. McNutt is going to be entitled to assess every one for his own political purposes—if he is going to be entitled to assess every one connected with the NYA 2 per cent for his own political purposes. When the subject is brought up it is very reminiscent."

Willis Joins Debate.

"If the distinguished chairman of the war man power commission, Mr. McNutt, will lift the odor of the 2 per cent club away from Indiana," he said, "our citizens will be highly favored," Sen. Raymond E. Willis [R., Ind.] commented.

During the debate Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.] complained of the difficulty in getting rid of government agencies, once they are established.

The administration's tentative victory in keeping NYA alive was on an amendment offered to the labor-federal security bill by Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.]. It provided the $47,800,000 appropriation, which has been stricken from the house appropriation bill by the house appropriation committee. The amendment carried, 41 to 37.

Sen. Clark promptly made an unsuccessful attempt to have the amendment reconsidered.

He announced his intention, however, of trying to defeat the amendment when the bill comes up for final passage.

Hunts Niece as Heiress to $516; Held by Police

Martin Olson, 80 years old, 212 Locust street, was held for observation by the police yesterday after he told treasury guards in the Merchandise Mart he was looking for his niece, Eileen Olson, whom he had selected to be his heiress. "I want to give her this check," the old man said, explaining he had just withdrawn his savings of $516.98 from a bank. The police are looking for Miss Olson.

KILLER REFUSED HEARING IN BID FOR FREEDOM

First Willard Schray, 53 years old, killed his wife by slitting her throat. That was in Indiana. He was sentenced to the penitentiary and served 14 years. Then he was paroled.

On April 26, 1934, he pleaded guilty to robbing and shooting Clifford J. Brown, 51, of 6717 South Union avenue. Schray was then 45. He confessed he thumbed a ride with Brown, who bought him a meal. When they got into a wooded section in Highland Park, Schray pulled a gun, shot Brown in the neck, pushed him out of the car, shot him twice in the head while he lay on the ground, and drove away in the car.

Schray, who had also taken $15 from Brown and his overcoat, was captured in Lake Bluff. On his plea of guilty he was sentenced to one year to life in Joliet penitentiary. Brown recovered. Yesterday Judge Ralph J. Dady in Circuit court of Lake county, Waukegan, received a petition for a writ of habeas corpus by which Schray hoped again to obtain his freedom. He set forth the parole board "had not given him a square deal." Judge Dady allowed the petition to be filed but held it insufficient legally and refused Schray a hearing.

A LITTLE-KNOWN STORY...

How America really prepared for war

THIS IS A STORY about a country called America . . . and about something we did that Hitler thought we couldn't.

Chapter One is about our Armed Forces. Chapter Two is entitled Co-operation (may sound dull, but it isn't). Chapter Three contains a few facts you've never heard before about the Belly Turret in the Flying Fortress.

CHAPTER I

From the time Hitler came into power until the year before war came to America, Germany was spending as much on war goods each week as we were spending in a year.

With our military budget so limited, our Armed Forces were in a pretty bad spot. So what did our Army and Navy do . . . give up? No, they used their heads instead.

They decided—because they didn't have enough money to buy great quantities of weapons—to develop working models of the best, the most advanced weapons that brains could devise.

Also, they decided to complete plans so that these weapons could be produced in mass—and we mean mass quantities—when and if war struck. End of chapter.

CHAPTER II

To get these working models developed, our military and naval leaders asked for help from trusted concerns with which they had worked for many years.

They got what they asked for. These concerns laid out the necessary money, often big money, for experimental work. They had no assurance of future orders for any equipment they might develop. All they knew was that the country's security demanded that the work be done.

These companies opened up their laboratories to one another. Gave the use of their patents, royalty free. Developed new weapons of all kinds. Tested them. Ironed out the bugs. The weapons developed in those peacetime years included much of the well-known and recently publicized equipment, as well as devices which must remain secret.

When war got so close you could taste it and appropriations were finally made, the working models and the blueprints were ready! They were immediately turned over to our great mass-production industries.

The Army and Navy helped these companies tool up, provided machinery, buildings, and (where needed) money to launch the biggest production effort in history. And the best workmen in the world went to work on war goods instead of peace goods. End of chapter.

CHAPTER III

A typical example of how the job worked out has to do with work done prior to Pearl Harbor in protecting the belly of the Boeing Flying Fortress.

When attacked from the side, rear or above, the Fortress could knock the spots off enemy fighters. But when attacked from below, neither the tail gunner nor the nose gunner could cover all attackers.

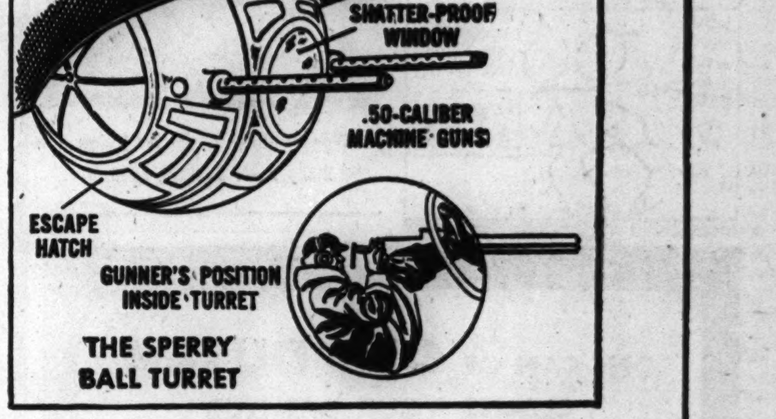
Air Force officers at Wright Field took the problem up with the Sperry Gyroscope Company, because of Sperry's experience in developing aiming and firing controls for guns . . . aviation equipment such as the Sperry Automatic Pilot and the Sperry Bombsight . . . and several hundred other precision weapons, instruments, and devices.

Working together . . . and aided by Vickers, Inc., a Sperry company . . . they created the Sperry Ball Turret. This turret is a sphere made of aluminum and Plexiglas, installed in the belly of the plane. Inside it sits a gunner with two .50-caliber machine guns that can stop an attacker before the Fortress comes within the enemy's range.

The gunner has full vision through an opening of shatterproof glass. His guns are aimed by a Sperry Computing Sight that takes into account the range, course, and speed of an enemy plane. In aiming, the whole turret (propelled by hydraulic "muscles" developed and built by Vickers, Inc.) turns smoothly at the will of the gunner.

These belly turrets—and the top turrets developed by Sperry and made by other American concerns—have helped make America's big bombers the deadliest air battleships in the world.

After the Sperry Ball Turret had been perfected, assistance in turning out the vast quantities needed was sought from two of America's great mass-producers . . . the Briggs Manufacturing Company and the Emerson Electric Company.



The necessary adaptations were made that permitted faster mass-production, and Briggs and Emerson are now turning out Sperry Turrets in quantity, while National Cash Register Company helps Sperry turn out the Computing Sights.

That's the story . . . the little-known story of how America really prepared for war . . . a story that, we hope, will make you even prouder of our Armed Forces and of the American way of getting things done.

OPA Relaxes Price Ceiling on Rayon Hose

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—The office of price administration today canceled 25 per cent of a previously ordered price reduction of 35 per cent for grade B women's rayon hosiery which was to have gone into effect July 16. Both grade A and grade B now are under identical ceilings.

The action was taken in response to protests from hosiery manufacturers, who contended the proposed price cut would reduce supplies of women's hosiery because it would be impossible to manufacture stockings except at a loss under the proposed ceiling.

Today's action besides opening the way for increased production of hosiery, also represents a retreat by OPA from its attempts to standardize women's hosiery by permitting the production of only one line, grade A, at a profitable price, according to hosiery industry officials.

The controversial hosiery pricing order, issued early in March, set up rigid standards for grade A rayon hosiery and provided that all stockings not meeting these specifications would arbitrarily be classed grade B. Grade B hosiery, OPA ruled, must sell 35 per cent below grade A prices, starting July 16.

About the same time, the war production board in a companion action prohibited the manufacture of all rayon stockings except those meeting the grade A standards.

Thus OPA was holding forth to the nation's women the promise of a big price reduction in lower grade rayon stockings which, however, could not be manufactured at all under the WPB standardization ruling.

The entire program was criticized by the hosiery industry and members of congress, who charged that OPA and WPB thru the standardization and price orders were forcing many plants out of business and were moving to eliminate brand names on which women traditionally rely in buying stockings.

WPB, conceding the inequity of its standardization order, has recently permitted some companies to continue production of hosiery which does not meet grade A standards.

The OPA also summoned members of the hosiery industry to a meeting July 8, 9, and 10 to discuss the entire hosiery program.

"Cape Foulweather doesn't entice me. Calamity Creek, stay 'way from my do'! Rogue river, Crooks, Sucker creek, Lookout, and Folly Farm sound like dandy regions for a greenhorn like me to avoid.

"Yet, with my ring finger still undecorated for bravery, shouldn't the following alluring names beg for a look-see after the duration? Friend, Prospect, Hope, Persist, Amity, Mistletoe, Sparks, Promise, Diamond, Bridal Veil, Rector, Kirk, Union, Sweet Home, Paradise!"—White Collaretta.

Around the Clock.

In England today women work in foundries and mills; they are billet painters, welders, and electricians' mates; they operate power hack saws and drive cranes; they are, according to a recent issue of the magazine Britain "cold sawyers and hot straighteners." They keep the city of London moving from the milk woman on her rounds in the fading starlight to the last girl wearily finishing the night shift in a war plant. . . . Around the clock they work: women postmen, newsgirls, women porters, ticket takers, train callers, bus conductresses [already one has been cast in a London play], street sweepers, window cleaners, meter readers, shoemakers, butchers, telephone inspectors, plumbers' mates, and bank cashiers. . . . Only a few trades remain unstormed by the British woman of 1943, says the article. "We may find a woman verger but we look vainly for a steeple jill. And there is no call, alas, for a lamplighter of either sex."

Menu Pointers.

Cover veal roast with 2 or 3 slices of bacon to protect against dryness.

To make canned consomme jelly, chill well in cans before opening.

For a hearty dinner salad such as the one illustrated, combine thin strips of Swiss cheese and salami, tomato quarters, cucumber slices, shredded greens and watercress, shredded carrot, and any desired cooked vegetables. Marinate cooked vegetables in French dressing. Toss ingredients together just before serving with extra French dressing. This is a flavorful salad, quite different from the ordinary greens salad.

To prepare chilled salmon, wrap uncooked salmon slices in cheesecloth, lower into boiling seasoned water, and simmer until tender, 10 to 20 minutes. Chill, then serve. To make cucumber sauce, add lemon juice and finely chopped cucumber to mayonnaise. Chill well.

Tribune to Hold Fourth Fashion Design Contest

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE today announces its fourth annual American Fashions contest.

Since the fall of Paris, once the arbiter and vortex of the fashion world, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has encouraged American designers to create American clothes for American women. With its first spectacular American Fashions contest in 1940, it stepped into the breach at a time when confusion reigned among the stylists of the nation. In 1941 and again last year when the war production board began to set stringent rules for the manufacture of women's clothing, the American Fashions contest proved that ingenuity and simplification are the essence of fine designing.

Today THE TRIBUNE announces its intention of carrying on this campaign to bring American designers to the foreground in democratic competition and thus prove that, despite tightened WPB clothing restrictions, the American woman, whose everyday frock is her uniform, can be attractively and charmingly dressed in war time.

Awards totaling $3,000 will be given to the winners of the 1943 competition. All residents of this country, as of this date, are eligible to compete. Amateurs and professionals, alike, are invited to participate.

Announcement of the rules of the contest and letters of invitations were sent out yesterday to participants and winners of all three former contests. THE TRIBUNE, however, encourages its readers, who have never submitted entries, to write immediately to the American Fashions contest for copies of the rules.

All sketches must be in by midnight, Aug. 1. They must comply to the letter with restrictions of the war production board pertaining to the manufacture of women's clothing. Prizes will be awarded to the designs considered the best from the standpoint of originality, ingenuity in the use of fabrics, and suitability for introduction on the American market in 1944.

Contestants may submit any number of designs and may collaborate with artists in the execution of the sketches, but all must be original. A selections committee, headed by Mrs. Grace Pickering, noted fashion authority who has received much credit for the success of the previous American Fashions competitions, will choose at least 20 of the sketches to be made up in fabrics.

Winners of the 20 successful designs will receive $50 for each sketch selected. Their finished models then will be eligible for the grand prizes of $1,000 for the first award and $500 each for second and third places.

The climax of the contest will be a colorful fashion show late in September in the W-G-N studio theater. All 20 finished models will be shown by top flight mannequins. Color pictures of these distinctive frocks, coats, and sports ensembles will appear in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE rotogravure section. Credit will be given to each designer.

Present plans indicate that the 1943 American Fashions show will be one of the most spectacular yet staged. Announcement of these plans will be made at a later date. The challenge of war time economy is expected to bring forth unusual and ingenious costumes. As in the past, the influence of the designs undoubtedly will be reflected in the 1944 market thruout the nation.

The rules of the contest are simple. Sketches must be submitted on white illustrative board, 14 by 20 inches over all, and should be contained wholly within a single black line border one inch inside each edge. They may be sketches in black and white or color. Samples of a description of the fabric or fabrics in which the model could be executed may be submitted with the sketches. All entry blanks must be sealed in an envelope on the back of the sketch to preserve the anonymity of the contestant.

All sketches should be securely wrapped and addressed to "American Fashions, The Chicago Tribune, 435 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, Illinois."

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Women in coveralls are performing a variety of duties which contribute to the efficiency of United Air Lines operations. Their work in the hangars helps to move the large volume of war time air commerce.

Elizabeth Mazur has been with United for five months, cleaning cabins and windows of the large planes. Alice Minto is a cargo clerk. She has the responsible job of checking the loads of air mail and air express moving in and out of Chicago aboard United's planes. She formerly did stenographic work but has been with the air line for seven months.

Presiding at a window of the hangar is Mildred Taller, who, as stock clerk, hands passenger service supplies to stewards and stewardesses in charge of outfitting each plane for its trip.

Helen Beranek and Atha Markley work side by side at the domestic task of polishing the sides of the planes' fuselages, and Helen Przydzial wields a vacuum cleaner on the seats, carpets, and walls of the cabins.

These women are only a few who in war time are taking over jobs in aviation formerly held by men. United estimates that approximately 40 per cent of its 6,000 employes at stations from coast to coast are women. In addition to those working in the hangars and as stewardesses, women are passenger agents, traffic salesmen, reservation clerks, dispatch clerks, meteorology clerks, engineers and draftsmen, stenographers, secretaries, and office workers of all kinds.

Doing their part in the campaign to salvage silk and nylon stockings for war production are the 180 girls employed by Mrs. Steven's Candy company. Miss Mary Ramson, a candy packer, was the originator of the firm's own drive for the hosiery, and the first pair of discarded nylons to go into the carton, posted near the girls' recreation room, was that of Mrs. Julia Steven, president of the company. Active in the drive, which accumulated a full box of stockings during its first week, is Miss Gladys Fitzgerald.

Members of the Retail Dry Goods association, and organizations such as the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, Rotary clubs, and Kiwanis clubs, as well as the 108 Chicago OCD offices, are actively engaged in collecting discarded silk and nylon hosiery to be forwarded to the warehouse in Green Island, N. Y., of the Defense Supplies corporation, which sorts the salvaged material for the war production board. Rayon stockings have been contributed to some extent, and uses are being found for them.

The navy has announced a program open to women, preferably under 30 years of age, to become aerologists in a commissioned status in the WAVES.

In addition to meeting the WAVES requirements, candidates must have a degree from a college or university of recognized standing and must have had one year of differential or integral calculus and one year of college physics. It is desirable that the calculus and physics have been studied within the last four or five years. The more recently these subjects have been studied or used, the more desirable the candidate will be to the navy.

The announcement also stated that it is preferable that a candidate maintained a general high average of grades in college work and that grades in physics or calculus must have been "C" or better. Women who have a degree and who have had more than the minimum of one year in either of those subjects will receive the higher appointments.

Candidates should apply at the office of naval officer procurement, room 1170, Board of Trade building.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., June 28—Gertrude Lawrence, who's added another week to the run of "Lady in the Dark," will linger on. There is a picture in the offing for her and those men in the service lucky enough to get into the Hollywood canteen next Sunday between the hours of 4 and 6 will see Gertrude do a condensed version of the show for them. When she does the bumps in her "Jenny" song, everybody goes into high. . . . Those Eleanor Powell dancing roles are going to be turned over to Ann Miller. . . . John Huston has had so much trouble getting that divorce, I'm wondering if it seems important to him any longer. . . . Olivia De Haviland wants Jess Barker to play opposite her in "Government Girl." . . . Funniest sight of the week—Ginny Simms with Anatole Litvak at the Mocambo.

Gertrude Lawrence.

Maybe So.

Oona O'Neil Chaplin feels she's too big a name now to play second fiddle to anybody on the screen. The happy honeymooners have returned home. I haven't heard of any happy parties being arranged for them. Two prominent English actors sent Chaplin a telegram which ran "Happy father's day to you" . . . Looking over Kay Kyser's shoulder, I caught him reading a G. I. newspaper, and its editorial ran, "Kay Kyser—the man the army didn't want, but the soldiers do." . . . Harold Lloyd finally got around to testing himself for "Mr. Winkle Goes to War." It's up to him whether he'll act and produce. Harold's afraid the present generation won't know who he is.

May Linger.

Jack Wilson came out to buy Dodie Smith's play, "Lovers and Friends." He did. Now we may keep him, 'cause Louis Mayer of Metro has asked him to stop at the studio for three weeks, then decide whether he wants to direct or produce. In the meantime, Jack has three stage shows to produce this fall. He'd be a mighty valuable man in Hollywood. . . . Columbia studio's the place to go. Mae West's rehearsing with Bill Gaxton and Victor Moore for "Tropicana." . . . Eddie Buzzell and Caroline Bergh aren't playing with marbles these days. . . . Wonder what will happen to that recently reunited couple when the Johnny Greens' divorce goes thru in Reno.

Constant Vigilance.

After Pearl Harbor 3,000 of our women joined up for air spotting service. Since we haven't been raided, the number has dropped to 346. Mrs. John Charles Thomas, a transient, gets up three mornings a week at 5 a. m. and does her duty as a good American citizen. How about the rest of you gals getting on with the job again? . . . Fritz Lang picked up Air Cadet Hayden Allen from Moore field and a young girl. They were heading for the U. S. O. at Beverly Hills, and in the course of conversation, Fritz found out they'd just been married, so he gave them their wedding supper. And next day, while looking for locations at Santa Maria, he took them along for the ride.

Eeny Meeny Miney Moe.

Kay Aldridge is in a dilemma. She can sign with Metro or do the new Vinton Freedley show on Broadway. . . . Akim Tamiroff loves to do camp shows. Besides the enthusiasm of the audience, there isn't a critic in sight. . . . It pays to be nasty. Joy Hodges got nowhere when she was a sweet ingenue, but since taking the role of the vicious gal she portrays in "Doughgirls," she's had two sweet picture offers. But she's waiting for a meanie. . . . Paul Small expects to be doing musicals for Twentieth Century this fall, and Jed Harris some dramatic pictures. . . . Reason Tallulah Bankhead's engagement is off: she and the ex bumped into each other at the ballet, each with a different escort—she with a midget, and her boy friend with Natalie Hays Hammond.

Training Stands Up.

Betty Alexander, from Texas, has been signed by Warners after being seen at Oliver Hinsdell's dramatic workshop, in fact, 12 of 16 youngsters appearing there were called to various studios. . . . That glamor star's husband, who signed up at another studio before their marriage took place, would like his release so he can get a better job [he thinks] at her studio. Her studio is happy to have him just where he is. They don't want him. . . . Robert Taylor swears gas rationing has educated our Hollywood agents. They all know their A. B. C.'s now.

Good Morning!

Tom Conway, George Sanders' brother who now fills the former's shoes as "The Falcon"—man of mystery once wanted by and now working with the police—hasn't quite as much on the ball as George—but is pretty slick just the same.

In this new episode of the series, based on exploits of a Michael Arlen character, "The Falcon" is framed by a girl who asks him to help locate her missing brother. . . . Having been conked on the head, he finds himself charged with the murder of a bank messenger and the supposed theft of a raft of war bonds. . . . The police don't really believe him guilty, but just the same they demand to be shown.

They are. . . . In his inimitable fashion "The Falcon" gets the real lowdown and, in so doing, uncovers considerably more dirty linen than he had promised to cart forth to the wash. . . . Incidentally, in the charming manager of an out of the way hotel, he—but never mind that. . . . As usual the picture ends with the advent of a mighty pretty girl beseeching his aid—which sets the scene for the next "Falcon" movie.

The picture is brightly acted and packs some suspense.

See you tomorrow.

Wake Up Dull Dress with a Noisy Blouse

BY REA SEEGER.

It's no trick at all to transform a dull dress into a costume of distinctive originality. One sure way is to provide contrast with a blouse. This summer such contrast is easier than ever to achieve because of the popularity of two-piece suits designed for day time wear. Sheer summer models are smooth performers. The candy pink sheers, the peppermint pink stripes, the confetti dotted whites, or the angelic beauties in palest blue are grand alternates for the over-used white blouses.

Chartreuse long-sleeved blouses with navy blue, pale blue with cocoa brown, black with copper, flesh colored blouses with black, and similar contrasts are possible. The printed sheers or the huge floral effects of tropic foliage are compelling accents for dark or light colored suits. There are pale beige sheers, too, for the all-one-color enthusiast — a beige blouse to wear with a darker toned suit of beige silk shantung, for instance.

Wide striped material used in blouses makes eye catching contrasts both in color and width of stripe. Large dotted designs have the same effect. Lace and lace trimmed blouses are effective with silk and other dress-parade model suits and skirts. These same lace encrusted affairs top long skirts to combine as a dinner or casual type evening gown for a war time summer season. Both short sleeves and the long picturesque gathered sleeves are plentiful. The long sleeved affairs are the perfect choice for the evening skirts in full floor length. But the skirt and blouse combination goes for day time, too, in day time length, so that a long sleeved blouse can double with day or evening costumes.

Stock Yards District Boys and Girls Go to Camp Algonquin

Eighty boys and girls, most of whom are from the stock yards district, left yesterday for a month of sunshine and fresh air at the United Charities' Camp Algonquin on the Fox river.

The 80 went as members of the charities' Harlowarden group, a special health unit founded in 1912 for undernourished children from the stock yards district. They joined 205 children and their mothers who opened the camp's 34th season last Friday. The first group will remain two weeks. Meantime, contributions are still being sought to send other underprivileged children to the camp.

An appeal also is made for donations to the ice fund which supplies impoverished families with ice thruout the summer months. With the soaring temperatures, the calls upon this fund have mounted. Contributions made to either of these will be gratefully acknowledged in these columns.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

The Man They Laughed At.

Hollywood, Cal., June 28.—Certainly the great genius of Hollywood is Walt Disney. No one can spend five minutes with this quiet, reflective man, on whom every motion picture producer once looked with ribald scorn, and not realize that here is a great and a good man. Spend a whole day with him and you go away with your head whirling with the hundreds of ideas, touching on everything from electronics to anatomy to a new diatonic scale, that he has projected in casual conversation.

Casualness and his burning dark eyes are his two outstanding characteristics. Walking or sitting, he slouches; when seated, he always supports his head with one hand. When he smiles, it is with his eyes, and every one at the studio, from gateman to waitress, calls him Walt. He is a Missourian but spent most of his youth in Chicago, where his father was a building contractor.

"I used to sit and worship at the feet of some of the Trbiune men," he said in wistful reminiscence. "They didn't know it, or me even, but I was studying art at the academy and some of your people, Carey Orr among them, used to teach there. Carey had a strip in THE TRIBUNE then, called The Tiny Trib, that epitomized the news of the day. I was going to McKinley High at the same time, so I started a little strip in the school paper, called The Voice. I called it The Tiny Voice. But gosh," with that appalling modesty of his, "I never was an artist and now I don't draw at all. It takes time. You have to think to draw, and I'm so busy I can't even find time to sleep."

Disney's studios down in the San Fernando valley resemble a great hospital, for here are long shining corridors, aseptic and air conditioned; workers in immaculate white smocks, gleaming steel and aluminum implements, and vacuum vortices which gulp up dust before it appears. You get the impression you are in the realm of pure science, and altho it may seem a bit extraneous, to pure science to be led down a lane marked "Snow White Alley" by a merry Irish policeman who now is a chief bos'n's mate in the coast guard, that is because even the animated cartoons have gone to war, and Disney's work for the navy is of so secret a nature that the studio is entirely under military guard.

Disney's own office is anything but scientific. It is large and gay, with low comfortable chairs splashed around, a little open piano, models of the seven dwarfs and Mr. D. Duck leering from every shelf, and da Vinci drawings side by side with Covarrubias maps of South America. The two volumes of Dr. Fritz Kahn's new work, "The Human Body; Its Structure and Functions," lay open on a table, and Disney thumbed it eagerly, his eyes glowing.

"Magnificent," he said, turning rapidly from drawing to drawing. "Everything in it gives me an idea. Look at this"—indicating a detailed drawing of little men hammering at nerve centers—"and this"—indicating one of the skyscraper city of the brain—"and this"—the structure of the eye.

"Think what people could learn about themselves. I could do a hundred films . . . if," wearily, "I can just get the money."

One minute he is forgetting to eat lunch, pushing it away as he rests his head on that hand and gives his outspoken Missouri opinions on charlatans here and elsewhere. Another minute he is eagerly discussing his new de Seversky film, "Victory Thru Air Power" and what he hopes it will do: "Make people think." Another minute he is laughing like a child at the antics of the Charley McCarthy of Mexico, an impudent puppet who is having an audition for the voice of a Mexican rooster who will be the leading man in a new film, "Let's Go Latin." Again he is talking to a colonel of marines who has come to get the insigne Disney is giving the marines at El Toro field [a fire eating bull with a gold ring in its nose and pale blue wings] and asking the colonel, who is fresh from Guadalcanal, "How formidable are the Zeros?" and lapsing into gloomy silence as the colonel says, "They've got everything."

This is Disney, who proved to an incredible Hollywood that humor and the gobble of a duck can transcend all barriers.

Mothers' Milk Reserves Fall; Cause Alarm

Due to war time conditions serious shortages in the reserves of preserved mothers' milk are being reported from all over the nation, child welfare authorities in New York City announced yesterday.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, added that the shortage is so acute in Chicago that the lives of prematurely born infants and sick babies dependent upon breast milk supplies may be endangered this summer.

Ordinarily there are comparatively large surpluses of milk maintained at laboratories in Chicago, Kankakee, Evanston, and Milwaukee in this area, but their stock is reported to have dwindled to a bare working margin. Dr. Bundesen blamed the shortage on war time worries, higher family incomes, and the employment of women in war industries.

"The plain fact is that women who can now make substantial wages in war plants will not bother to contribute to mothers' milk reserves for the comparatively smaller compensation," he said. "The situation becomes more serious daily and an appeal to qualified mothers should be made immediately."

Dr. Bundesen asserted that not only are fewer mothers nursing their babies but in addition the average amount contributed by a donor has dropped from 16 ounces two years ago to from 10 to 14 ounces today. He attributed this to war time tension.

Donors receive varying pay in different cities. Chicago pays 13 cents an ounce, plus carfare, and Dr. Bundesen explained that physical as well as financial benefits accrue to donors, since they receive thoro physical examinations before their milk is accepted and mothers are advised on nutrition and hygiene. Also the health of their infants is checked constantly to make certain their babies are not deprived of their own nutritional requirements.

Frozen breast milk is provided for infants on a doctor's prescription, charges running a range of prices up to 30 cents an ounce and being adjusted downward, depending on the applicant's financial status.

Mrs. Sam B., Detroit, Mich.—Before I arrange roses in the house I let them stand in deep water in a cool spot for several hours. This is good for them, and then when I arrange them I cut the stems under water.

Mrs. Ernest Smith, Chicago.—I have learned to wash furniture successfully since I acquired the knack of making the lightest and thinnest of suds. I use this suds as sparingly as possible and there's little or no soap to rinse off. A cloth wrung out of this suds mixture so that it is just moist, and no more, will do the work.

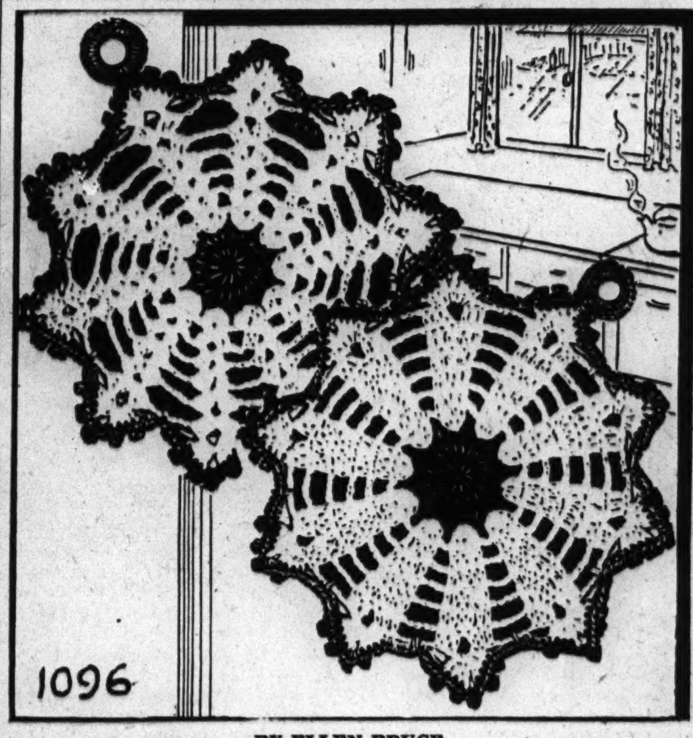
Crocheted Potholders



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Here are two attractive and original potholders which are crocheted in the shell and wheel design, in red, white, and blue carpet warp. They are not difficult to do, yet add a colorful touch to kitchen decoration. With the numerous shades of carpet warp available, one may use any three harmonious colors suitable to the kitchen scheme.

For instructions in crocheting the shell and wheel potholders, No. 1096, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

Trumps, like money, are worth only what they will buy. This is just another way of saying that neither trumps nor money should be hoarded. Consider this case:

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♣Q J 10

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Pass	1 heart	1 spade
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

West's prompt penalty double of one spade was excellent, but his subsequent defense fell far below par.

The club king was led and, upon East's playing the nine-spot, clubs were continued for two more rounds, East ruffing with the spade queen. A low heart was returned, declarer ducked, and West's king won. West now made the good play of laying down the ace and another diamond. East, after winning with the diamond king, returned another heart. Declarer won with the ace, and led the nine of hearts. At this point, West "slipped." Apparently feeling that his three spade tricks were safe against attack, he decided to conserve them. He discarded a low club. The heart was ruffed in dummy and the spade six was led and passed. West won with the ten and exited with his last club. Declarer ruffed with the spade seven and then taught West a good lesson by throwing him on lead with the spade nine. West had to return a spade from the king-two up to declarer's ace-eight and thereby lost his precious third trump trick.

In hands of this type, defenders should confine all their efforts toward staying out of end-plays. Here was a case in which West obviously could take no more than three trump tricks. That being so, he should have jumped at the chance to insure those tricks by any method whatever. Thus, when declarer led the third heart, West should have jumped in with the spade ten, and exited with a club. Later, upon being given his second spade trick, West would have another club with which to exit and thereby protect his third trump trick from attack.

Parents Urged to Study Value of Obedience

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Every so often it is good for us to stop and question ourselves as we deal with our children from day to day. It's a sort of mental stocktaking.

Sometimes getting things straight in your mind will clear, as if by magic, your difficulties with the children. I could give you a dozen examples right on the spot, such as knowing that the baby doesn't pull at the tablecloth because he's naughty, but because he's so little that he's below the line of vision of fascinating objects on the table, and is eager to see them; as knowing that your 5 year old doesn't use "bad" words because they're "bad," but because they're new and he's got to try out most new things. Getting a line on reasons and purposes helps a lot.

Today let's take that important matter of obedience, and look for reasons. How do you think of obedience? Do you think it isn't important while your children are little, or do you? And if you do, why? And more to the point, have you been successful in gaining obedience? Perhaps you'll be interested in my own theory and practice, as a mother, in this direction.

Obedience is not an end in itself. It is a means, a tool we use to gain certain important ends in raising our children.

If you will think of it in that way, it will have the effect of revolutionizing your management of children, especially if you are having trouble with them. It will keep you from the mistake of thinking as one mother does, "I cannot conquer my 5 year old boy. I am harassed to death."

We don't want to conquer children. Far from it. We want to so train them that eventually they will be masters of themselves. They must be guided so that in time they will know how to direct their own energies, thoughts, and emotions.

Therefore, we do not want to teach them to obey simply because subjugation is good. We want to gain obedience because it helps us to protect them, and to make them happy and useful members of society.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard S. Freeman of North Campbell avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Iris Barbara, to Lester Robert Holtzman of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Holtzman of North Drake avenue. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Schofield B. Gross of Riverside announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Anne, to Lt. Edward H. Spriétsma of the army air forces, son of Henry Sprietsma of Maywood. Miss Gross attended the University of Wisconsin. Lt. Sprietsma, who is stationed in Philadelphia, enlisted in the army a year before Pearl Harbor. The wedding will take place shortly.

Thru the Looking Glass

The combination package of a cake makeup and a lipstick strikes us as a happy one for the business girl, who likes to keep her desk and her purse free from clutter and who must always look well groomed with the minimum expenditure of time and money.

One such set now on the market is a beauty buy. The cake makeup is excellent. It smooths on in a matter of seconds, veils little flaws of skin texture and condition and gives the skin a velvety, "dressed" finish. It's a flatterer for the mature if ever there was one and can be used either as a base for powder or as a final skin finish, according to your own tastes.

This one comes in four attractive shades, natural, rachel, a deep peach and a rose brunette. The case is plastic, feather light and in pretty pastels.

The lipstick that accompanies it is also excellent. It's exceptionally creamy and smooth and comes in three shades—a geranium red [lovely with a rich, warm tan], red rose and cherry red. All three shades are pretty and remain pretty on the lips, with no tricky change of color after a few hours' wear.

The lipstick is a war time swivel case of sturdy paper, also in pretty colors that match the cake makeup compact. The two together are attractive, but what will probably interest you more is that they're grand grooming aids and remarkably inexpensive.

With these at hand, as they are paired off in the package that has just come to market, your makeup ritual is streamlined.

Burns and Allen on the SCREEN...

Toots and Casper in The COMIC WEEKLY

BIG NAMES are always BIG BOX OFFICE!

FOR years, George Burns and Gracie Allen have reigned as one of the top "box office" teams in movie history... a perennial Eldorado in celluloid for theatre owners and movie exhibitors everywhere. America takes a never-ending delight in the trials and tribulations of the Burns and Allen married life—that cockeyed comedy of conjugal errors that taught the world what "zany" means.

But not even George and Gracie can match the magnificent "run" of another great "box office" team, playing another sure-fire family farce... Toots and Casper! For 24 years, this beloved pair of prize performers—the Burns and Allen of the "picture-page theatre"—have played a continuous, week-after-week engagement to an audience of millions, in Puck-The Comic Weekly. And Toots and Casper are only two of the big "box office" names in Puck's dazzling ALL-STAR CAST.

Puck's weekly "billing" is a glamorous galaxy of headliners—beauteous Blondie and dear old Dagwood; Popeye, the mountain of muscle; Percy Crosby's immortal Skippy; those beloved boneheads, Barney Google and Snuffy Smith; superhuman Flash Gordon; Jiggs and Maggie; Tillie the Toiler; the Katzenjammer Kids and many others.

"BOX OFFICE"—and then some!

The big "box office draw" of Puck's picture-page theatre has rarely been equalled in publication history. Week after week, nearly 20 million men and women, boys and girls, take in the show—in more than 6,000,000 homes throughout the country.

No wonder Puck-The Comic Weekly heads up the media lists of America's shrewdest advertisers! For no other publication can offer Puck's phenomenal intensity of readership. And Puck's tremendous audience covers the great industrial markets of the nation—where money is being made and spent as never before.

Since its big, colorful pages were first opened to general merchandise advertising, 12 years ago, Puck's big "box office" has proved, time and again, the No. 1 "hit" for an impressive number of America's most important big-time advertisers.

AN OLD INJURY ENDS CAREER OF WHIRLAWAY

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Whirlaway, the chestnut colt which went out from Calumet Farm in the spring of 1940 to conquer the racing world, will return permanently to those picturesque Kentucky pastures within the next two weeks. His owner, Warren Wright, announced yesterday the racing career of the greatest money winner in the history of the sport is ended.

Mr. Wright, who is living in Chicago during the Arlington Park meeting, explained the motives for his decision in the following statement:

"We have found Whirlaway has not fully recovered from an injury received in New Orleans last winter. Rather than punish him in trying to bring him back to racing form or run the risk of breaking him down, we have decided to retire him and give him his much deserved rest. We feel he is entitled to this and believe he has made a great contribution to racing."

Final Bid Fails in Arlington Equipoise Mile.

The crowd which gathered at Washington Park last Saturday for Arlington's $10,000 Equipoise Mile, saw Whirlaway, now a 5 year old, run his last race. They watched him launch the final charge of his career as he began going up from last place on the far turn. The fans who had made him 6 to 5 favorite cheered jubilantly as he picked up rivals one by one on that sweep around the bend. They saw him continue his rush down the outside in the straightaway but soon they sensed he wasn't going to make it. By the time the pack reached the last 200 yards, Whirlaway's charge was broken and he finished fifth.

In amassing earnings of $561,161 during his campaigns as a juvenile, a 3 year old and a 4 year old, Whirlaway made many a spectacular charge which did not fail. His tremendous rush on the last turn in the Kentucky Derby of 1941 provided some of the most memorable moments in the history of that event.

Rated as Good Juvenile During 1940 Season.

As a juvenile in 1940, Whirlaway won the Saratoga Special and the Hopeful stakes, the Breeders' Futurity at Keenland, and the Walden Stakes at Pimlico. He was third in the Arlington Futurity, third in the Belmont Futurity, and third in the Pimlico Futurity.

As a 3 year old, Whirlaway swept thru the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont Stakes, Dwyer Stakes, Travers, American Derby, and Lawrence Realization. He was upset in the Arlington Classic, being beaten by Attention. From the time he ran third in two purses in Florida in February and March of 1941, he never again was worse than second the rest of the season.

Loses Twice in Three Meetings with Alsab.

As a four year old last season, Whirlaway won the Dixie handicap, the Brooklyn handicap, the Massachusetts handicap, the Narragansett Special, the Jockey Club Gold Cup, and other events for a season's total of 12 firsts, eight seconds, and 2 thirds in 22 starts, never being out of the money. He was beaten by Alsab in a match race at Narragansett and was third to this horse in the New York handicap. He beat Alsab in the Jockey Club Gold Cup.

This year Whirlaway made only two starts, both during Arlington Park's meeting at Washington Park. Last Tuesday he ran third to his stablemate, Mar-Kell. When he was fifth in Saturday's Equipoise Mile, it was the first time since the Belmont Futurity trial of 1940 he had been out of the money.

Of the horses now racing, Alsab, who presently will begin his 4 year old campaign, is the closest to Whirlaway in the all-time standing. Alsab has won $345,165.

SCORES UPSET OVER MICHIGAN WITH 614 TOTAL

Team Standings

FINAL team standings in the 46th annual National Collegiate golf tournament at Olympia Fields yesterday:

Yale	614	Northwestern	641
Michigan	618	Princeton	650
Louisiana State	621	Notre Dame	652
Minnesota	635

Yale university's four man golf team, trailing by 12 strokes at the end of 18 holes, came with a rush in the final round to capture the team championship in the National Intercollegiate Golf tournament at the Olympia Fields Country club yesterday with a total of 614 strokes for the 36 hole route.

Michigan, holder of the Big Ten championship and the leader at the half way point yesterday finished second with 618 strokes and Louisiana State, the 1942 co-champion, was third with 621 strokes.

Team, Individual Scores.

The team and individual scores of the seven college teams follow:

Yale—Robert Kuntz, 78—73—151; Walter Beckford, 77—75—152; Keith Bridston, 78—76—154; J. C. Harris, 78—79—157. Total—614.

Michigan — Ben Smith, 75—71—146; Robert Fife, 77—77—154; William Ludolph, 74—84—158; Phil Marcellus, 73—87—160. Total—618.

Louisiana State—Dale Morey, 75—72—147; Sonny Ellis, 72—78—150; James Wittenberg, 75—82—157; Marvin Wolf, 82—85—167. Total—621.

Minnesota—James Teale, 78—75—153; Robert Krogh, 76—80—156; Louis Lick, 80—77—157; Rodney Larson, 83—86—169. Total—635.

Northwestern—Jack Duers, 77—76—153; James Stewart, 78—81—159; Ed Lutter, 83—81—164; John Stoltz, 83—82—165. Total—641.

Princeton—Walter Kearns, 76—78—154; William Campbell, 79—80—159; Robert Chew, 82—84—166; John Kearns, 89—82—171. Total 650.

Notre Dame—James Gallagher, 81—79—160; James Besenfelder, 81—81—162; Mel Wilke, 81—81—162; George Jesckle, 86—82—168. Total—652.

The Eli victory came as a big surprise with the possible exception of the eastern lads themselves. The championship was expected to develop into a battle between Michigan and Louisiana State, and it looked just like that at lunch time as the Wolverines led the field with 299 strokes and the southern boys were in second place with 304. Yale was 12 strokes off the pace with 311.

Yale Erases Deficit.

Yale wasted little time in overcoming this deficit once the afternoon round got under way. All but one member of the Eli squad improved over his morning score. The four lads who turned the trick for Yale and their scores were: Robert Kuntz, 78—73—151; Walter Beckford, 77—75—152; Keith Bridston, 78—76—154, and Jack Harris, 78—79—157. All but Bridston are seniors.

Meanwhile Michigan fell pretty much apart in the second round with the exception of Capt. Ben Smith, the co-Big Ten champion, who turned in a card of 35—36—71, one under par. With his 75 of the morning, Smith finished with 146. Bob Fife of the Wolverines had a pair of 77s for his day's work while Phil Marcellus who had a 73 in the morning soared to an 87 in the second round and Bill Ludolph took an 84 in the afternoon after a morning card of 74.

Morey Leads Tigers.

Louisiana State also failed to main tain its morning pace as all except one of its shooters posted higher scores for the second round. Dale Morey led the Tigers with a 75—72—147 while Sonny Ellis, 18 year old sophomore, who captured the 18 hole qualifying medal with a 35—37—72 took a 78 in the afternoon.

The medalist jinx caught up with Ellis in the first round of match play in the afternoon when he lost a 2 and 1 decision to a fellow southerner, Claude Wild of Texas. The 32 low scorers in the morning qualified for match play in the afternoon. The afternoon scores also figured in the team championship.

When I was left out of the Wake book I wasn't sore at any one. Figured it was just one of those things. At the Wake banquet when Hilda Butler Farr didn't sit me at the head table with Gov. The other evening I had some hot quips for the Wake and wanted to get them to you, Arch, before Bob Hope or Jack Benny told them on the air. When I arrived at Tribune Tower I found that the Wake's commander in chief had lined up cannons, block busters, aircraft guns, etc. When I tried to crash thru a big soldier said, "Where are you going?" I said "to the Wake department." Then I showed him one of my contributions to prove it. He read it and scowled and snapped, "You can't get by with that stuff. Throw it in the river." Adventurers All.

It seemed like yesterday that they fared forth
Bound for the willow patch down on the bank,
Just where the river makes that little curve
They built themselves a shack of reeds so dank.
Great were the preparations for this trek,
Adventurers all, the willows a jungle deep,
And how they'd coax for just one single night
To be allowed beneath the stars to sleep.

Where are they now, that group of neighbor lads
Who used to camp down near the river's bow?
Scattered to all four corners of the earth,
Meeting adventure that only the brave can know.

If now perchance they sleep beneath the stars,
On lonely outpost at some jungle edge
I wonder if they think, as oft do I,
Of those little boys who camped mid willow's edge.

Always gave them dead away.

I see my teacher, even now,
As she flounced on up the aisle,
Wiggling her aft from side to side,
Leaking sawdust all the while.

And not until she reached her desk
And had proudly turned around,
Did she suspect the trail she made,
Or the smiles that did abound.

PATTY SHOOTS PAR 76; TWO TIE FOR SECOND

Match Play Opens at Glen Oak Today.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Patty Berg, the 25 year old Minneapolis redhead who stamped herself as one of golf's ablest swingers in her teens, yesterday won the qualifying medal in the Salute to Victory tournament being conducted by the Women's Western Golf association at the Glen Oak Country club.

Patty, making her first competitive appearance since the 1941 automobile accident which shattered her left kneecap and threatened to terminate her career, allowed she would like to duplicate her championship victory of 1941 by shooting a 37—39—76, even par for Glen Oak and two strokes ahead of a field of 111 players.

Tie for Second.

Two youngsters, an Iowan and a Jersey golfer, tied for second place. They were Ann Casey of Mason City, Ia., and Katherine Fox of Glen Ridge, N. J. The runner-up rôle in a Western qualifying round was no novelty for Miss Casey as the bespectacled University of Iowa senior was second in the W. W. G. A. amateur medal test at Sunset Ridge last summer. Her 39—39—78 was matched by the two 39s submitted by Miss Fox, 18 years old, whose dad, Professional Jack Fox, was on hand to greet her after a grand try which nearly brought her the medal.

Elizabeth Hicks, the Long Beach, Cal., girl who won the last national championship before the war, took temporary command of fourth place with a 39—41—80. She was followed by Phyllis Otto of Omaha, Neb., last year's runnerup, and Margaret Gunther of Memphis, Tenn., both with 81s, and an 82 threesome composed of Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., and Virginia Ingram of Chicago's Sunset Ridge club.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, former double winner of the championship, who hadn't played golf in 10 months, turned in an 86 which included a back nine rally of 41.

Martial Style Predominates.

The tournament, dedicated this year to the WAACs, WAVES, SPARS, and marines, led off in true martial style with a uniformed foursome the first to swing. Officials of all four organizations will be on hand during the five days of the tournament to accept enlistments. All women who enlist during the event will be given a silver identification bracelet by the W. W. G. A.

Yesterday's medal play examination determined the 32 match play qualifiers in the championship bracket. The first round of match play will be held today. Tomorrow's program will consist of a double

SOX SET FOR WAR RELIEF GAMES

Drill Today for Part in Tomorrow's Show.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who like to point out that one of their members, Guy Curtright, is setting the pace for American league hitters, and that they are right in the middle of the American league pennant jamboree, will get to Comiskey park this morning for a bit of practice and perhaps a few words from Manager Jim Dykes. He hopes to have everything shipshape for tomorrow evening's war fund festival in which the Sox and Senators will gang up against the Great Lakes sailors in a twilight game and then go to work in a regulation league debate under the lights.

Dykes can hardly wait for the occasion. Didn't his fellows win half of a four game series from the Indians? And then there's Curtright. The manager is anxious to show off his outfit.

Grove to See Army Today.

Tomorrow is going to be a busy day for Orval Grove, the right hander from Maywood. He's one of a group scheduled to report at army induction headquarters. If he's rejected because of the knees on which operations were performed last year he knows he'll get to the ball park before sundown. If accepted he hopes to make it because of the customary furlough. The reason he wants to be there is to fill the pitching assignment against the Senators. It will be his maiden electric light effort in behalf of the Sox.

Curtright's hitting, which has added something extra to Dykes' circus of fly hawks and free wheeling runners, appears to be getting better instead of slowing down. With four hits in seven times up during the even split with the Indians on Sunday he boosted his average to .368 and ran his consecutive game hitting streak to 24. If you consider his bat work only from May 30 when he took over left field permanently his figure would be .397. Prior to this date he had produced only three hits in eighteen times at bat.

Gomez to Start on Mound.

Activity against Mickey Cochrane's Sailor nine in tomorrow's twilight will be under the guidance of Ossie Bluege, the Senators' leader.

Bluege yesterday switched from Dewey Adkins to Vernon [Lefty] Gomez for the starting job against the Sailors. Gomez, one time Yankee star who won six world series games without a defeat, recently was signed by the Senators. Bluege announced this starting lineup:

George Case, Senators, right field; Thurman Tucker, Sox, center field, Guy Curtright, Sox, left field; Luke Appling, Sox, shortstop; Jim Grant, Sox, third base; Gerry Priddy, Senators, second base; Joe Kuhel, Sox, first base; Jake Early, Senators, catcher; Gomez, pitcher. Joe Haynes and Buck Ross of the Sox will be ready to take up where Gomez leaves off.

Bluege said other replacements will be made after four innings.

Pirates Chase Walters in 2d, Jolt Reds, 7-1

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 28 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates batted out a 7 to 1 victory tonight over Cincinnati, giving Rip Sewell his tenth victory of the season against two defeats and boosting their hold on third place over the Reds to one and one-half games.

Bob Elliott sparked the Pittsburgh attack before 12,979 fans, with a first inning home run with a mate on base. Bucky Walters had wild-pitched one run home just before Elliott's smash after Jack Barrett singled and Jimmy Russell doubled.

Sewell helped to win his own game in the second inning when he tripled with two men on base, the hit sending Walters to the showers.

WALLY BUTTS TO SERVE WITH STUHLDREHER

His Team Won 1943 Rose Bowl.

All-Star Roster

THE following college football players have accepted invitations to join the All-Star squad which will meet the Washington Redskins, Aug. 25, in Dyche stadium in the 10th game sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.:

LINEMEN — Don Currivan, Boston college; Pat Lyons, Wisconsin; Al Wistert, Michigan; Del Dickerhoof, Iowa, and Garrard Ramsey, William and Mary.

BACKS — Cammille Piccone, Notre Dame; Bob Steuber, Missouri; Roy McKay, Texas, and Joe Winkler, Purdue.

BY ARCH WARD.

Wallace Butts, the Mister Five-by-Five who piloted the University of Georgia eleven to a Rose Bowl victory over U. C. L. A. last New Year's day, has accepted an invitation to represent the south on the All-Star coaching staff.

Butts joins Babe Horrell of U. C. L. A. and Lt. Paul Hinkle of Great Lakes as assistants to Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin in developing the team that will play the Washington Redskins, world's professional champions, at Dyche stadium the night of Aug. 25 in Chicago's 10th annual charity football game. One more coach will be named to round out the All-Stars' strategy board.

It's a Thrill for Wally.

"I have been following the All-Star game by radio and newspaper for several years," Butts said yesterday in accepting appointment to the staff, "but this will be the first time I ever have seen the country's greatest gridiron spectacle. It's an honor coveted by every college coach in the United States. I congratulate the sponsors in carrying on the enterprise in the face of war complications and I am sure the fans will support the game as enthusiastically as in other years.

"I am looking forward, too, to the opportunity to work with Harry Stuhldreher, who is recognized by coaches everywhere as tops in his field. It doesn't look as if we'll have much of a squad at Georgia this year, so I'm going to work doubly hard in Evanston to make sure I'll be identified with one winning team this year, at least."

Ticket Sale Booming.

Butts' reference to the support of the fans is substantiated in the heavy advance ticket sales. There are fewer than 1,500 seats left in the $6.60 section, and less than 7,000 at $4.40. These prices cover all seats in the permanent stands. However, more than 13,000 bleacher seats will be installed to bring the capacity past 50,000.

The Georgia gridiron chief is one of the youngest coaches in point of service ever appointed to the All-Star staff. He has been a college coach only five years, but he can point to two Bowl victories and a Southeastern conference title, if it is necessary to do any pointing, to convince the public as to his right to the assignment. In addition to Georgia's 9 to 0 triumph over U. C. L. A. at Pasadena last New Year's day, his team whipped Texas Christian university, 40 to 26, in the Orange Bowl game at Miami a year previous.

He's a Native Georgian.

Stocky, rotund Wally Butts went to Georgia, oldest state chartered university in the United States, from Male High school in Louisville as assistant to Joel Hunt in 1938. He was named head coach on Jan. 1, 1939, and his contract calls for him to remain in that post until 1945. He is 38 years old and a native Georgian.

Butts began his athletic career as a three sport man at Georgia Military college. He later enrolled at

AONBARR WINS FROM ALETERN AT ARLINGTON

Count Fleet Won't Run in Classic; Leg Ailing.

Aonbarr, 7 to 2 second choice in the betting, upset the 2 to 5 favorite Aletern, in the Questionnaire purse, main event on Arlington Park's program yesterday at Washington Park. Under Frank Zehr's well judged rating, Aonbarr came home a length and a quarter in advance of the public choice, while Choppy Sea and Staretor were completing the field of four in that order.

Aletern was heavily backed in this mile and a furlong gallop because of the prestige he had acquired in winning two stakes during the Lincoln Fields meeting at Hawthorne.

Aonbarr Rushes to Front.

Zehr sent Aonbarr into command in the early stages while Aletern was settling into last place. During the run down the back stretch Aonbarr maintained control three lengths ahead of Choppy Sea, with Staretor another six lengths farther back. Aletern was approximately 12 lengths off the pacemaker.

On the turn the favorite moved up and was second soon after the stretch run began. But he still was six lengths behind the leader and this was too much for him to make up. Aonbarr paid $9.80 and $2.40, no show tickets being sold.

The Arlington Classic, which is to be run July 24, shaped up primarily as a struggle between Occupation and Slide Rule after word had been received yesterday from the east that Count Fleet would be given a 30 day rest because of leg trouble. Previously Ocean Wave had been declared out of this event because of a splint.

McCombs Fails to Get License.

The Illinois racing board announced that Ken McCombs' application for a license as a jockey had been rejected. The board, which consists of Maj. Ednyfed Williams, Frank Mandel, and William Fay, gave no specific grounds for the rejection.

McCombs hasn't been riding since the Oaklawn meeting, when he was called to New York to answer charges of accepting money under false pretenses in connection with a touting racket. McCombs was cleared of those charges, so far as the New York courts were concerned. Two years ago McCombs was ruled off for the season for unsatisfactory riding during the Arlington Park meeting.

32 Report for First Illinois Football Drill

Champaign, Ill., June 28 [Special].—Summer football practice began at the University of Illinois today when 32 reported to Coach Ray Eliot and his assistants. The squad, the youngest and lightest in Illinois history, was composed mostly of players who were 17 years old and seven who were 18. It averaged between 165 and 170 pounds.

May Lose 18 Year Olds.

"The 18 year old boys are likely to be called to service before the season begins but we encouraged them to come out to reap the benefit of the conditioning," Eliot said.

Practice consisted of calisthenics, running, kicking, passing, and other fundamentals but no contact work, which will be deferred until the last of the four weeks summer program.

Regular practice for the fall will begin Aug. 23, when students who are certified for registration for the fall semester may participate, in addition to those already in the university.

List of Candidates.

The 17 year old candidates were as follows:

The 18 year old candidates were: Backs—Ed Nemeth, Bill Chamberlain, East Chicago, Ind. Ends—Charles Shostrum, East Frankfort; George Chianakas, Eureka; Larry Reed, Clinton, Ind. Linemen—Tony Kelly, Chicago [St. Leo].

One of the few experienced men was Ralph Palmer, sub guard on the Illinois varsity last season.

Dee and Lee Alberts, twins, ends, and Beryl White, back, from East St. Louis, are in the university, but will not report until tomorrow.

STATE RACING ROTATION BILL MAKES PROGRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 28.—Chicago Democrats tonight failed to halt the progress of a bill to require the state racing commission to rotate racing dates among the race tracks in the Chicago area. The measure, already passed by the senate, was advanced to passage stage in the house.

Rep. Edward J. McCabe [D., Chicago] offered an amendment to make the bill apply only to tracks of less than a mile. This would limit it to Sportsman's Park. By a voice vote his amendment was tabled.

James Knocks Out Simmons in 5th Round

Tommy James, ex-city Golden Gloves welterweight champion, knocked out Robert Simmons, former Indianapolis sectional Golden Gloves victor, in the fifth round of a scheduled eight round bout in Marigold outdoor arena last night. Referee Tommy Thomas completed his count after 1 minute 21 seconds of the fifth had elapsed.

Simmons went down for a short count in the second but rallied and appeared to be on his way to his fourth straight Chicago victory when he caught a left hook to the stomach which ended hostilities.

Adams Beats Teaney.

Elbert Adams, former city Golden Gloves featherweight winner, scored an upset when he beat Harry Teaney of Cleveland in an eight round bout. It was a split decision, Judges Jack Ripple and Carl Witt scoring for Adams, while Referee Howard Walsh scored for Teaney.

Al Jordan, Kansas City, Mo., heavyweight, pounded out a decision over Bob Garner of Louisville in an additional match of eight rounds. Jordan registered two knockdowns in the first round and seemed to be a sure winner by a knockout. Garner came back in the next round, however, to the surprise of the 1,547 spectators, who paid a gross gate of $2,648. From there on Bob gave a good account of himself.

Hunt Outpoints Pittro.

Jimmy Hunt, south side 144 pounder outpointed Jerry Pittro in a four round event and Eddie [Kid] Carson, local lightweight, defeated Isadore Miner in six rounds. Miner was substituted for Young Ted Lewis.

New date for a 10 round bout between Lou Nova, Van Nuys, Cal., heavyweight, and Lee Savold in Wrigley field will be Aug. 9, Co-Promoter Irving Schoenwald said yesterday.

The weekly show in Marigold Gardens next Monday has been called off because of the July 4 holiday.

Ralph di Battista, light heavyweight boxer of the Glenview Air station, and Eddie Kaminski, 1942 Catholic Youth organization heavyweight champion, have agreed to meet in a five round rematch in the amateur boxing show in Madison-Cicero arena Friday.

What's Cooking?

WAAC Technician 5th Grade Amy Ring, an assistant cook for the WAAC company at Fort Sheridan, will play with the fort team in the softball game with the Camp Grant WAACs in Wrigley field Thursday night.

WAAC Is Versatile

Corp. H. Barnsnell, a member of the Comets, men's softball team at Fort Sheridan, will be at shortstop for the Fort Sheridan WAAC team which will play the Camp Grant WAACs in Wrigley field Thursday evening in one of two games on the program of a WAAC recruiting rally.

This does not mean that the Fort Sheridan WACCs are unable to find a capable shortstop in their own ranks, but merely that Corp. Barnsnell [the first name is Helen] is such a capable player that she has earned a place on the men's team. When on duty the corporal, whose home is in Hendersonville, N. C., is a file clerk in the Fort Sheridan station hospital.

The Fort Sheridan-Camp Grant girls game, scheduled for 6 p. m. Thursday, will be followed by a clash between two all-star teams selected from outstanding players in the All-American Girls Softball league.

Other outstanding players on the Fort Sheridan WAAC team are Corp. Lorraine Worth, a life guard; Technician 5th Grade Anita Schilling, a company clerk, and Technician 5th Grade Amy Ring, an assistant cook.

Woodsman Build Lean-to for Shelter

BY BOB BECKER.

An outdoorsman finds himself marooned for a night in the northwoods without a tent or a bed. But, if he knows something about the outdoors and has a belt knife or a small hand axe and a match or two [in his water proof matchbox] he can spend a pretty comfortable night in the woods beneath a lean-to roofed with bark.

The first time we ever made such a shelter in the northwoods there was no birch bark available, which is the easiest roofing material to gather. We were in a virgin forest in the upper peninsula of Michigan and no birch trees were close to our overnight camp site. So we turned to the bark of ash trees to get our roofing material.

With our small belt axe, two circles were cut around the trunk of a tree near our camp site on a trout stream. Then a straight up and down cut was made in order to get the blade of the axe under the bark and start the peeling operation. By lifting and cutting with the axe, it was possible to peel a roll of bark from the tree more than two feet wide.

Four Poles Form Frame.

When a supply of bark shingles of various sizes had been gathered we put up the frame of the shelter, consisting of four poles. The two in front, when driven into the ground, stood about four and half feet high. The two in the back, to give a slope to the roof, were about three feet high. The tops of both sets of poles ended in Y's so other supporting poles could be laid across them.

We drove several other short poles into the ground along the outer edges of the framework so small green branches could be laid across to support the shingles. These were not trimmed cleanly, leaving two or three inches of each twig on a pole to hold the bark in position.

A number of slender branches were cut and laid lengthwise of the framework. The trick was to leave a short piece of branch on each pole so an inverted V remained which could be hooked over the top cross pole and thus anchor it securely.

Add Shingle Roof.

With the framework completed, we shingled the roof. The first layer of bark went on convex side up. The next layer went on concave side down, with the edge of each piece of bark in the first layer fitting into the partly flattened U shaped pieces of the second layer.

After thatching the sides of the shelter with small spruce and balsam trees, we made a bed of small balsam boughs, cut a couple of long poles and set them as braces to prop up our shelter, and built a reflector fire with three green backlogs which would throw the heat at us and our bough bed. The final preparation for the night was collecting plenty of firewood.

Georgia Coach Joins College All-Star Staff

Mercer university, where he played football under Bernie Moore, now head coach at Louisiana State. Moore was a member of the All-Star staff in 1937. Butts played both at end and half back at Mercer and Moore rates him the best blocker he has coached.

Butts began his coaching career at Georgia A. & M. where he remained four years, after which he went to Georgia Military college. But it was at Louisville's Male High that he began to attract attention.

He Makes Athletics Pay.

When Butts was called to his present position at Georgia the school's football fortunes were at their lowest ebb. The athletic department was $150,000 in debt and some faculty members were urging that football be abandoned. Butts talked them out of it. His first team won six games and lost four. His 1940 eleven, made up mainly of sophomores, won five, lost four and tied one, but there was a newcomer on that squad who was destined to reach gridiron heights. He was Frank Sinkwich, who last year was generally regarded as the No. 1 man of college football. In 1941, Georgia, sparked by Sinkwich, won eight games, lost one and tied one, excluding its victory over T. C. U. at Miami. Last year Georgia won 10 and lost one and climaxed its season with a Rose bowl victory.

In addition to an excellent record in the won and lost columns, Georgia is now debt free.

Georgia had more than one All-America candidate on its 1942 eleven. When Sinkwich turned up with injured ankles, a sophomore, Charles Trippi, stepped into the tail back spot and performed as brilliantly as the man he had relieved.

CUBS TO BATTLE GREAT LAKES IN TORONTO TODAY

Open Eastern Invasion in Boston Tomorrow.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs will be in Toronto today, and full of confidence they will be able to show some improvement when they meet the Great Lakes Bluejackets there this afternoon. When they encountered Lt. Mickey Cochrane's gobs at Great Lakes on June 9, the major leaguers took a 4 to 0 licking—and worse, they were held to one hit, a looping double by Lennie Merullo.

The game in Toronto will be for the benefit of the British War Victims fund, and both teams are in Canada on invitation of the Canadian government. After the contest the Cubs will entrain for Boston, where they will launch their second invasion of the east tomorrow with a double header. The Bluejackets will hie to Chicago for their Wednesday game in Comiskey park against an all-star team composed of Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox.

Braves Easy for Cubs.

The Cubs will enter the east a half game in seventh place, just ahead of the New York Giants. On their first eastern trip the Cubs opened a game ahead of the Giants, then as now in eighth place. On May 13 the Giants beat them in the ninth inning and the teams went into a last place tie. The next day the Giants again won in the ninth and rammed the Cubs into the National league cellar, where they remained continuously for 40 days and 40 nights. They got out one day against Pittsburgh, went in for a day and then escaped by beating the St. Louis Cardinals at twilight on June 25.

The Braves, whom the Cubs will call on first this time, have been the kindest of all the teams in the league, insofar as treatment of the Cubs is concerned. They have lost four to the seventh placers without accomplishing a victory.

Then Those Phillies!

After the Cubs leave Boston they will engage in a series with the Phillies. The Phillies have whipped the Chicagoans seven out of eight. A single game will be played with the Phils and there will be a double header on July 4. On July 5 the Wrigley lads will play a double header in Brooklyn. There will be a twilight game on July 6 and a single game on July 7 in Brooklyn. The Cubs have won three and lost five in competition with the Dodgers.

On July 8 the Chicago fellows will go to Red Bank, N. J., for an exhibition game with Fort Monmouth, but they will be back in their league, against the Giants, July 9, 10, and 11, with double headers on the last two days. The tailenders have beaten the seventh placers five out of five thus far. Thus the Cubs are involved in the only season series sweeps—the Braves haven't whipped them and the Chicagoans haven't whipped the Giants.

CAMP CAMPBELL DEFEATED, 12-3, BY GREAT LAKES

McCosky and Mize Lead Bluejackets' Attack.

Barney McCosky, former outfielder for the Detroit Tigers, yesterday led the Great Lakes Bluejackets to a 12 to 3 victory over the Camp Campbell, Kentucky, Tankers, at Naval Training station's Constitution field before 10,000 recruits. It was the Bluejackets' second straight victory over an army team and their 23d triumph in 27 games this season.

McCosky collected a home run, double, and single in five trips to the plate. Johnny Mize drove in four runs with two doubles, and Glenn McQuillen smashed out a two base hit with the bases filled in the first inning, when the Sailors scored their first four runs.

Walter Lanfranconi, once the property of the Chicago Cubs, pitched for the losers and yielded 14 hits.

The Bluejackets left for Toronto, Canada, immediately after the game to meet the Chicago Cubs in a double header today. Score:

HEIR'S 'LOVE ME, NOT MY MONEY' WIFE HUNT TOLD

Genius' Partner Bares 'Romance, Inc.'

Richard M. Genius, heir to a Chicago fortune, was pictured last night as a poor, little rich boy who wanted to find a wife who would love him for his business ability alone and not his money.

Robert M. Hoffman of Barrington, who is being sued by Genius for $97,875, told the story as he took the stand in his own defense before Judge Walter J. La Buy in Circuit court. Genius contends Hoffman obtained the money by raising small checks and converting signed blank checks to his own use.

Sought "Suitable Bride."

According to Hoffman, a friendship which stemmed from a mutual interest in model railroads progressed to the point where Genius, grandson of Charles H. Morse, f under of Fairbanks and Morse company, promised him an inheritance of $150,000. In return, Hoffman testified, he helped Genius to find a "suitable, personable bride" by allowing him to invest in the Bergonize wall processing company and act as manager of branch offices thruout the country.

"Genius had two purposes in wanting to head branch offices of our company," Hoffman testified. "He wanted to have part in a business and he wanted to use his business connection to find a nice girl and settle down."

"I object if the court please," Edward R. Adams, attorney for Genius, thundered. "I cannot see what finding a wife has to do with raising checks."

Claim Money Was Gift.

Adams' objection was overruled when it was pointed out by Robert M. Golding, Hoffman's attorney, that the defense contends the questioned funds were "a gift to Hoffman for unusual services rendered."

"We had a plan in Genius' opening the branch offices at his own expense," Hoffman continued. "The plan was that he would engage the services of a young lady in the office and if she were personable he would interest her in himself as a business man and she would not know that he possessed a lot of money."

A $6,818,107 RECORD MARKS INFORMATION, PLEASE, VISIT TO CITY

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The "experts" of Information, Please played to a $6,818,107 house—a record for them—in the Civic Opera auditorium last evening. Some 3,500 persons bought war bonds in that amount and as a dividend were permitted to see and hear these mental wizards scintillate—and wallow in confusion.

Oscar Levant, the bad boy of the group, touched off the biggest laugh of the evening in answer to the question: "Who was frightened when he rode out of town?" Levant replied: "Charlie Chaplin." The correct answer, according to Clifton Fadiman: Ichabod Crane of Sleepy Hollow fame.

For this occasion these New Yorkers—Levant, John Kieran and Franklin P. Adams—apparently had "boned up" on Chicago facts and history. Or perhaps Adams remembered—he was once a Chicago newspaperman. They knew that Ring Lardner once worked for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, that George Ade and John T. McCutcheon, veteran Tribune cartoonist, worked together on "Fables in Slang," and that what's peculiar about East Chicago is that it is in Indiana instead of Illinois.

They were stumped by the question: "What Chicagoan, born in Frankstown, Pa., left Chicago in 193?" Levant ventured: "Samuel Insull—I know that he left, but when?" The correct answer: Harold Ickes.

The guest expert was Walter Yust, editor in chief of the Encyclopedia Britannica, who confessed to reading the first 22 volumes as road work for last night's ordeal.

YOUTHS RIDING TO PRISON ON STOLEN BIKES

Police Veteran Tells How to Curb Delinquency.

Advice on how to curb bicycle thefts—and reduce juvenile delinquency at the same time—was given yesterday by Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police force.

Discussinng the seasonal increase which gave Chicago 57 bicycle thefts last week, he declared that the bicycle's growing importance as a transportation facility and its status as a "priority and quota commodity a kid can't replace" increase the seriousness of the offense which is an old juvenile delinquency problem.

Hard to Identify Bikes.

Chicago's lack of license or registration regulations plus gang tactics of stealing several bicycles at a time and switching fittings make it difficult to identify recovered wheels. This is attested by the 400 unclaimed bicycles in the police department garage at 14th street and Wabash avenue.

Parents can coöperate in the drive against bicycle thieves by investigating the actual ownership of "any $3 or $4 bargain" bike offered for sale, Prendergast said.

"Wipe out bicycle thefts, and you've reduced juvenile delinquency," he insisted. "Many a boy's first larceny is a bike—easy to pick up, easy to sell."

Prendergast advised each owner—the average is between 10 and 16 years of age—to record the serial number of his bicycle. This number is stamped under the sprocket [pedal box] and as a rule paint jobs and refittings can't cover it up. Companies do not record these serial numbers on sales, he said, so it is up to the individual owner.

Chain Bikes, Police Urge.

Rogers Park police reported that boys from poorer neighborhoods have been riding into the north shore residential district on street cars and riding home on stolen bikes. Boys in that section have been advised to chain their wheels to posts while shopping. Theater owners will be asked to allow bike racks in the lobbies.

Evanston began licensing bicycles in 1940, registering 5,550 wheels. Last year, with 6,029 licensed, there were 213 thefts with 115 recoveries. In some cases, the system has made it possible for police to restore bicycles before their owners had reported the thefts.

This year, they have installed a three way file system—by license number, owner's name, and serial number. The license fees are small, 25 cents per year heretofore, and 30 cents for 1943.

The system, they say, has reduced substantially a problem aggravated by the fact that a bicycle transaction requires no bill of sale and few owners carry insurance.

DAVID E. ROSS, BENEFACTOR OF PURDUE, DIES

Lafayette, Ind., June 28 [Special].—David E. Ross, 71 years old, inventor and manufacturer of the widely used Ross stearing gear for automobiles and trucks and long time benefactor of Purdue university, his alma mater, died here today after a year's illness.

He was co-donor with George Ade, Indiana humorist, of the Ross-Ade stadium at Purdue and he gave the university two large farms and later 160 acres near the campus for a university airport, among other gifts.

The death of Mr. Ross disclosed today that Ade is ill. An attendant at the Ade home in Brooks, Ind., who said Ade was too ill to comment on the death of Ross, explained that the humorist had been ordered to bed Saturday "in a state of near exhaustion."

Ross had been a member of the board of trustees of Purdue since 1927 and was president of the board for some years. In 1938, 45 years after his graduation from Purdue, he was honored by alumni at a banquet at which John T. McCutcheon, a Purdue alumnus and famous Chicago Tribune cartoonist, was toastmaster. Ross had been general manager of the Ross Gear and Tool company.

GEORGE HASLER.

PASTOR PRAYS AS COURT MELEE ENGULFS HIM

Mother and Son Held on Contempt Charge.

All was peaceful yesterday in Judge Victor Kula's Municipal jury courtroom until the case of Andrew Ridderhoff, real estate dealer of 7037 Halsted street, was called. Then the atmosphere changed.

Mrs. Louise Hasler, 57 years old, 220 West 59th place, had charged Ridderhoff with disorderly conduct. She testified he drew a nickel plated revolver and threatened to shoot her on June 5 in an argument over a mortgage.

Peaceful Hearing.

Ridderhoff produced a group of character witnesses, among them the Rev. J. J. Althuis, 7146 Emerald avenue. They testified he was a good citizen. Then Ridderhoff produced a nickel plated notary seal and said that was what Mrs. Hasler thought was a gun. He admitted the argument, but said she was hysterical and unladylike, and that he'd ordered her out of his office. The court discharged the real estate man and both parties moved toward the door.

There, as Ridderhoff was passing over the threshold, Mrs. Hasler's son, George, 27, a railroad fireman, leaped upon Ridderhoff's back. Half a dozen on each side joined in.

Riotous Aftermath.

The Rev. Mr. Althuis, praying loudly, was in the center, trying to protect himself from errant blows. Ridderhoff's glasses flew into the air. A moment later he went down, cut and bleeding. Mrs. Hasler was scratching and screaming. Other women screamed loudly, too. Bailiffs and policemen rushed to the group. They pried the combatants apart, lifted Ridderhoff to his feet.

All were taken back before the bench. There the Rev. Mr. Althuis placed a charge of disorderly conduct against Mrs. Hasler. Ridderhoff placed a similar charge against George Hasler. The court held both mother and son in contempt.

Mrs. Hasler and her son were taken to the bullpen back of Judge Kula's courtroom to await some one to sign $250 bonds for each. Mrs. Hasler will be examined by Dr. William H. Haines of the county behavior clinic. The disorderly charge will be acted upon July 1; the contempt proceedings July 8.

HE GETS BOMBED EVERY DAY—IN OWN BACK YARD

Birds that are blue may be an inspiration to the poets and picture painters, but they're just a pain in the head to John Toigo, 603 West 115th street. He has the scars to prove it. Toigo said yesterday that each time he ventures into his back yard he is attacked by screaming formations of blue jays that try to take chunks out of his head.

His wife doesn't like it either, because she can't get past the back door, and their daughter, Sally Ann, 2 years old, can't go out to play. Toigo doesn't know just when the jays moved into the half dozen trees on the back lot, but ever since Sunday he knows they want the place to themselves.

Toigo, a machinist, said he appealed to Kensington police yesterday morning for permission to shoot the pests. He said they'd promised to investigate. Toigo hopes they do it soon.

POLICE CAPTAIN ORDERED TO PAY $3,000 IN ARREST

Demski Asks New Trial, or Will Appeal.

Police Capt. Frank H. Demski of the Brighton Park station was ordered yesterday by a jury in Judge Robert A. Meier's Circuit court to pay $3,000 damages for assault and battery, false arrest, and malicious prosecution. The suit was brought by Edward Spencer, 37 years old, 6140 South Sacramento avenue, a gasoline station attendant. Demski has been on the force 23 years.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Emil Broz, who defended Demski, made an immediate motion for a new trial and announced he would appeal if it was denied. Judge Meier said he would act on the motion Friday. Police Commissioner Allman, when informed of the verdict, said: "No comment."

Charges Grow Out of Raid.

Spencer, under questioning of Atty. John F. O'Toole, testified Demski struck him, knocking him into a peanut vending machine, severely cutting and bruising him, when the captain led a gambling raid on a tavern at 6241½ South Kedzie avenue, June 11, 1942. The captain then was attached to the Chicago Lawn station.

"Demski was in plain clothes," Spencer testified. "I didn't know who he was, and thought it was a disturbance. He hit me when I walked up and asked what was the matter." He added he suffered a recurrence of epilepsy as a result of his injuries and lost his position.

Broz insisted Spencer was intoxicated when he approached Demski. Spencer, he asserted, attempted to interfere with Demski in the performance of duty.

Arrested Man Cleared.

O'Toole charged Spencer was taken to the Bridewell hospital, then to the station, and charged with "assault and battery, resisting an officer, and patronizing a gambling establishment." He was discharged on June 18, 1942, and cleared of all charges, when he appeared before Judge Oscar Caplan in Municipal court.

The verdict contained a malice count so that Demski, if the verdict stands, may be jailed if he does not pay.

FDA SEEKS TO SPEED DISTRIBUTION OF NEW SUPPLY OF POTATOES

The food distribution administration made intensive efforts yesterday to speed the distribution and consumption of an unexpected surplus of new crop potatoes. E. O. Pollock, Great Lakes regional administrator of the FDA, said his organization is urging stores, dehydrators, canners, institutions, restaurants, and army authorities thruout the middle west to purchase as many potatoes as possible to avert waste thru spoilage.

A few weeks ago there was a shortage of potatoes, but production has increased 35 per cent above 1942 in the south and southwest. Yesterday 370 cars of potatoes were on track in Chicago, compared with the recent daily average of about 150, and prices have declined. Dealers reported heavy spoilage because of the hot weather and the perishable nature of early potatoes.

Pollock urged victory gardeners to leave their potatoes in the ground as long as possible since they keep better in the ground and their storage qualities will be improved.

WARNS AGAINST JOBLESS ERA OR MADE WORK

Hoffman Says Both Lead to Dictator.

A high level of employment—as much of it private as is possible—must be attained quickly when peace comes because too much unemployment for too long is a direct invitation to dictatorship, Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation and national chairman of the committee for economic development, told the Associated General Contractors of America, Inc., last night in the Drake hotel.

Paul G. Hoffman.

"Today there is general agreement on that point," he said. "Perhaps what has not been so clearly recognized is that if government furnishes too much employment for too long, the result will be similar. Regimentation will replace free enterprise, and pressures created by either too much unemployment or by too much government employment spells death to a free country."

Employment Need Canvassed.

High level employment by itself is not enough, said Hoffman. High level production in private industry is also needed. It is not likely that jobs will have to be provided for all the estimated 62 million to be in "our working-fighting force" by the end of this year, he said. Economists estimate that 58 million jobs would provide a satisfactory post-war employment level, of which approximately 2 million will be in the army and navy.

Government "at the various levels" perhaps will provide some 3 million jobs, and may provide another 3 million thru public works, he said, tho the latter figure may be optimistic.

Two points Hoffman emphasized were that private enterprise must start now to plan post-war products and markets, and that the environment in the post-war period must be favorable to the expansion of a free economy.

Home Town Planning Urged.

Immediate "home town" planning for post-war public works projects rather than waiting for action by a Washington central agency was urged by G. Donald Kennedy, vice president of the Automotive Safety Foundation. Unless cities and states adopt adequate post-war plans, the nation may experience another period of wasted billions thru federal WPA, CWA, or PWA activities, he said.

"It will be months, and perhaps more than a year, at the end of the war before business and industry can reabsorb the millions of returning soldiers and idle war workers," warned Kennedy.

"Useful and needed public works—of the type that will bring permanent benefits and will open opportunities for private enterprise—will help much to win the peace."

"It is too late now to be indulging in the luxury of long range dreams. It is time for short cuts, for picking out a chunk of our dream and blueprinting it."

Kennedy asserted that yearly national income must be maintained at about 140 billion dollars "to provide enough jobs to avoid an economic and social crisis." About 16½ billions of this would be public and private construction.

Construction Moves Abroad.

A protracted period of reconversion after the war was forecast by Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator, with the possibility of "rather large-scale unemployment until the reconversion process is completed."

War construction, like millions of troops, is moving overseas, said Brig. Gen. C. L. Sturdevant, assistant chief of army engineers. Volume of war construction at home this year will be only 30 per cent of last year's 5 billion dollars.

Telling how thoro preparation has aided victories in North Africa, the Pacific, and elsewhere, he said construction jobs in war theaters are large and varied, and require both skill and ability to fight.

Air fields in Africa were constructed faster than the air forces could occupy them, he said. At one time the army engineers constructed five air fields in 72 hours.

Two Industrial Stock Issues Go on Market

Close U.S. Loan Today

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—The treasury's latest financing campaign—a 2½ billion dollar offering of 1½ per cent notes—will last only two days. The securities went on sale today, and by night Secretary Henry Morgenthau said subscription books would be closed tomorrow. Results of the offering probably will be announced July 6.

Signs of new activity appeared yesterday in the market for new corporation securities, in which an upsurge this summer is expected. Two stock offerings, each in excess of a million dollars, were announced for today, and preliminary plans for a 45 million dollar bond refunding program were placed before the securities and exchange commission by Northern Indiana Public Service company.

One of today's offerings is the unexchanged portion—about 18 per cent—of the 91,317 shares of new $4.25 cumulative preferred stock of Beatrice Creamery company which recently had been offered to holders of the outstanding $5 preferred on a share for share exchange basis.

Glore, Forgan & Co. heads the underwriting group for the Beatrice offering at $102.50 a share. Proceeds will be applied by the company to redemption on Oct. 1 of all the remaining $5 preferred.

Offer Gar Wood Common.

A syndicate headed by Emanuel & Co. is offering 200,000 shares of $1 par value common stock of Gar Wood Industries, Inc., at $5.87½ a share. Proceeds will be used to redeem the company's 5 pen cent cumulative preferred at $10 a share.

Northern Indiana Public Service, a subsidiary of Midland United company, told the SEC that it was preparing a registration statement for 45 million dollars of first mortgage 30 year bonds to bear an interest rate of not more than 3¼ per cent. They would be sold under competitive bidding at not less than par plus accrued interest.

Would Reduce Interest Cost.

Proceeds would be used to redeem 45 millions of 3¾ per cent first mortgage bonds due Aug. 1, 1969. The company said the refunding would reduce interest charges, was "in the public interest," and will help in meeting increased costs of operations and taxes.

Phillips Petroleum company called for redemption 7½ million dollars of its 1¾ per cent debentures at par plus interest and a premium of 2 per cent. After this redemption 7.4 millions will remain outstanding of an original issue of 20 millions. As of June 15, approximately $4,951,500 had been converted into common stock.

CELOTEX GIVES POST-WAR TASK TO CHRISTENSEN

Chris L. Christensen, dean of the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture until his resignation last Friday, yesterday was elected vice president in charge of post-war development of the Celotex corporation, Bror Dahlberg, president, announced.

C. L. Christensen.

Christensen's resignation at Wisconsin ended 12 years as dean and as director of the state's agricultural experiment station and extension service. He has been a trustee of the Farm Foundation since 1933, and recently succeeded the late Gov. Frank O. Lowden as chairman.

In addition to his post as vice president, Christensen will have charge of the corporation's extensive agricultural interests, Dahlberg said.

PREDICT BIGGER THIRD QUARTER RAIL CAR NEEDS

Equipment Decline Alarms Board.

The midwest shippers' advisory board yesterday reported that users of railroad freight cars in its five state area expect to need many thousands more cars in the third quarter of this year than they used in the quarter just ending or the third quarter of last year. At the same time the board again expressed alarm over the gradual rail equipment reduction, which it attributed to failure of the war production board to assign railroads enough material to meet their minimum maintenance needs.

The board, whose forecasts have had a high degree of accuracy in the past, estimated the third quarter requirements of shippers in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, western Indiana, and northern Michigan at 1,271,110 cars. In the corresponding 1942 period 1,194,181 cars actually were used. In the second 1943 quarter the predicted need was 1,205,630 cars. The actual count has not been completed.

Need 76,929 More Cars.

According to these figures, midwest shippers will need 76,929 more cars in the next three months than a year earlier, and 65,480 more than were expected to be used in the quarter now ending.

The problem of obtaining these thousands of additional cars was emphasized by F. A. Schleifer, the midwest board's general chairman.

"This board recently notified the office of war mobilization that the board, having repeatedly urged the release of more equipment to the railroads, will not accept responsibility for any transportation failure," he said.

In its forecast the board predicted an expected 82.7 per cent gain in shipments of petroleum and petroleum products and a 100 per cent jump in movement of fertilizers above a year ago.

Gives Comparative Figures.

Here is the board's comparison of 1942 third quarter actual loadings and the 1943 third quarter estimates, with percentages of increase or decrease:

Indicated Ford Profit for 1942 Is 11 Millions

The Ford Motor company had earnings of $10,894,861, last year, double the $5,050,142 for 1941, a balance sheet report filed with the Massachusetts tax commissioner indicated yesterday.

Because members of the Ford family own all stock in the company, publication of earnings statements is not required. Henry Ford, founder of the firm, again assumed its presidency recently because of the death of his son, Edsel.

Surplus Rises to 623½ Million.

The company's profit and loss surplus amounted to $623,573,392, on Dec. 31, 1942, compared with $612,678,531 at the end of 1941. Total assets were $813,079,879, against $718,660,357 a year earlier. Capital stock was stated at $3,452,900.

The annual certificate of condition is only an indication of the company's financial operating results for the year and provides the public with its one glimpse of Ford's financial position.

The Wilson Jones company, Chicago manufacturer of loose-leaf notebooks, reported net profit was $240,960, equal to 91 cents a common share, in the nine months ended May 31, against $434,677, or $1.63 a share in the corresponding period a year earlier.

DRIVE FOR EXTRA 2 MILLION TONS OF STEEL OPENS

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—An effort to ferret out idle steel supplies held by large manufacturers was started by the war production board today in connection with its drive for an extra 2 million tons of steel in the next six months.

Steel division officials, aided by WPB regional officers, will work with consumers to see whether they have steel supplies on hand that can be used without retarding production instead of getting new shipments from steel mills in the third and fourth quarters.

"If the move is successful additional allotments can be authorized immediately for other war users of steel."

Production Is Reduced.

New York, June 28 (AP).—Steel operations this week will drop to 1,563,700 tons, the lowest rate for any week in two years, because of reduced coal supplies incident to the recent mine suspension, the American Iron and Steel Institute said today.

People and Events

Robert T. Wright has been appointed assistant regional administrator of the Chicago office of the securities and exchange commission. Wright was employed by the SEC in 1935. Later he was assigned to the Chicago office, where he has been engaged in the investigation and prosecution of violations.

Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation, has been elected a director of the United Air Lines Transport corporation.

Nine affiliated groups of the Purchasing Agents' association met last night in the Hotel Sherman to hear details of the new control materials plan outlined by WPB representatives.

Arthur Doern, associated for 20 years with Norris and Kenly, New York Stock exchange members, has been admitted to partnership in the firm.

CANADA TO CUT JULY NEWSPRINT FOR U. S. 13 PCT.

MONTREAL, Que., June 28 (AP).—Newsprint Administrator Guy Z. Hoult announced today that instructions had been sent to Canadian newsprint manufacturers which, in effect, would cut July deliveries to the United States 13 per cent below the amounts ordered.

The statement emphasized that the order "is obviously an expedient applicable to July orders only, pending the operation of a plan of distribution" which the WPB of the United States is preparing to cover future orders for newsprint in Canada.

Hoult said that United States newsprint orders for July, at 240,000 tons, "again substantially exceed the total deliveries of 210,000 tons that Canada has agreed to supply to the United States each month thru the third quarter of 1943." He said WPB was working on a plan which it was hoped would be ready by July 15 which would result in United States orders totaling not more than 210,000 tons monthly from Canadian mills.

HALSEY AND OTIS ASK ICC TO BAR RAIL BOND ISSUE

New York, June 28 (AP).—Halsey Stuart & Co., Inc., and Otis & Co., investment companies, contended today the interstate commerce commission should decline to approve the offering of $28,483,000 of 3¾ per cent Pennsylvania, Ohio and Detroit railroad bonds at 101¾. The bonds, offered June 25 by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. subject to ICC approval, were guaranteed by the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

Halsey, Stuart and Otis entered their protest in a telegram to M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania and to George H. Pabst Jr., president of the subsidiary road, saying the ICC should decline to approve the transaction "in the interests of the stockholders." The two firms offered better terms, they said.

MACHINE TOOL BUILDERS FACE BIG LETDOWN

Market Saturated, Survey Indicates.

The machine tool industry, one of the key industries expanded extensively in the war production program, may find its market saturated for many years after the war, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago said yesterday in a study of the outlook for machine tool manufacturers. It asserted there is no likelihood the industry can operate in peace time on a scale comparable with current schedules.

"The United States government alone reportedly owns machine tools equivalent to 10 years' normal output of the industry," the bank said. "Some estimates indicate that the machine tool industry has satiated its principal markets for perhaps a quarter of a century, or at least until 1960."

Business Comes by Cycles.

One of the determining factors will be the extent to which war time machine tools can be adapted to peace time uses, it said.

The bank called attention to the cyclical nature of machine tool production, contrasting the record-breaking 1942 output of 1 billion 320 million dollars with the low mark of 25 million dollars in 1932. In 1939, the last pre-war year, output was less than 200 million dollars.

"With allowance for price increases, actual machine tool production in 1942 was 5 or 6 times larger than that of 1939," the bank said.

It reported that the trend had been downward since last December, when shipments set a monthly peak of 132 million dollars. March output was estimated at 114 millions. The bank predicted a marked decline by the end of 1943 or early 1944, but said that operations in most plants have not been reduced appreciably.

"Slowing down of operations and layoffs have not been large to date, altho a number of plants shortened their work weeks," the bank said.

Some Are More Fortunate.

"Plants in communities which do not have many other major war industries, such as Rockford, Ill., have been more fortunate in maintaining their labor forces than those in such concentrated industrial areas as Detroit."

The bank said that in the months immediately ahead most machine tools built will be for the aircraft industry. It said industry estimates indicated about two-thirds of machine tool orders outstanding were for aircraft plants.

The machine tool industry may experience a temporary boom in the period of reconversion of industries back to peace time work, but the long run chances of its being able to use the vastly expanded production facilities are not favorable, the bank asserted.

RESUME WORK AFTER STRIKE AT CHRYSLER PLANT

Detroit, Mich., June 28 (AP).—Production of guns and parts for tanks, planes, and army trucks at the Highland Park plant of Chrysler corporation, halted by a walkout this morning, was resumed on a curtailed basis late today when some second shift workers reported as usual.

Approximately 2,200 workers left their posts on the earlier shift, according to a company spokesman who charged the walkout apparently was an organized movement. He said about 40 per cent of the second shift workers reported this afternoon.

Control Over Slaughtering Is Tightened

Asks Cattle Seizure

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—Asserting it is "ridiculous that we starve for meat" while there is a "colossal surplus" of cattle on the ranches, Rep. Emmanuel Celler [D., N. Y.] said today, "the time has come for drastic action, otherwise anarchy will prevail." In a letter to Chester C. Davis, war food administrator, Cellar said that just as Davis had caused the seizure of corn to make it available to war industries, so should cattle be taken. War workers at heavy tasks must have the proteins and vitamins supplied by meats, he said.

Meat slaughtering was brought under closer government control yesterday by a war food administration announcement that all custom slaughterers—those who kill live stock for others—must obtain certification beginning July 1 from the owners of the live stock slaughtered.

The action followed an order that every local slaughterer and butcher who holds a permit to slaughter live stock for the sale of meat will be required to submit evidence by July 15 to substantiate the amount of live stock killed during the period in 1941 or 1942 on which his current quota is based.

Uniform System Sought.

The WFA is seeking to establish a more uniform system of slaughter permits and quotas and to reduce illegal market operations, which are diverting meat from legitimate channels. The certification required of custom killers must be signed by the owner and the slaughterer and contain the type and number of live stock killed and the total dressed and live weight.

Formerly, only persons who owned live stock at the time of slaughter were required to obtain permits. Operators of locker plants and city abbatoirs, who do not own the animals but operate solely on a custom basis, were not obliged to register. Under yesterday's order, if these persons are to continue operations, they must obtain a permit.

Predict Record Supplies.

The bureau of agricultural economics reported that the probable number of cattle and hogs next year will reach unprecedented highs. The bureau forecast 80 million head of cattle and 87 million hogs.

For the second consecutive year, spring farrowing in Illinois increased 20 per cent, giving the state a record spring pig crop of 6,597,000 head, the June report of the state and federal agriculture departments showed. The report said that altho a smaller number of pigs were saved per litter this year because of unfavorable weather, the 1943 spring crop was 13 per cent above a year earlier.

Reports from Illinois farmers indicate a fall pig crop of 5,155,000 head.

U. S. SUPPORTS $13.75 PRICE OF 'FAVORED HOGS'

But Heavier Kinds Slump Again.

The government yesterday kept its promise to support a price of $13.75 per hundred pounds in the Chicago stock yards for good and choice hogs weighing 240 to 270 pounds, but did so at the expense of other weights. By threatening to come into the market as a buyer of these weights the government compelled packers to maintain the floor price for the favored weights.

Packers bought the entire offering of good and choice 240 to 275 pound hogs at the one price, but demanded sharp concessions for all other weights. A scattering of closely sorted 200 to 220 pound hogs filled special small orders as high as $13.85 to $14, but the majority of 280 to 325 pounders went over the scales at $13.50 to $13.60. Some of the heaviest butchers sold down to $13.35.

Heaviest Hogs Lowest.

Declines ranged from 15 to 35 cents, with the biggest hogs and sows declining most. The average was carried down 20 cents, to $13.55, lowest since last December and only 10 cents under the lowest daily average since March, 1942. The price shows a loss of $2.40 from the 1943 high day early last April.

This price cut amounts to more than $6 a hog and has wiped out more than 250 million dollars from the value of the hogs on farms that are ready for market, exclusive of the new crop of spring pigs.

Farmers on the market with heavy hogs that they said the department of agriculture had encouraged them to raise, sold mostly from 15 to 25 cents under the "floor," and in some instances obtained prices as much as 40 cents below the support price.

One market authority said such producers are indirectly paying a "subsidy" to the man producing the favored weights, because packers discount them to offset the artificial price maintained on the 240 to 270 pound hogs.

WORSE, NURSE?

That's too bad. It's almost five months since Harry went to the hospital, and he's still a long way from being back on his feet. Meanwhile—no income . . . savings all gone . . . deeper in debt than they dare tell him.

And things could have been so different. For just a few cents a day he could have protected himself and his family with Continental accident and sickness insurance. Today there'd be a dependable substitute income to help meet heavy hospital expenses as well as regular monthly bills. It's too late for Harry to think of that—but how about you?

SENATE, HOUSE COMPROMISE ON FSA IS REACHED

Lower Chamber's Limit on Funds Stands.

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—Senate and house conferees agreed today to a compromise on the farm security administration program, narrowing down to soil conservation payments and crop insurance the differences between the two houses on the 875 million dollar agriculture department appropriations bill.

The compromise, subject to approval of both houses, came on the senate conferees' acceptance of the house action in limiting to 20 million dollars the FSA's administrative funds for the rural rehabilitation loan program and to 60 millions its borrowing authority to make new rehabilitation loans.

Senate Makes Stipulation.

The senate had voted 40 million dollars for administration and 97½ millions for new rehabilitation loans. Sen. Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.], who reported the compromise, said the senate conferees—in agreeing to the administrative funds figure—had stipulated that FSA administrators could use as much of that amount as they wished during the first four months of the new fiscal year.

He explained that this will permit operation "on a full basis" pending the outcome of house action on legislation covering the agency's whole program.

Agree on Authority Transfer.

An appropriation of 30 million dollars for loans to tenants to enable them to purchase farms has been approved by both houses and Russell reported there was no disagreement on the house's transfer of authority over the FSA program to the war food administration because the agency already is operating under the WFA.

In an attempt to reconcile remaining differences on the bill, Russell said the senate would be asked to vote again on crop insurance and house restrictions on use of 400 million dollars approved by both houses for soil conservation payments. The house had voted to liquidate the wheat and cotton crop insurance program, but the senate had provided administrative funds for continuance.

Safeway Stores Buys Nebraska Beef Company

Omaha, Neb., June 28 (AP).—Safeway Stores, Inc., has purchased the Nebraska Beef company, Omaha's largest independent packing plant, A. D. Kirkland, Oakland, Cal., vice president of Safeway, announced today. Kirkland said the plant would operate at its full capacity of about 800 head of cattle a week.

U. S. SUPPORTS $13.75 PRICE FOR 'FAVORED' HOGS

But Heavier Weights Slump Again.

entire cornbelt yesterday, swelling volume far above normal at all leading packing centers. The grain shortage was blamed for the movement. There was a general rush of stock into Chicago to put the government's floor price to a test, with the result that the yards handled the biggest Monday volume for a June since the drouth year 1934. Arrivals totaled 39,000 hogs, including directs to packers, which was 56 per cent above the average Monday receipts handled last winter. The supply compared with 19,236 Monday of last week.

Other Cities Offer Hogs.

Chicago packers faced a dilemma, when many of the smaller packing centers in Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, and Indiana were deluged with more stock than they could accept and packing plants here were offered these hogs delivered well below the $13.75 level. Some packers reported they took on some hogs turned away from the smaller packing centers at $13 to $13.10 in the country, delivered here at $13.40 to $13.50. Such hogs were similar to those they paid $13.75 for to keep the government out of the market as a buyer of live hogs.

The market in the Chicago stock yards is the only place, at which the government has promised to support prices, and guarantees the $13.75 price only for good and choice 240 to 270 pounds. The result is that the market in this area is higher on these weights than most other sections. Such markets as Omaha, Sioux City, and St. Paul reported top sales yesterday at $13.35.

Cattle Receipts Larger.

More cattle also moved to market yesterday. The Chicago yards received 14,000 head, compared with the record low total of 6,163 a week earlier, 15,778 two weeks ago and 17,514 three weeks ago. The total the same day last year was 15,973. Steers, yearlings and heifers ruled steady to 25 cents lower. Steady prices were paid for most beef cows, canners, cutters and calves. Bulls declined 10 to 15 cents.

The scant supply of sheep and lambs sold at steady prices.

Kroger 4 Week Sales Increase 13 Per Cent

Cincinnati, O., June 28 (AP).—Kroger Grocery and Baking company yesterday reported sales for the four weeks ended June 19 totaled $32,839,401, an increase of 13 per cent over the $29,018,265 for the corresponding period last year.

October Eggs Set New High; Trading Is Larger

Short covering and removal of hedges advanced October egg futures 0.30 cent a dozen to a new high of 43.50 cents on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Trading volume expanded to 16 cars.

RYE PRICE RISES TWO CENTS TO 15 YEAR RECORD

Other Grains Advance; Trade Active.

Grain prices rose again yesterday with wheat and oats adding fractions of a cent a bushel to the gains made late last week. Rye advanced about 2 cents to a new 15 year peak, and July sold at $1.00⅛. The July delivery of barley in Minneapolis gained 2 cents, 7¾ cents above last Thursday's close. Pacific coast barley prices were the highest since 1925, it was reported.

Commission houses and commercial interests were aggressive buyers of rye futures and, altho heavy profit taking was encountered on the way up, the closing was near the top. Reiteration of a department of agriculture estimate that 55 million bushels of rye may be used for live stock feed during the 1943-'44 crop year, or 30 million bushels in excess of the current crop year, had much influence on sentiment.

Wheat Closes Higher.

Hedging pressure depressed wheat early, but the market finally responded to the strength in rye and closed ⅛ to ¼ cent higher. July oats sold at 69¼ cents, but profit taking checked the bulge and the finish was ¼ cent higher.

Harvesting of winter wheat is progressing rapidly and primary receipts reflected the enlarged movement of the new grain. Arrivals aggregated 5,348,000 bushels, or 3,400,000 bushels in excess of the corresponding period last year.

Some cash corn is being allocated to industries, the commodity credit corporation reported, but Chicago handlers said they had not completed the inventory of their grain stocks, and until this done they do not expect a large movement from Chicago.

Corn Processor Aided.

The credit agency announced it had allocated sufficient corn to prevent the shutting down of the Kansas City plant of the Corn Products Refining company, and corn would be supplied to permit the reopening of the Pekin, Ill., plant next week.

It was understood that cash corn purchased by industries last March has not been shipped from the country. This was said to result from the failure of county offices of the credit agency to fill orders.

Farmers continue to refuse to sell their surplus grain.

3 Illinois Firms to Get Army-Navy 'E' Awards

The war department announced yesterday that two Chicago firms, the Automotive Maintenance Machinery company and the Eugene Dietzgen company, have won the army-navy production "E" award. The Sangamon ordnance plant, Illiopolis, Ill., also will receive the flag.

NIAGARA HUDSON REORGANIZATION PLAN SUBMITTED

All Holding Company Units Eliminated.

New York, June 28 (AP).—Earle J. Machold, president of Niagara Hudson Power corporation, said today a plan of reorganization for the system had been filed with the securities and exchange commission, calling for consolidation of its principal subsidiaries into a single operating electric and gas utility company.

Holding companies of the system would be eliminated, Machold said, and preferred and common stockholders of the various units would receive cash, preferred or common shares, and other securities at various rates of exchange.

Dividend Payment Provided.

Preferred stockholders of Niagara Hudson Power and of Buffalo, Niagara, and Eastern Power corporation would receive cash representing full payment of accrued dividends since 1942.

"Under the plan the corporate structure of the system will be greatly simplified by reducing the number of publicly held classes of stock from nine to three, the number of callable bond issues from eleven to one, and the number of system companies from 20 to a single operating company with direct subsidiaries," said Machold.

"Substantial economies can be expected from the reduced interest charges resulting from the refunding program and from the reduction in taxes and operating expenses."

Steps in Plan Outlined.

Four steps outlined for the plan were:

1. Consolidation of Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power, Niagara Falls Power, Buffalo Niagara Electric, Lockport and Ontario Power, Lockport and Newfane Power and Water Supply, Central New York Power, and New York Power and Light companies into a single operating company known as Niagara Hudson Company, Inc.

2. Acquisition by the new operating company of certain assets and stocks of subsidiaries of Niagara Hudson Power.

3. Consolidation of Frontier corporation into Northern Development corporation to put undeveloped water rights and properties in a single company.

4. Dissolution of Niagara Hudson Power, and distribution of its remaining assets to stockholders.

STOCK MARKET GAINS IN LAST WEEK EXTENDED

Prices Aided by More Good War News.

New York, June 28 (AP).—Stocks generally added to last week's recovery in today's market altho late profit taking stemmed the advance, which, during the forenoon, had put many rails, industrials and utilities up fractions to more than a point at three year peaks.

Dealings, relatively active at the start, dwindled as offerings became a bit more insistent after midday. Altho top marks were reduced, and minus signs well distributed at the close, gainers were well in the majority.

The more hopeful aspects of congressional developments, from the standpoint of Wall street, helped the utilities to come to the fore. Steels about held their own, altho giving up most of their early advantage based on the back to work move in the coal fields. Rails were supported by another batch of cheerful earnings reports for five months.

Consistently good war news again was an important market prop.

MIDLAND UTILITIES RISES.

Big advances in two classes of Midland Utilities stock, of possible significance in connection with the eventual settlement of claims between the company and its parent—Midland United—were made on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday.

Utilities 6 per cent prior lien advanced 4 points to a new high of 10½ on a turnover of 600 shares, and the 7 per cent prior lien was up nearly as much on trade of 1,200 shares. United preferred dropped ½ point to 12¼.

Attorneys identified with the extended litigation over reorganization of the companies attributed the utilities runup to speculation over the contents of a new appraisal of Utilities assets ordered by Federal Judge John Biggs Jr. at Wilmington, Del., before whom a hearing was scheduled for today.

Attorneys for the companies declined to speculate on the significance of the market action. Wide changes have not been uncommon in the several years of litigation involving the companies.

BOND PRICES RISE.

New York, June 28 (AP).—Strong demand for railroad issues sent bond market prices higher today. Advances among carrier loans ranged from fractions to about 2 points. Other groups benefited substantially by investment buying.

RETROACTIVE PAY BOOST.

Thousands of us Chicago Surface Lines workers have been awarded pay increases retroactive to June 1, 1942. The part earned in 1942 has been paid in one check without a victory tax deduction. Yet when we ask to file amended returns for 1942 the collector of internal revenue tells us that because we are on a cash basis, the increased amount awarded for 1942 services must be shown as this year's income. Is this correct?—H. D.

Answer: The commissioner of internal revenue has ruled that the employer need not withhold the victory tax on retroactive pay increases for 1942 approved by the war labor board. However, exemption from withholding at the source does not mean exemption from the victory tax. Income received in 1943 by persons reporting on a cash basis is subject to the 5 per cent victory tax as part of 1943 income even tho earned in 1942.

ENGESSER BREWING CO.

Can you tell me what progress is being made in the reorganization or liquidation of the Engesser Brewing company?—H. C.

Answer: The trustee in bankruptcy for the Engesser Brewing company has written to us as follows:

"The reorganization did not work out and the firm was adjudged bankrupt in April, 1942. The trustee has filed his final account showing receipts of $2,000, but the expenses of reorganization and bankruptcy proceedings are several times that amount. The creditors will receive nothing and of course the stockholders are just as bad off."

The bureau of internal revenue ruled that for income tax purposes, the stock became worthless in 1940. Stockholders who did not claim a deduction for this loss should file amended returns for 1940 if they wish to take advantage of the deduction.

NEW CONTROLS ARE EXPECTED ON SOME FOODS

Reports that the government is planning to reduce the American diet to levels which will involve mostly cereals and beans are groundless, J. S. Russell, assistant to the war food administrator, said yesterday. He added, however, that because of the limited live stock feed supply and because of demand, there probably will be further restrictions on "high quality" foods, such as meat, milk, dairy products, and eggs.

Russell spoke at the three day summer conference of the National Dairy council in the Edgewater Beach hotel. A. H. Lauterbach, general manager of the Pure Milk association, Chicago, and secretary of the council, asserted that a shortage of dairy products will develop as the result of "Washington theories."

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

June 28, 1943.

WEATHER undoubtedly is the most important factor regulating the sights, sounds, and events on any farm. It controls the work schedules of the farmers and their wives, regulates the type and density of the vegetation, affects the habits of the live stock, has considerable authority over the success or failure of the farm poultry flocks, and in many other ways determines the course of farm events.

Here are just a few of the rambling items noticed on a trip thru the Wheaton farm—each brought about by the weatherman's whims:

Shirtless farm workers work in the brilliant glare of the morning sun. Each day's work in the hayfields brings a deeper bronze to their arms and backs. Cartoonists who picture farmers as aged gentlemen complete with goatees, old-fashioned pitchforks, and battered straw hats are only about 25 per cent correct.

Farm Workers Are Young.

Most of the farm workers in modern hayfields are strong youngsters between the ages of 17 and 35 who can battle a hayloader all day in temperatures up to 100 degrees in the fields. There are no goatees and few straw hats—papier mache helmets have replaced the traditional farmer's headgear. Of all the cartoonists' props only the pitchfork remains in style.

The weatherman determined the haying time, and he also provided the conditions which have made the farm vegetation tall and lush. Abundant spring rains, followed by warm weather, have provided a heavy hay crop and given the weeds a head start along the farm roads. The recent warm days have brought out the wild flowers and flowering shrubs too—wild roses at the edges of the hayfields, flat-topped clusters of elderberry blossoms looking like miniature white handkerchiefs drying in the sun, the first blue flowers of the chicory plants coloring the roadsides, wild blackberry bushes and grape vines showing their miniature green fruits, the elephant-eared leaves of the compass plants, and yellow coneflowers showing their bright combination of gold and brown in the open fields.

Barn Swallows Missing.

The most unexplainable mystery of the season is the absence of the barn swallows. Each spring these handsome and acrobatic flyers dart in and out of the big sheep barn while building their mud nests on the rafters. This year none has appeared, and the remains of their 1942 homes still cling to the barn supports. This is the first year in the memory of old farm residents that no barn swallows have accepted the urgent invitation to be their summer guests, and it's probable that the weather man had something to do with their detour.

The GARDEN

TOMATO vines rarely need to be watered unless they are growing on plots which have very sharp drainage. One tendency of the novice gardener is to water the plants too often. This practice results in excellent foliage but tends to make the fruits watery and acid instead of firm and sweet. A good rule to follow is to water tomato plants only when they are not growing satisfactorily.

Persistent cultivation of the top soil around tomato plants will aid in conserving ground moisture and make watering less necessary. If the foliage does not seem to be making headway, an application of manure will aid the plants in two ways—by serving as a mulch to conserve moisture and by fertilizing.

Right now Uncle Sam is taking all our output, but when the war is over we will still be going full blast so the jobs we offer today will be good for a long time to come.
